

THE KENNEDY SOLUTION

On the 27th, April, 1961. The President of the United States of America.
John Fitzgerald Kennedy (29/5/1917----22/11/1963.)
Gave an address at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York City.
To the American Newspaper Publishers Association.
Entitled “ The President and the Press.”

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen;

I appreciate very much your generous invitation to be here tonight. You bear heavy responsibilities these days and an article I read some time ago reminded me of how particularly heavily the burdens of present day events bear upon your profession. You may remember that in 1851 The New York Herald Tribune under the sponsorship and publishing of Horace Greeley employed as its London correspondent an obscure journalist by the name of Karl Marx.

We are told that foreign correspondent Marx, stone broke, and with family ill and undernourished, constantly appealed to Greeley and managing editor Charles Dana for an increase in his munificent salary of $5 per installment, a salary which he and Engels ungratefully labeled as the “lousiest petty bourgeois cheating.” But when all his financial appeals were refused, Marx looked around for other means of livelihood and fame, eventually terminating his relationship with the Tribune and devoting his talents full time to the cause that would bequeath the world the seeds of Leninism, Stalinism, revolution and the cold war...

I have selected as the title of my remarks tonight “The President and the Press.” Some may suggest that this would be more naturally worded “The President Verses the Press.” But those are not my sentiments tonight...

I want to talk about our common responsibilities in the face of common danger. The events of recent weeks may have helped to illuminate that challenge for some; but the dimensions of its threat have loomed large on the horizon for many years. Whatever our hopes may be for the future—for reducing this threat or living with it—there is no escaping either the gravity or the totality of it’s challenge to our survival and to our security—a challenge that confronts us in unaccustomed ways in every sphere of human activity...

This deadly challenge imposes upon our society two requirements of direct concern both to the press and to the President—two requirements that may seem almost contradictory in tone, but which must be reconciled and fulfilled if we are to meet this national peril. I refer, first, to the need for a far greater public information; and, second, to the need for far greater official secrecy. But I do ask every publisher, every editor, and every newsman in the nation to re-examine his own standards, and to recognize the nature of our country’s peril. In time of war, the government and the press have customarily joined in a effort based largely on self discipline, to prevent unauthorized disclosures to the enemy, In time of “clear and present danger,” the courts have held that even the privileged rights of the First Amendment must yield to the public’s need for national security.

(1)“The very word “secrecy” is repugnant in a free and open society; and we are as a people inherently and historically opposed to secret societies, to secret oaths and to secret proceedings. We decided long ago that the dangers of excessive and unwarranted concealment of pertinent facts far outweighed the dangers, which are cited to justify it. Even today, there is little value in insuring the survival of our nation if our traditions do not survive with it. And there is very grave danger that an announced need for increased security will be seized upon by those anxious to expand its meaning to the very limits of official censorship and concealment. That I do not intend to permit to the extent that it is beyond my control...

(11) For we are opposed around the world by a monolithic and ruthless conspiracy that relies primarily on covert means for expanding its sphere of influence—on infiltration instead of invasion, on subversion instead of elections, on intimidation instead of free choice, on guerillas by night instead of armies by day. It is system which has conscripted fast human and material resources into the building of a tightly knit, highly efficient machine that combines military, diplomatic, intelligence, economic, scientific and political operations. Its preparations are concealed, not published. Its mistakes are buried, not headlined. Its dissenters are silenced, not praised. No expenditure is questioned, no rumor is printed, no secret is revealed it conducts the cold war, in short, with a war-time discipline no democracy would ever hope or wish to match.....

Today no war has been declared—however fierce the struggle may be, it may never be declared in the traditional fashion. Our way of life is under attack. Those who make themselves our enemy are advancing around the globe. The survival of our friends is in danger. And yet no war has been declared, no borders have been crossed by marching troops, no missiles have been fired.”---

(111) “It was early in the seventeenth century that Frances Bacon remarked on three recent inventions already transforming the world; the compass, gunpowder and the printing press. Now the links between the nations first forged by the compass have made us all citizens of the world, the hopes and threats of one becoming the hopes and threats of us all. In that one world’s efforts to live together, the evolution of gunpowder to its ultimate limit has warned mankind of the terrible consequences of failure, And so it is to the printing press—to the recorder of mans deeds, the keeper of his conscience, the courier of his news that we look for strength and assistance confident that with your help man will be what he was born to be: free and independent.

On June the 4th, 1963. (Five month’s before his assassination).

President John. F. Kennedy signed executive order 11110. Which gave the President the Authority to order the United States Treasury to issue silver certificates against any silver bullion, silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury. This meant that for every ounce of silver in the U.S. Treasury’s vault, the government could introduce a certificate receipt to be used as money. This followed the IMO constitution’s requirement that the Government could provide the medium of exchange and it followed the coinage act requirements. Basing the monetary system on silver and not gold was very important because silver is abundant and very difficult to control.

President Kennedy had issued nearly $4.3 billion in U.S. notes and was introducing them into circulation, with a plan to continue until sufficient currency was in circulation to manage the flow of goods and services. The ramifications of this bill where enormous, President Kennedy was on his way to putting the Federal Reserve Bank of New York out of business. The private corporation today is listed in the “Dun and Brad street reference book of American Business” (North East /Region 1/ Manhattan /Bronx.)

When enough of his United States Notes were in circulation he would eliminate the Federal Reserve.

Executive Order. 11,110

AMENDMENT OF EXECUTIVE ORDER NO 10289

AS AMENDED, RELATING TO CERTAIN FUNCTIONS AFFECTING THE DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY.

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 301 of title 3 of the United States Code, it is ordered as follows:

Section 1 . Executive Order No. 10289 of September 19, 1951, as amended, is hereby further amended- a. By adding at the end of paragraph 1 thereof the following subparagraph (j) ; (j) The authority vested in the President by paragraph (b) of section 43 of the act of May 12, 1933, as amended (31 U.S.C.821 (b),to issue silver certificates against any silver bullion , silver, or standard silver dollars in the Treasury not then held for redemption of any outstanding silver certificates, to prescribe the denomination of such silver certificates, and to coin standard silver dollars and subsidiary silver currency for their redemption.

And –

b. By revoking subparagraphs (b) and (c) of paragraph 2 thereof.

Section 2. The amendments made by this Order shall not affect any act done, or any right accruing or accrued or any suit or proceeding had or commenced in any civil or criminal cause prior to the date of this Order but all such liabilities shall continue and may be enforced as if said amendments had not been made.

John F. Kennedy.

The White House, June 4, 1963.

On June, 10th, 1932, Rep Louis McFadden who had served for more than ten years as Chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee in the House of Representatives said in an address to Congress, “We have in this country, one of the most corrupt institutions the world has ever known. I refer to the Federal Reserve Banks. Some people think that the Federal Reserve Banks are United States Government institutions. They are not Government Institutions. They are private credit monopolies which prey upon the people of the United States for the benefit of themselves and their foreign customers. The Federal Reserve Banks are the agents of the foreign central banks, in that dark crew of financial pirates, there are those that would cut a man’s throat to get a dollar out of his pocket. Every effort has been made by the Federal Reserve Board to conceal its power, but the truth is the FED has usurped the Government. It controls every thing here (in Congress) and it controls all our foreign relations. It makes and breaks governments at will. When the FED was passed, the people of the United States did not perceive that a world system was being set up here. A super state controlled by international bankers and international industrialists acting together to enslave the world for their own pleasure!”

The Federal Reserve Banks:

- 1—Rothschild Banks of London and Berlin.
- 2—Lazard Brothers Banks of Paris.
- 3—Israel Moses Seif Banks of Italy.
- 4—Warburg Bank of New York.
- 5—Kuhn, Loeb Bank of New York.
- 6—Chase Manhattan Bank of New York.
- 7—Goldman, Sachs Bank of New York.

History records that on November 22, 1963 at 12.30 pm while riding in an open limousine through Dallas, Texas. President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was shot three times, by a lone gunman Lee Harvey Oswald. He was rushed to Parkland Memorial Hospital where efforts to revive him failed. From the moment the President’s limousine turned into Elm st and passed the Dealey Plaza his back was facing towards the Dallas School Book Depository from where the lone gunman Oswald supposedly shot the President. The film shot by Abraham Zapruder and his secretary Marilyn Sitzman on the Bell & Howell zoomatic shows the President being shot twice in the back, the next shot from the front hit the President on the right side of the head, the third shot tore about one third of his scarp off the back of his head jerking him backwards. The second and third shots are within 1/8 of a second of each other as they appear side by side in two frames of the Zapruder film. This explains why he is jerked forward then back. The gun, supposedly used by Oswald was a single shot bolt action Italian Mannlicher-Carcano M91/39, 6.5x52mm. Three empty cases were found in the book depository. The total time of the shootings established by the Zapruder film is 5.6 seconds.

An amazing piece of marksmanship to shoot someone in the back as he is driving away from you then reload shoot him again in the back then reload within 1/8 of a second then shoot him in the front right-hand side of his head as he is traveling away from you. It was estimated with the other bullet holes in the limousine, the three bullet wounds in the President, five bullet wounds in Governor John Connally and the bullets that struck the road no less than thirteen bullets were fired.

James Teague who was standing near the triple underpass was wounded with a bullet fragment. The bullet fragment that left the superficial wound on Teague's face had to have come from one of these three bullets, that leaves two bullets; one of them has to be the fatal headshot that killed the President, that leaves one bullet. This is where the Magic One Bullet theory comes in. The magic one bullet entered the President's back at a 17 degree angle, wound number one, it then moves upwards to leave Kennedy's body from the front of his neck, wound number two, where it waits 1.6 seconds in the air, it then turns right then left then right then left and continues into Connally's right arm pit, wound number three, the bullet then heads down at an angle of 27 degrees shattering his 5th rib and exiting him from the right side of his chest, wound number four, the bullet then turns right re-entering Connally's body at his right wrist shattering the radius bone, wound number five, the bullet then exits his wrist, wound number six, it then makes a dramatic U turn then buries itself in Connally's left thigh, wound number seven, from which it later drops out and is found in pristine condition on the stretcher in Parkland Hospital.

The Warren Commission found that Lee Harvey Oswald had fired only three shots from the book depository sixth floor.

Some of the other anomalies are-----

*JFK's body was removed from Dallas before an autopsy could be performed there.

*JFK's corpse left Dallas wrapped in a sheet inside an ornamental bronze casket.

When the corpse arrived on Air Force One at Bethesda Naval Base it was taken off in a body bag.

*The autopsy photographs of JFK's wounds differ radically from the descriptions of doctors at Parkland Hospital.

*Twenty-six trained medical personal at Parkland Hospital saw the back of the President's head blown out. Dr Peters stated that there was a large 7cm opening at the right occipital parietal area and that a considerable portion of the brain was missing almost one fifth of the back of the head was missing, the exit hole at the back of the head measured 120cm.

*Two brain specialists at Parkland Hospital Dr McClelland and Dr Kemp Clark both said that they lifted the President's head and saw a big gaping hole in the rear of the head.

The House Select Committee Report acknowledges the fact that many witnesses in Dallas saw this hole in the back of the head, but the gaping hole is not present in the contemporary photographs of the President's wounds.

*A whole tray of evidence, including what was left of the president's brain, remains missing from the National Archives.

*No interrogation records were kept for those arrested at Dealey Plaza, or for Oswald.

*An overwhelming majority of the witnesses more than 90% from the Dealey Plaza stated that they heard multiple gunshots from different directions including the grassy knoll.

*The pristine condition of the lone bullet said to be the one that stuck the President Kennedy and Texas Governor John Connally and then fell out of Connally's leg.

*Jack Ruby was seen and identified by a nurse in the Parkland Hospital were the pristine bullet was found on a stretcher.

*Hale Boggs, House majority leader and member of the Warren Commission, was killed in a plane crash in Alaska in 1972. He had begun to express public doubts about the Warren Commission's findings.

*C D Jackson, senior vice president of Life magazine, died of unknown causes in September 1964. Jackson had arranged for Life to buy the Zapruder film soon after the Dealey Plaza shooting and then locked it away. The film was not widely seen by the public until it was shown on ABC's Goodnight America in 1975.

*Oswald's description was broadcast over police radio within fifteen minutes after the assassination. No one knows how the description was obtained.

*Gary Underhill, a CIA agent who claimed the CIA was involved in the JFK assassination, died of a gunshot to the head in May 1964. His death was ruled suicide.

*Guy Banister, a former FBI agent and acquaintance of Oswald, died of an apparent heart attack in June 1964.

*Guy Banister, operated a private detective business from the office at the corner of 531 Lafayette street New Orleans. 544 Camp street New Orleans was the same building with two different entrances two different addresses, both lead to the same office upstairs Lee Harvey Oswald operated out of 544 Camp st.

*Oswald was associated with the Anti-Castro Cubans and the White Russian Group in Dallas.

*Whilst in the marines Oswald was trained to speak the Russian language at the Monterey School. He was stationed at a top secret Air force base in Japan were U2 spy flights flew over Russia. He left the marines because his mother was sick, was home three days then denounced his American citizenship. Brought a $1500 airline ticket from a $203 bank account and flew to Moscow where he meet his wife to be Marina, who's Uncle was a Colonel the Soviet Intelligence. The Russian government gave him 5000 rubles and he lived in Minsk six weeks later he was married. Six months after he arrived in Russia, Francis Gary Powers' U2 spy plane is shot down, Powers' hinted that Oswald could have given the Russian's enough data to hit the spy plane as a result of this the peace summit between Eisenhower and Khrushchev fails. He returns to the U.S. with his wife and child unheeded, within 48 hrs is given a new passport and money to travel by the State Department.

*Guy Banister's name appeared on the Articles of Incorporation for The Friends of Democratic Cuba, had someone buying trucks and vans under the name of Oswald while he was in Russia.

*Before he was in the F.B.I. Guy Banister was in the Office of Naval Intelligence, he headed the Anti Communist League of the Caribbean from his offices at 531 Lafayette st. In the summer of 1963, Lee Harvey Oswald handed out Pro Castro leaflets on Canal st. these leaflets were later found in his garage in Dallas with the address of 554 Camp st. marked on them.

*Clay Shaw, whom New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison brought to trial as the prime suspect the J.F.K conspiracy, died of cancer in 1975. Unable to prove Shaw's CIA connections, Garrison saw him acquitted in 1969. But just a year after Shaw's death, a high level CIA defector, Victor Marchetti, confirmed Shaw's ties to the CIA.

*In 1979, Richard Helms, Director of covert operations in 1963, admitted under oath that Clay Shaw had worked for the C.I.A.

*David Ferrie, a militant anti-Castro and associate of Lee Harvey Oswald and Guy Banister, died of an apparent brain embolism in February 1967. He was just about to be arraigned for conspiracy in the JFK assassination by New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison, whose investigation convinced him that the CIA was involved.

*Eladio Del Valle, a friend and political comrade of Ferrie's, was shot at close range the day after Ferrie's death Garrison had been trying to find Del Valle for questioning.

*J.A. Milteer a Miami activist who predicted an attempt on JFK's life and the capture of a scapegoat, died when his heater exploded in February 1975.

*Dorothy Kilgallen, a prominate columnist and TV personality, was ruled suicide by a drug overdose in November 1965. She had just completed a lengthy interview with Jack Ruby in prison on the JFK case.

*Lee Bowers who worked in the Railway yard behind the grassy knoll picket fence saw three cars drive into the yard on the morning the President was shot after the traffic had been stopped and park near the picket fence. The yard had been closed to traffic since 10.00 am and the last car drove in ten minutes before the President was shot. He saw two men waiting at the fence and two men in police uniforms, then heard gunshots and saw a puff of smoke. He died in a single vehicular accident in Midlothian Texas. The Coroner found that his body was in "some sort of shock" when he died.

*Rose Cheramie, a prostitute and striptease dancer in Ruby's Dallas nightclub, died in a Texas hit and run accident in September 1965. Two days before the assassination, she was taken to Moosa General Hospital were Louise Guilroy hospital director contacted state trooper Francis Fruge who worked in narcotics detail, Rose told him on the way to the State Hospital at Jackson Louisiana that she was a drug courier who had been thrown out of a car by two Cuban associates and that in Dallas the men planned to kill the President. Rose also told Fruge that she new Ruby and Oswald and had seen them together at the nightclub. Fruge confirmed that she had worked at the nightclub for Jack Ruby. Rose also told of the association with Ruby to Dr. Victor Weiss at Jackson Hospital another employee at the hospital, intern Wayne Owen told his local newspaper in Wisconsin that he and another intern were told of the plot to assassinate the President by Rose Chermie and that she had named (Jack Rubinstein) Jack Ruby's real name as one of the men involved, after the assassination Fruge had told the House Select Committee that he had demanded to see Rose again to interview her. She told him that the two men seemed to be part of the conspiracy rather than just aware of it. Fruge then had his superior Colonel Morgan called the Captain of the Dallas Police Department, Will Fritz to offer Rose as a witness to his investigation. Morgan told Fruge after the call that Fritz was not interested. Fruge also told the House Select Committee that he had found the Silver Slipper Lounge were Rose had met the two Cubans on the night in 1963 and that he had found the bartender on duty that night Mac Manuel, Fruge, showed him photographs of the suspects from Garrison's investigations. Manuel identified the two men who were with Rose that night both of these Cubans were seen at Guy Banister's office and both new David Ferrie and Clay Shaw.

*Sam Giancana, Mafia boss of Chicago, was shot dead in the basement of his home while in the Federal Witness Protection Program in June 1975. At the time of his murder, Giancana was scheduled to testify to the Senate Intelligence Committee on the CIA's alliance with the Mafia in an attempt to kill Cuban Leader Fidel Castro

*John Roselli, a Mafia Lieutenant of Giancana's was dismembered, stuffed into a oil drum and dropped into the ocean of Miami in July 1976. Roselli was the Mafia's contract man for its assassination projects with the CIA and was scheduled for a second appearance before the Senate Intelligence Committee when he was killed.

*George de Mohrenschildt, who befriended Oswald in Dallas after he returned from Russia was found dead of a gunshot wound, deemed self-inflicted, in March 1977. Two hours before his death, an investigator for the House Assassinations Committee came to interview him about the J.F.K. case, but de Mohrenschildt was not at home.

In a manuscript found afterwards, de Mohrenschildt supported Oswald's view of himself as a "patsy."

De Mohrenschildt was a member of the Dallas Petroleum Club, and was in the French Vichy Intelligence during World War 11, he could speak 5 different languages.

*Nitrate tests on the 22nd Nov. showed Oswald had not fired a gun.

*During the investigation by Jim Garrison he found that there were some 1200 documents on Lee Harvey Oswald that were classified (Top Secret) that Garrison could not access.

*Oswald was arrested in a picture theatre for the murder of police officer J.D. Tippett who was shot at 1.15, Oak Cliff a Dallas suburb. Domingo Benevides the closest witness to the shooting of officer Tippett, refused to identify Oswald as the killer and was never taken to a line up or interviewed by the Warren Commission. Aquilla Clemons saw the killer of officer Tippett and another man go off in separate directions. Mrs. Clemons was never taken to a line up or interviewed by the Warren Commission.

*The 112th Military Intelligence Group based at Fort Sam, Houston was stood down over protests from Colonel Reich before President Kennedy's visit to Dallas.

*At 12.34 pm the Washington telephone system went out for one hour.

*The photograph of Oswald that appeared on the cover of Life Magazine holding a gun, seemed that the sun's shadow is directly under his nose (midday) yet the shadow cast by his legs is at 4.00 o'clock in the afternoon, this photo was used in the public opinion court to prove Oswald guilty.

*William Sullivan, Assistant Director of the F.B.I, who handled much of the President Kennedy and Martin Luther King investigations, died in a hunting accident in 1978, shortly before he was scheduled to testify to the House Assassination's Committee.

*Charles Nicoletti, also on the House Committee's witness list, was shot three times in the back of the neck in a parking lot of a suburban Chicago shopping centre in March 1977 less than 48 hours after de Mohrenshildt's death. Nicoletti was said to be a "handler" of Mafia assassins in the CIA-Mafia plots.

*Carlos Prio Socarras, a president of pre-revolutionary Cuba, was found dying of a pistol shot in April 1977, just six days after Nicoletti was gunned down. Prio's death was ruled suicide. He too, was on the House Committee's witness list because of his alleged links to Jack Ruby and the anti-Castro Cuban militants.

*Chief Autopsist, James Humes burned the first draft of his autopsy notes and also burned the notes on which he'd based that report.

*A witness named Lenard Saslaw told the board that he overheard Dr. Frank Fink complain a couple of days after the autopsy that his notes had also disappeared.

*Admiral Kenney, Navy Surgeon General, specifically told the doctors at the autopsy not to discuss the case with anybody.

*A five part TV series, The Men Who Killed Kennedy, which first aired in the U.S on A&E cable network in 1991, provided testimony from two sources which sought to indicate that three hit men from the Corsican Mafia had been hired to do the job by the U.S. Mafia.

*Key witnesses, Charles Brehm a combat veteran, Jean Hill, Mary Moorman, S.M.Holland, Richard Dodd, James Simmons, J.C. Price, William Newman and Abraham Zapruder all said that they heard multiple shots coming from behind the picket fence on the grassy knoll in front of the motorcade. No statements were ever taken from them. (Beverly Oliver claimed that her statement was changed and that it was not her signature on the statement.)

*During his investigation New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison was handed a telex dated November 17th, 1963 by a night clerk on duty that night at the F.B.I's, office William Walter which read "THREAT TO ASSINATE PRESIDENT KENNEDY IN DALLAS TEXAS NOVEMBER TWENTY TWO DASH TWENTY THREE DASH NINETEEN SIXTY THREE. MISC INFORMATION CONCERNING INFO HAS BEEN RECEIVED BY THE BUREAU HAS BEEN DETERMINED THAT A MILITANT REVOLUTIONARY GROUP MAY ATTEMPT TO ASSASINATE PRESIDENT KENNEDY ON HIS PROPOSED TRIP TO DALLAS TEXAS NOVEMBER TWENTY TWO DASH TWENTY THREE DASH NINETEEN SIXTY THREE. ALL RECEIVING OFFICERS SHOULD IMMEDIATELY CONTACT ALL CI'S; PCI'S LOGICAL RADICAL AND HATE GROUP INFORMANTS AND DETERMINE IF ANY BASIS FOR THREAT.BUREAU SHOULD BE KEPT ADVISED OF ALL DEVELOPMENTS BY TELETYPE."

*New evidence emerged in 1991 that J. Edgar Hoover knew of a Mafia murder contract on JFK as early as September 1962 but never informed the Secret Service.

*Spotlight magazine published an article naming Howard E. Hunt who was in Dallas on the day that the President was assassinated Hunt was a C.I.A. operative and assassin as one of the shooters that killed Kennedy. Later he would lead the Watergate break-in for Richard Nixon. Hunt sued Spotlight for slander but the judge ruled in favor of Spotlight magazine.

*In 1963, Both William F. Buckley and Henry Luce were personal friends of CIA agent Howard E. Hunt. In Mark Lane's book "Plausible Denial" concerning "Time" and "Life" magazines both of which Henry Luce was the owner; Hunt was close to the powerhouses, of Buckley and Luce. In 1985, it was Mark Lane who proved in a Miami's Federal Court that Hunt was in Dallas the day the President Kennedy was murdered. Therefore, the conclusion was obvious. The CIA, with its agent Howard E. Hunt, had killed the President.

In the words of the jury's forewoman Leslie Armstrong, found on the inside cover of Plausible Denial, we read: "Mr. Lane was asking us to do something very difficult.

He was asking us to believe that John Kennedy had been killed by our own government. When we examined the evidence (for sixty-five minutes) we were compelled to conclude that the CIA had indeed killed President Kennedy. Hunt had been part of it, and that the evidence, so painstakingly presented, should now be examined by the relevant institutions of the United States Government, so that those responsible for the assassination might now be brought to justice.”

*On the 11th October 1963, (one month before his assassination) President Kennedy signed National Security Action Memorandum 263, the President approved the plan to withdraw 1,000 military personnel out of Vietnam by the end of 1963. With the view for the complete withdrawal by the end of 1965. Source Pentagon Papers, Gravel edition, Volume 2.pp769-770.

*In 1961, Colonel L. Fletcher Prouty participated in drawing up National Security Action Memorandum's 55, 56 and 57. In which President Kennedy had told General Lemnitzer Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff that the Joint Chiefs of Staff would now be responsible for all covert paramilitary action in peacetime thus ending the reign of the CIA.

*The original parade route to the Trade Mart was down Main st. it was changed on the morning of the assassination by either the F.B.I. C.I.A or someone in City Hall.

Roy Cabell was the Mayor of Dallas at the time, his brother was General Charles Cabell Deputy Director of the C.I.A. Allen Welch Dulles was head of the C.I.A. since 1953.

President Kennedy had sacked both of them after the failed Bay of Pigs Invasion. General Cabell had called Kennedy a traitor, when Cabell came to New Orleans to address the Foreign Policy Association he was introduced by Clay Shaw.

*The original parade route was to travel at 25 mph by changing it to Houston to Elm it had to slow to 10 mph to take the corner at the Dallas Book Depository.

*David Atlee Phillips rose to C.I.A. Director of Covert Operations, Western Hemisphere. And Edward Lansdale fit the description in Sam Giancana's biography "Double Cross" as "covert operation specialist's" and "top brass in military intelligence from Asia".

*They are widely accepted as key planners of John F. Kennedy's assassination. (not the people that ordered it.)

*James Files has confessed that he fired the fatal head shot from behind the grassy knoll. (The confession is available on the internet James Files JFK murder solved.)

*A Congressional Investigation from 1976-1979 found that there was a "probable conspiracy in the assassination John F. Kennedy," an recommended that the Justice Department investigate further, The files of the House Select Committee on Assassination's are locked away until the year 2029.

*Allen Welch Dulles 7/4/1893-29/1/1969 served as a State Department delegate at the 1919 Paris Peace Conference. His grandfather was John W. Dulles and his uncle Robert Lansing they were both Secretary's of State. Allen Welch Dulles became Director of the C.I.A. His older brother John Foster Dulles 25/2/1888-24/5/1953 served as Secretary of State under President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Both the Dulles brothers were partners in the Law firm Sullivan and Cromwell an international law firm that negotiated and ascribed assets of over one billion dollars to the Nazi Party in 1933 after Hitler was installed as Chancellor of Germany, their firm benefited from the Nazi regime.

* Prescott Bush was the father and grandfather George H. Bush and George W. Bush..

* Prescott Bush advised Dwight Eisenhower to stand for President.

* Prescott Bush and the Harriman's had funded Hitler.

*Prescott Bush was the major financial backer of Richard Nixon's Presidential campaign against John F. Kennedy.

*In the 1950's Prescott Bush and the Harriman's formed C.B.S. In 1963, Dan Rather made his 'career break' reporting the JFK. assassination.

*The Warren Commission consisted of –

1 The Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren.

2 Allen Welch Dulles, Former Director of the C.I.A. whom J.F.K. had sacked after the failed "Bay of Pigs" Invasion.

3 Richard Russell Jr. United States Senator.

4 Hale Boggs, United States Representative.

5 Gerald Ford, United States Representative.(And future President) who appointed (George Herbert Walker Bush) to the C.I.A

6 John J. McCloy a Former Head of Chase Manhattan Bank and former Head of the World Bank. In Oliver Stone's movie J.F.K. it is pointed out that most plausible scenario was that there were three groups of shooters in a triangulation of fire.

That would be C.I.A, Mafia and Cubans.

*The Saturday morning edition of the Melbourne Herald 23/11/1963 reads—

“Pres. Kennedy assassinated. Shot by sniper; Texan charged. Jackie cradles dying husband. A.A.P. Dallas, Texas, Fri.—President John Kennedy was assassinated today as he drove through Dallas beside his wife, Jacqueline, at 12.30 pm. A sniper shot him in the head and neck with a rifle from a window on the fifth storey of a building. Mrs. Kennedy sobbed “Oh no.” when the President slumped. She cradled her dying husband in her arms as their car raced to hospital. Police have charged a Texan, Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, with having murdered the President. Oswald had recently lived in Russia. He was questioned for 10 hours before he was charged. Police said he had not confessed. Police tipped off... Acting on a tip off, police cornered Oswald in a cinema. One of them, Patrolman Tippit, was shot dead as he ran in. The Governor of Texas, Mr. Connally, who was riding in the same car in front of the Kennedy's was wounded. Mr. Connally's wife was beside him. The President was shot in the right temple. He was waving to the people as the shots were fired... Thirty-five minutes after the shooting (in Melbourne, the time was 5 a.m. today) John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, was dead. He was 46 years old... Police Captain Pat Gannaway said Oswald worked in the building where the rifle was found. United Press International said it was a German-made 7.65 Mauser. One cartridge was left and three spent shells were scattered around.”

There is something not quite right with this and it's not that Oswald supposedly fired from the sixth floor with a Italian Mannlicher-Carcano 6.5. Or that officer Tippit was shot dead at Oak Cliff a suburb of Dallas and not the cinema.

You see, Eastern Standard Time Australia is exactly 15 hours ahead of Dallas time.

J.F.K. was shot at 12.30 p.m. Friday Dallas time--3.30 a.m. Saturday morning Australian time.

Pronounced dead at 1.00 p.m. Fri. Dallas time—4.00 a.m. Sat. morning Australian time .Officer

To this day Jim Garrison's investigation is the only official legal investigation into the murder of the United States President.

Almost immediately after the assassination of JFK, New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison had opened a quite probe of the “New Orleans” angle of the killing. Lee Harvey Oswald had been living in New Orleans on and off during the year leading up to the assassination in Dallas. Following his arrest, Oswald had been initially referred to New Orleans attorney Dean Andrews by a man using the name of “Clay Bertrand.” Garrison's investigations had established that “Clay Bertrand” was actually Clay Shaw. The probe placed Shaw, as the director of the New Orleans International Trade Mart and a board member of the (Permindex Organization.) and in the orbit of Oswald, former FBI Division Five official Guy Banister, and David Ferrie. In the spring and summer of 1963, all of these men had been in and out of Banister's private detective office at 544 Camp st. That office had served as a covert operations centre for the training and arming of Cuban exile mercenaries who continued to carry out military raids against Cuba after the failure of the Bay of Pigs invasion. Oswald the former U.S. Marine who had “defected” to the Soviet Union and had returned unimpeded to the United States was a regular visitor to Banister's office and infact had used Banister's address for a local chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee a pro Castro organization. Delphine Roberts, Banister's personal secretary had stated that Banister described Oswald as part of the covert operation: "He's with us, he's associated with the office," Banister's office was used as a supply line in Operation Mongoose from Dallas through New Orleans to Miami. Banister and Ferrie ran training camps at Lake Portchartrain to train mercenaries. On March the 1, 1967, New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison filed an arrest warrant against a local businessman Clay Shaw, charging him conspiracy to assassinate President John F. Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. By the time Garrison had filed the arrest warrant against Clay Shaw. Oswald, Banister, and Ferrie were all dead. Oswald had been shot inside the Dallas police headquarters by local mobster Jack Ruby who's real name was (Rubinstein). And back in the 1950,s in Chicago, Banister had been the special agent in charge of the FBI office, and Ruby his informant. The opening statements in the trail against Clay Shaw began on Feb 6, 1969 following lengthy jury selection. The case ultimately came down to the question of whether it could be proven beyond reasonable doubt that Clay Shaw was indeed the "Clay Bertrand" who had arranged the New Orleans lawyer to represent Oswald moments after his arrest in Dallas. A number of witnesses testified for the prosecution that they had seen Oswald, Ferrie, and Shaw together during 1963, and one witness, Perry Russo, had claimed he had been at a party where Ferrie and Shaw had discussed details of a plot to assassinate JFK, the Garrison case lacked hard proof to convince the jury beyond reasonable doubt that Shaw and Ferrie had been associates. Two pieces of crucial evidence that were never presented to the jury. The first was the booking form that was filled out at New Orleans police headquarters the day Shaw was arrested. Police officer Aloysius Habighorst, a decorated veteran of the police department, had booked Shaw on March 1, 1967. When Habighorst asked Shaw if he ever used an alias Shaw responded "Clay Bertrand". Trial judge Edward Haggerty refused to allow the booking form to be presented to the jury, and he blocked Habighorst from testifying. The other piece of evidence was a pair of photographs taken at a house party in 1949 for supporters of WDSU radio station, showing Clay Shaw and David Ferrie together. The pictures had been published in the May 1967 issue of "The Councilor", a right wing newsletter from Shreveport, Louisiana. Ironically a reporter covering the Shaw trial had copies of the pictures in his briefcase in the court room, but the incriminating photos were never presented by Garrison's prosecution team.

At the close of the defense case, Clay Shaw had taken the witness stand and lied repeatedly, under oath, that he had never met David Ferrie. Other witnesses had already testified that Ferrie had described Shaw as an "old friend."

What would the jury have done had Garrison countered Shaw's denials by producing pictures of him and Ferrie? Two years to the day after Clay Shaw's arrest and two years and one week to the day after David Ferrie's body was discovered.

Judge Haggerty charged the jury. One hour later, they returned with their verdict; Not guilty. Interviewed after the acquittal, the majority of jurors said that they had been convinced by Garrison's evidence that President Kennedy had been killed as a result of a conspiracy. However they had not been convinced beyond reasonable doubt. Before his death trial judge Edward Haggerty told WLAE-TV reporter Stephen Tyler that he was convinced that Shaw had committed perjury. "Shaw lied through his teeth," he had told the reporter. Shaw "pulled a con job on the jury."

New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison was undeterred by the jury verdict. Shortly after the acquittal, Garrison indicted Clay Shaw again, on charges of perjury. Garrison by this time had a damning case against Shaw. In a rare move, the U.S. District Court ruled that Garrison could not go ahead with the perjury prosecution, on the grounds that it constituted double jeopardy and therefore was unconstitutional.

Colonel Clay Shaw was assigned to the Office of Strategic Services Liaison stationed with the Office of Prime Minister Winston Churchill. During World War II it was there that he had met Major Louis Mortimer Bloomfield of the Royal Canadian Service Corps, where Bloomfield was detailed to the FBI to serve as the contract (recruitment) agent of its counter-espionage division, Division Five. This curious arrangement, whereby a British subject could occupy a highly sensitive position in U.S. intelligence, was made possible by Churchill's personal emissary, Sir William Stephenson, another Canadian. Stephenson oversaw the merging of certain limited wartime operations of British Intelligence with the FBI and elements of U.S. intelligence. Through such conniving the British effectively took over whole sections of U.S. intelligence and law enforcement, especially in the FBI, which had been set up under strong British influence just prior to World War I. Stephenson had, overseen all British Secret Intelligence operations in the Western Hemisphere from his base in New York City; Bloomfield was one of his agents. Sir William Stephenson had been part of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's pre-war circle, and a protégé of Lord Beaverbrook, a fellow Canadian who became the British Minister of War Supply and Churchill's key adviser on propaganda and intelligence. Following World War I, Bloomfield had returned to Montreal to resume his law practice, but continued to be Division Five's recruitment agent. His law firm, Philips & Vineberg, managed the Bronfman syndicate and has always functioned as a covert capability of British Intelligence. In late 1952, Bloomfield had become an executive in the International Law Association and also became the chairman of the Canadian subsidiary of Credit Suisse (a bank that Oliver North would later use for the Reagan-Bush administration's Iran-Contra operations), and the representative of such corporations as Israeli Continental Corp. and Heineken Breweries. He also became the Consul General for Liberia and director of the Israeli-Canadian Maritime League.

Bloomfield was the co-founder the World Wildlife Fund in Canada, and had served as its vice president from 1970 to 1978 and as a director from 1978 until his death in 1984. He was also a member of the 1001 club, an organization created in 1971 to fund the World Wildlife Fund which was created in 1961 by Prince Phillip Mountbatten, the Duke of Edinburgh and his Dutch counterpart Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands.

Both Prince Phillip and Prince Bernhard founded the 1001 club in 1971, a by-invitation-only organization, was nominally founded as a "nature trust" whose primary role was to fund the World Wildlife Fund for Nature.

In May 1945, just a few days after the end of the war in Europe, Sir William Stephenson incorporated the British American Canadian Corp. in Panama, but with offices in New York. The firm was soon renamed the World Commerce Corp. According to Stephenson's War-time aide David Ogilvy, the purpose of the firm was to "form a profitable company of merchant adventurers" composed of British intelligence veterans. Ogilvy drafted the corporate papers and became vice president. John Pepper, the head of Stephenson's wartime staff in Washington, became the firm's president. Stephenson's founding partners in the World Commerce Corp. had been former SOE director Sir Charles Hambro, and Sir Rex Benson, who had been the resident British intelligence liaison to Washington during the war. Benson had put much of the money for the firm. Both had worked closely with Stephenson during the war. He was assisted by Col. Louis Franck, the banker who had been Hambro's wartime deputy. Both Benson and Hambro later became as founder-trustees of the World Wildlife Fund. Officials of their family banks, Kleinwort Benson and Hambros, have always served as World Wildlife Fund trustees since its creation. As for Franck; he became World Wildlife Fund treasurer. It was out of the World Commerce Corp that Permindex was formed and since its inception, the World Commerce Corp. worked closely with the World Trade Mart of New Orleans, nominally to promote world trade. The founder and chairman of the World Trade Mart was Col. Clay Shaw. While Stephenson and Shaw were establishing the World Commerce Corp, and the World Trade Mart, Edward Plunkett Taylor was setting up yet another firm dedicated to world trade, Taylor had been Winston Churchill's personal representative in wartime Washington. He had been detailed to the United States from Toronto in 1940 to obtain war supplies for Britain at a time when such purchases were still illegal under U.S. Neutrality Act. Taylor worked directly under fellow Canadian Lord Beaverbrook in close coordination with Stephenson.

In 1945, Taylor was ordered to form Argus Corp, as a private, postwar continuation of his wartime procurement and intelligence staff. The firm since, was renamed Hollinger Corp.

Major Louis Mortimer Bloomfield established the Permindex Organization. (Permanent Industrial Expositions) in Montreal, Rome and Italy in the mid 1950's.

In 1956 Bloomfield incorporated Permanente Industrial Expositions, Inc, Permindex, merging the capabilities of the World Commerce Corp. (which soon formally dissolved) and Clay Shaw's World Trade Mart. In 1959 Permindex formed the Centro Mondiale Commerciale, the World Commerce Centre in Rome, as its subsidiary.

In 1962 the Secret Army Organization of Permindex board member Jacques Soustelle, a decades-long partner of Permindex board member Jean de Mendil, oversaw the assassination attempt against French President Charles de Gaulle. As a result of the De Gaulle assassination attempt Permindex's office's were expelled out of France, Switzerland and Italy and from their territories. In 1975 Bloomfield had co-authored an assassination strategy manual, (Crimes Against Protected Persons; Prevention and Punishment.) Praeger, 1975, New York.

Since World War II, SOE officer Bloomfield had served as the Liaison between British Crown Intelligence and the FBI. Under agreements struck between Winston Churchill and Franklin Roosevelt, Bloomfield had served as J. Edgar Hoover's personal adviser for the Bureau's foreign counter-intelligence, section known as Division Five. On March 16, 1967. Shortly after the arrest of Clay Shaw, the Montreal daily Le Devoir published an exposé's of Permindex, linking the company to the 1962 assassination plot of the French President Charles de Gaulle.

Two Italian daily newspapers, Paese Sera and Corriere della Sera had also covered the Permindex scandal, with the Paese Sera running a six part series on March 4, 11, 12, 14, 16, and 18, in 1967. In 1962 the Permindex networks were implicated in a mysterious plane crash and death of Italian state oil industrialist Enrico Mattei.

Among Bloomfield's founding partners in the firm were Clay Shaw, Jean de Mendil, and Hans Seligman from the prominent banking family. The firm also included several representatives of the continental European oligarchical families in alliance with the British Royal Family. Among these representatives were, Carlo d' Amelio, the attorney of the former Italian royal family, the House of Savoy, and Count Gutierrez di Spadafora, A former Mussolini minister. Giorgio Mantello who had been an operative of the Irgun, the Zionist terrorist organization formed by British agent Vladimir Jabotinsky. Jabotinsky's successor organization, the Likud Bloc was once led by General Ariel Sharon who publicly called for the Israeli military to disobey orders, and who lead the fanatical Jewish settler's movement on the West Bank, which produced the February 1994 Hebron massacre of 50 Muslim worshippers.

Another Permindex figure was Swiss-based Israeli banker Dr Tibor Rosenbaum, the first head of Israeli intelligence's financial department, who had been a heavy investor in Permindex.

Rosenbaum's Banque de Credit was used to launder Permindex money to finance the assassination of de Gaulle. Rosenbaum the conduit for Permindex funds into the OAS, was also a charter member of the 1001 club.

Another charter member of the 1001 club was the chairman Hollinger Corp. (Telegraph PLC) publisher Conrad Black with connections to London – Daily Telegraph, The Spectator, J.O. Hambro, British Air, Barclay's Bank, N.M. Rothschild. Canada—Unimedia, Financial Post, Reichmann International, Bank of Commerce, Edper- Bronfman, Canadian Imperial. Israel—The Jerusalem Post. United States—Chicago Sun Times, 80 Daily U.S. News papers, Kissinger Associates, ADM, National Review. Australia—John Fairfax Holding, The Age, Financial Review and the Sydney Morning Herald. Italy—Fiat. Hong Kong—Jardine Matheson. Among Hollinger corp. Key figures were Rupert Hambro from SOE banking family; Sir James Goldsmith a top British intelligence officer and leading controller of the World Wildlife Fund; Henry Keswick whose banking family has always played a dominant role in the WWF. Another Permindex board member was Israeli businessman, Don Begun, living in New York he had married into the Warburg banking family, at the time of his recruitment to Permindex Begun was primarily the U.S. representative of the Labor Zionist party, while covertly serving as an Israeli intelligence officer. His closest associate, Amnon Barness, was an Israeli intelligence officer stationed in Los Angeles. Begun and Barness were among Permindex's most successful fundraiser's who courted the wealthy U.S. Zionist community. In 1960, Barness formed the Daylan Co. A Los Angeles pharmaceutical Company.

The firm later employed the former chief of Mosad operations in Europe, Rafi Eytan, who subsequently became head of the specialized Israeli intelligence agency "Terror against Terror". And once oversaw the Jewish Defense League.

John.F. Kennedy's investment tax credit for industrial development; his face down of J.P. Morgan's steel price increase; his order for the Treasury to print non-Federal Reserve U.S. currency; his Apollo Moon Landing Program; his commitment to overwhelming U.S. technological and military superiority, combined with his co-operation with the Soviets for Third World development, not "balance of power" wars; his decision to take retired General Douglas MacArthur's advice and get out of Vietnam trap;

All of these lit the City of London fuse for his assassination.

Like President's Abraham Lincoln 1865, James Garfield 1881, William McKinley 1901 and President's Zachary Taylor and William Henry Harrison before them.

President John.f. Kennedy was assassinated by the Financial Oligarchy which has ruled the world down through the centuries, described as the Money Power it is centered in the privately owned Corporation or Sovereign State known as "The City of London " or City, which is not part of England. It is situated inside the old Roman walls of London. It is not subject to the Sovereign .It is not under the rule of the British Parliament it is a separate independent state. Which has enjoyed special rights and privileges since the time of William the conqueror in 1066, who first brought the Jewish bankers to London from France the Jews developed written credit agreements for the King, In French called ("mort-gages" mort 'death'- gage 'bond') and it was the marshal's and sheriff's jobs to ensure that all interest payments of these "death bonds" were paid to the Jews on behalf of the King. During the reign of Richard 1 (the Lionheart) after the serious downturn in the economy as a result of the cost and tax impositions of the Crusades, many farmers, business people and peasants had defaulted on their mort-gages through-out England. As the result, the Jews promptly commenced seizing the commoner's property for not paying the interest, rates and taxes to the city and King. Subsequently, a rapid increase in the hate against the "King's Jews" was initiated. This led to the massacre of Jews at York in 1190.

New York in the United States was later named by British Jewish immigrant bankers in memory of that event. For 100 years the commoner's hate against the "King's Jews" fermented until 1290, when, under pressure from the people, Edward 111 finally suspended the Mayoralty and reluctantly banished all Jews from his Kingdom when 16,000 left England and didn't begin to return until around the reign of Elizabeth 1, 1558-1603. In the middle of the 13th century, Venetian Bankers had began to trade in Government Securities. In 1351, the Venetian Government outlawed spreading rumors intended to lower the price of Government funds. These were people from Pisa, Verona, Genoa and Florence who had also began trading in Government Securities during the 14th century, this was only possible because these were independent city states ruled by a council of influential citizens not by a Duke. Under Emperor Domitian there was a great exodus of the Jews from Italy to Spain. When the Goths over-ran Spain they found Jews established in all its cities, enriching themselves by finance and engaged in a lucrative trade of exporting Spaniards into slavery. In the eighth century the Moors invaded Spain, says the "Jewish Encyclopedia," "it remains a fact that the Jews, either directly or through their co-religionists in Africa, encouraged the Mohammedans to conquer Spain." All over Spain they opened the gates of the cities to the Arab conquerors. It was estimated that by 1450 there were about 200,000 professing Jews in Spain and about 2,000,000 converted Jews, nominally Christian and occupying high office in the church and state alike, and virtually ruling Spain. Moor and Jew were driven from Spain at the end of the fifteenth century, and in 1609-11 there was an expulsion of the Conversos or Marranos, as the Christianized Jews were called. The expelled Spanish Jews settled in large numbers in the Netherlands, which after their arrival arose as the leading financial and money lending centre of Northern Europe. In 1602, The Dutch East India company was founded. It was the first-ever Multi-national corporation, financed by shares that established the first-ever stock exchange. This company received the monopoly on the Asian trade. To finance growing trade within the region the Bank of Amsterdam was established in 1609, as the first central bank. In 1619, The Netherlands began the slave trade between Africa and America by 1650, it was the pre-eminent slave trading country in Europe a position taken over by Britain around 1700. On May 17th 1792, in order to more easily trade cotton picked by slaves, twenty four supply brokers signed the Buttonwood Agreement outside 68 Wall st New York underneath a buttonwood tree. On March 8th 1817, the properties were renamed to the New York Stock and Exchange Board. Mr. J. Ellis Barker in his book "Rise and Decline of the Netherlands." 1906: "Looking only after their commerce and their capital, largely invested abroad, the Dutch oligarchs ultimately allowed the Dutch industries, and even those industries which are the foundation of national strength, to decay, and the Dutch working population to emigrate to foreign countries."

Saint George Patron Saint of England The Cross of St George.

The cross of Saint George, a red cross on a white field it is on the British flag and it is in the corner of the Australian flag. It has absolutely nothing to do with any British monarch and its origins have absolutely nothing to do with anything British at all. The Saint George cross has been adopted on the coat of arms and flags of several countries and cities which have St George as a patron saint Genoa, Greece, Aragon, Barcelona, and England. It is also on the provincial flags of Zaragoza, Huesca and Teruel as well as on the Municipal flags of Genoa, Padua, Zadar, Almeria, Milan, Freiburg and Montreal. It is also the basis of the Four Moors flag of Sardinia and Guernsey was permitted to use it as its state flag between 1936-1985.

When Roman Emperor Constantine (272AD—337AD) adopted Christianity as the state church he appointed George of Cappadocia, Bishop of Alexandria as head of the Roman Church. It was Georges' feat of slaying a dragon that earned him the title of Saint. A feat, that today would be scorned upon (endangered species). During the first crusades (1095) the Pope decided that the Knights from different nationalities should be distinguished by different colours of the cross. French knights were allocated the red cross on white. English knights complained about this, since they considered this to be their cross. In 1188, the French King, Phillip 11 of France accepted the claim of the English to be red on white, and the English and French officially exchanged their respective crosses. However by this time, the red cross on white had become a typical crusader symbol. The St. George's flag, a red cross on a white field, was adopted by England and the City of London in 1190 for their ships entering the Mediterranean for the benefit from the protection of the Genoese Fleet during the crusades. The English Monarch paid an annual tribute to the Doge of Genoa for this privilege. The monies that were gathered through out Europe for the first crusades were sent to Venice, they were gathered by Venetian Bankers who intern launched the crusades from Venice. By the end of the Fourth crusade (1204) Venice had replaced the Byzantine Empire with its own Empire. Venice then controlled all the exchange of gold and silver in the territories that it controlled and the exchange could only be done in Venice itself. It controlled the trade routes into Persia, India and China. The Venetians' recruited Ganges Khan to invade China which he looted for the benefit of the Venetian bankers. The House of Vecchi which is in St Marks' Square was the biggest bank in the world at the time. The House of Nouvi which is also in St Marks' Square, would later be controlled by Paulo Sarpi.

“THE GLORIOUS REVOLUTION of 1688”

Supposedly the date of the founding of “The Westminster System” William of Orange (Dutch Prince) also called William Henry, Dutch Willem Hendrik born at The Hague, November 4th 1650, invaded England with 40,000 men and 463 ships and seized the British throne on behalf of Venice and its allies among them a small group of powerful English titled families along with seven other signatory’s wrote to William of Orange asking him to invade England. “The people are so generally dissatisfied with the present conduct of the government in relation to their religion, liberties and properties.....people throughout the kingdom who are desirous of a change and who, we believe would willingly contribute to it.....Your Highness that you believe you can get here time enough, in a condition to give assistances this year sufficient for a relief under these circumstances which have been now represented, we who subscribe this, will not fail to attend your Highness upon your landing and to do all that lies in our power to prepare others to be in as much readiness as such action is capable of, where there is so much danger in communicating an affair of such a nature till it be near the time of its being made public.” 1688.

The Leadership of the English Traitors.

List of Signatory’s Charles Talbot, Earl of Shewbury. William Cavendish, Earl of Devonshire. Thomas Osborne, Earl of Danby. Richard Lumley, Lord Lumley.

Henry Compton, Bishop of London who’s descendant would go on to be Head of British Freemasonry and controller of the Temple Mount in the Middle East.

Henry Sidney, and Edward Russell his descendant Bertrand Russell. On his arrival William of Orange was met by Charles Montague 1st Earl of Halifax, Baron Betinick and Lord Churchill 1st Duke of Marlborough (John Churchill) who read this out---“I owe it to God and to my country to put my honor into the hands of your Highness”. Some historians have stated that this was an act of high treason. John Churchill’s descendant would later go on to be Prime Minister. Most of the war ships were provided by the Admiralty of Amsterdam. William received funding from Pope Innocent XI (born Benedetto Odescalchi), “The City of Amsterdam” and Jewish Merchant Francisco Lopes Suasso (real name-Abraham Israel Suasso) In November 1688, Lopes Suasso was contracted by Amsterdam’s states Receiver- General Cornelius de Jonge van Ellemeet to advance an initial 188,000. guilders in local currency, via Hamburg to be paid within ten days to the governor of Swedish Pomerania to finance the transportation of 6,000 hired Swedish troops to Dutch territory.

The Glorious Revolution accomplished several Venetian goals.

1. It seized control over national finances from the monarchy and centered them in the Parliament for which only 180,000 Englishmen could vote, which was a front for a handful of “great Whig families” known as the Venetian Party.
2. Within six months of the invasion, England launched a series of wars against France culminating in the “Seven Years War”.
3. It founded the Bank of England in 1694 as a privately owned and controlled bank which to this day is the apex of monetarist imperialism.
4. It founded the “New East India Company”, which swallowed up the existing “Old East India Company, whose directors were closely allied to the Stuarts.
5. Despite the war with France the Venetian Party called in all coin of the realm for re-coinage, bankrupting anyone who did not have access to credit from the Bank of England and freeing up silver for the East India Company to Asia. The re-coinage was overseen by Master of the Mint, Sir Isaac Newton and his Chief Theorist of 1688 John Locke who was one of the largest investors in the Royal African Company, the monopoly of the slave trade.
6. Upon the death of William 111, Queen Anne (daughter of the ousted James 11) ruled from 1702-1714 when upon her death, the Venetians orchestrated another foreign takeover of England with the ruling family of Hanover, then known as the “Venice of the North”, beginning with George 1. They initiated the dynasty which still rules the British Empire today.

This cabal which British Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli 1804-1881, grandfather helped build up London as the new world capital of monetarist imperialism. He was a Jewish merchant who immigrated to London after the Seven Years War. The 1688 revolution established the Dutch-Anglo oligarchy of today, typified by British Prince Phillip and the Dutch Prince Bernhard co-founding the World Wildlife Fund in 1961. And in numerous Anglo-Dutch financier and raw material cartels such as Royal Dutch Shell.

In 1688, a Dutch prince ascended the throne of Britain, after he invaded England six years later the principles of Dutch finance (or more correctly, Jewish finance) were introduced by the establishment of the Bank of England on the lines of the Bank of Amsterdam. The Bank was founded for the purpose of lending money to the Crown, and with it was inaugurated the National debt, and now universal credit system of interest-bearing debt as the basis of British commerce, industry and now in the world known as "Capitalism."

In the Sisson report of the American Committee on Public Information, of which a summary appeared in the London "Times" of October, 1918, are Photostat reproductions of many documents showing that the Bolsheviks were financed by leading Jewish-controlled German banks. Lenin and other revolutionaries were allowed to pass through Germany from Switzerland to Russia by the German Government on "The Sealed Train" financed by Max Warburg 1867-1946 was as his role of Chief of Intelligence in Germany's Secret Service a major financier of the Russian Revolution. Trotsky and many other Jews proceeded to Russia by steamer from New York. They were arrested at Halifax, Nova Scotia, by the British Navy, but released and allowed to proceed at the request of the United States Government. In his memoirs "Through Thirty Years" (Heinemann, 1924) Mr. H. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times at the time of these events, named the two principal Jewish Financiers who financed the Federal Reserve system as "akin to, if not identical with" the men who shipped Trotsky and his fellow revolutionaries to Russia.

(Paul Moritz Warburg 1868-1932 and his brother Felix 1821-1937) immigrated to the United States in 1902 from Frankfurt, Germany. Buying into the partnership of Kuhn, Leob and Co. With the financial backing of the Rothschild's. They had been trained at the family banking house M.M. Warburg 1838-1910 a Rothschild-allied bank in Frankfurt, Hamburg and Amsterdam which was founded in 1798 by their great grandfather Paul Warburg. Their brother Max Warburg ran the Hamburg bank and was Chief of Intelligence in Germany's Secret Service. Hitler changed the name of the bank to Brinkmann Wirtz and Co. After World War 11, a cousin, Eric Warburg returned to head it in 1970 its name was changed to M. M. Warburg, Brinkmann, Wirtz & Co. Sigmund Warburg, Eric's brother, established the Banking firm of S.G. Warburg & Co. In London and in 1956 it had taken over the Seligman Brother's Bank. By the start of World War 1, Paul Warburg's firm of Kuhn, Leob and Co. had five representatives on the U.S. Treasury Department and in charge of Liberty Loans which helped finance World War 1 for the United States, while his brother Max financed Germany through M.M. Warburg and Co.

At the 1919, Versailles Peace Conference Paul Warburg was advising on behalf of the Allied side and his brother Max Warburg was advising on behalf of the German side.

Mr. Victor. E Marsden, London "Morning Post" correspondent in Russia at the time of the Bolshevik revolution in 1917, compiled a list after the revolution of 545 early Bolshevik officials. Of these 454 were Jews, and only 23 genuine Russians, the remainder comprising Letts, Armenians, Germans, Finns, Poles, Gergian, Karaim, Immerceian, Hungarian, and Czech, the full list of names was published in the "Reavealer" Wichita Kansas on August,15, 1934. With the assumed names adopted by them to hide their racial origin as far as possible.

SECRET SOCIETIES

In Bavaria, 1784 when an emissary of a previous unknown Society of the Illuminati was stuck dead by lightning while on a journey bearing secret papers. These passed into the hands of the Elector of Bavaria, who by searches and arrests gathered more information. The Society of the Illuminati was founded by Adam Weishaupt, the son of a Jewish Rabbi he was a University Professor and Satanist. In 1783 the investigations into its antecedents did not penetrate any further back than Weishaupt, but in the other direction later investigation shows it linking up with the numerous other secret organizations connected in the French revolution. The basic plan of the Illuminati was “to overthrow monarchies and the disruption of the existing order of society. This was to be accomplished by means of economic crisis, spiritual demoralization, moral corruption and assault on religion and government and abolition all property rights whatsoever.”

On the ruins patriarchal rule was to be established. Duke Karl Theodore Dalberg, the Elector Palatinate of Bavaria issued a proclamation identifying the Illuminati as branches of the Masons, and ordered that their lodges be shut down. The Government began a war against the Order by initiating Judicial Inquiries at Ingostadt. Weishaupt fled across the border into Regensburg settling in Gotha, where he found refuge with fellow Illuminati member the Duke of Saxe Gotha. The inquiries found 6 main aims of the Illuminati.

1. Abolition of the Monarchy and all ordered government.
2. Abolition of private property.
3. Abolition of inheritance.
4. Abolition of patriotism.
5. Abolition of the family, through the abolition of marriage, all morality and the institution of communal education.
6. Abolition of all religion.

The purpose of these points was to divide and conquer the people politically, socially and economically as to weaken the countries.

The Illuminati operated behind the screen of Grand Orient Freemasonry by the creation of additional degrees in Masonic lodges. The initiates in lower degrees were given false information as to the objectives sought, but with each step upward, as their capacity for revolutionary work was tried and tested, more of the real secret was revealed. By organization along these lines an invisible government was to be created, and an immense body of people roped in to assist in the furtherance of ends and purposes of which they knew nothing, the directors of the organization being concealed from, and unknown to, all but a few of the adepts of high degree. After the Bavarian Illuminati were exposed, the central occult power over European secret societies shifted to Carbonarism, Alta Vendita lead by Karl Rothschild. The Masonic Reference book 10,000 Famous Free Masons, Vol.4, p.74. indicates that two other sons of Amschel were masons, James Meyer and his brother Nathan Meyer. James in Paris was 33 degree Scottish Rite Mason and Nathan in London was a member of the Lodge of Emulation. Solomon Meir Rothschild was initiated into Freemasonry on June, 14, 1809.

Johann Christian Ehrmann, a gentile mason in Frankfurt, 1816, produced a pamphlet, (Das Judenthum in der Maurerey) Jews in Masonry, warning the German people that the Frankfurt Jewish Masons wanted (a world republic based on humanism.)

In 1489, A.D. Chemor, Jewish Rabbi of Arles in Provence, wrote to the Grand Sanhedrim, which had its seat in Constantinople, for advice, as the people of Arles were threatening the synagogues. What should the Jews do? This was the reply:

“The advice of the Grand Satraps and Rabbis is the following:”

1. “As for what you say that the King of France obliges you to become Christians: do it, since you cannot do otherwise, but let the law of Moses be kept in your hearts”.

2. “As for what you say about the command to despoil you of your goods” (the law was that on becoming converted, Jews had to give up their possessions); “make your sons merchants, that little by little they may despoil the Christians of theirs.”
3. “As for what you say about making attempts on your lives: make your sons doctors and apothecaries (druggists) that they may take away Christian’s lives.”
4. “As for what you say of their destroying your synagogues: make your sons canons and clerics (priests and ministers) in order that you may destroy their churches”.
5. “As for the many other vexations you complain of: arrange that your sons become advocates, lawyers and judges, and see that they always mix themselves up with the affairs of state to control politics and government, in order that by putting Christians under your yoke, you may dominate the world and be avenged on them.”
6. “Do not swerve from this order that we give you, because you will find by experience that, humiliated as you are, you will reach the actuality of power.”

Signed V.S.S.V.V.F. Prince of the Jews.

The Protocol of 1869

The Fatal Discourse of Rabbi Reichhorn. Which was pronounced in Prague in 1869, over the tomb of the Grand Rabbi Simeon-ben-Ihuda.

Originally written in Hebrew.

*1 Every hundred years the we, the sages of Israel, have been accustomed to meet in Sanhenrin in order to examine our progress towards the domination of the world which Jehovah has promised us, and our conquest over the enemy—Christianity.

*2 Simeon-ben-Ihuda, we can state with pride that the past century has brought us very near to our goal, and that this goal will very soon be attained.

*3 Gold always has been and always will be the irresistible power. Handled by expert hands it will always be the most useful lever for those who possess it, and the object of envy for those who do not. With we can buy the most rebellious consciences, can fix the rate of all values, the current price of all products, can subsidize all State loans, and thereafter hold the States at our mercy.

*4 Already the principal banks, the exchanges of the entire world, the credits of all governments, are in our hands.

*5 The other great power is The Press. By repeating without cessation certain ideas, the press succeeds in the end in having them accepted as actualities. The theatre renders us analogous services. Everywhere the Press and the Theatre obey our orders.

*6 By the ceaseless praise of DEMOCRATIC RULE we shall divide the Christians into political parties, we shall sow our discord everywhere. Reduced to impotence, they will bow before the law of OUR BANKS, ALWAYS UNITED, AND ALWAYS DEVOTED TO OUR CAUSE.

*7 We shall force the Christians into wars by exploiting their pride and stupidity. They will massacre each other, and clear the ground for us to put our people into.

*8 The possession of the land has always brought influence and power. In the name of social justice and equality we shall parcel out the great estates; we shall give the great fragments to the peasants who covert them with all their powers, and who will soon be in debt to us by the expense of cultivating them. Our capital will make us their masters. We in our turn will become the great proprietors, and the possession of the land will assure power to us. (The policy of rural banks and rural finance, and remember these institutions, harmless in themselves, are agents and tools in the bigger programme.)

*9 Let us try and replace the circulation of gold with paper money, our chests will absorb gold, and we shall regulate the value of the paper, which will make us masters of all positions.

*10 We count among us plenty of orators capable of feigning enthusiasm and of persuading mobs. We shall spread them among the people to announce changes which will ensure the happiness of the human race. By gold and flattery we shall gain the proletariat which will change itself with annihilating Christian capitalism. We shall promise workman salaries of which they have never dared to dream, but we shall also raise the price of necessities so that our profits will be greater still.

*11 In this manner we shall prepare revolutions, which the Christians will make themselves and of which we shall reap the fruit.

*12 By our mockeries and our attacks upon them we shall make their priests ridiculous, then odious, and their religion as ridiculous and as odious as their clergy. Then we be masters of their souls. For our pious attachment to our own religion, to our own worship, we will prove the superiority of our religion and the superiority of our souls.

*13 We have already established our own men in important positions. We must endeavor to provide the Gentiles with lawyers and doctors; the lawyers are well versed in all interests; doctors, once in the house, become confessors and directors of consciences.

*14 But above all else let us monopolize education. By this means we spread ideas that are useful to us, and shape the children's brains as suits us.

*15 If one of our people should unhappily fall into the hands of justice amongst the Christians, we must rush to help him; find as many witnesses as he needs to save him from his judges, until we become judges ourselves.

*16 The monarchs of the Christian world, swollen with ambition and vanity, surround themselves with luxury and with numerous armies. We shall furnish them with all the money their folly demands, and so keep them on a leash.

*17 Let us take care not to hinder the marriage of our men with Christian girls, for through them we shall get our foot into most closely locked circles. If our daughters marry Gentiles, they will be no less useful, for the children of Jewish mother are ours. Let us foster the idea of free love, that we may destroy Christian women attachment to the principles and practices of their religion.

*18 For ages past the sons of Israel, despised and persecuted, have been working to open up a path to power. They are hitting the mark. They control the economic life of the accursed Christians; their influence preponderates over politics and over manners.

*19 At the wished-for hour, fixed in advance, we shall let loose the revolution, which by ruining all classes of Christianity, we will definitely enslave the Christians to us. Thus will be accomplished the promise of god made to his people.

In 1903 Professor Sergius Nilus official in the Russian Foreign office published a book entitled "The Great in Little." In the second edition of this book, published Tsarkoe Selo in 1905, appeared an additional chapter, headed "Anti-Christ as a Near Political Possibility." This consisted of some 20 pages of introduction, followed by the text of 24 of "The Protocols of the Meetings of the Learned Elders of Zion," the book ended with some 20 pages of commentaries on the Protocols.

In 1917, at the time of the Bolshevik revolution, Professor Nilus brought out the second edition of the Protocols entitled, "It is Close at Hand; At the Gates."

Victor Marsden was a correspondent for the "Morning Post" at the time of the Bolshevik revolution and on his return to London made his translation of the Protocols from the British Museum copy which bore the date stamp of receipt of August 10th, 1906.

In publishing the Protocols in 1905 Professor Nilus stated that they were "signed by representatives of Zion of the 33rd degree." Victor Marsden was later assassinated.

The Protocols were also associated by Nilus to some extent with Theodor Herzl, founder of the Zionist Movement and the first Zionist Congress at Basle, Switzerland, 1897.

Protocol V “ In order to put public opinion into our hands we must bring it into a state of bewilderment by giving expression from all sides to so many contradictory opinions and for such length of time as will suffice to make the Goyim lose their heads in the labyrinth and come to see that the best thing is to have no opinion of any kind in matters political, which is not given to the public to understand, because they are understood by only by him who guides the public. This is the first secret.”

“The second secret requisite for success of our Government is comprised in the following :To multiply to such an extent national failings, habits, passions, conditions of civil life, that it will be impossible for anyone to know where he is in the resulting chaos, so that the people in consequence will fail to understand one another. This measure will also serve us in another way, namely, to sow discord in all parties, to dislocate all collective forces which are still unwilling to submit to us, and to discourage any kind of personal initiative which might in any degree hinder our affair. There is nothing more dangerous than personal initiative: if it has genius behind it, such initiative can do more than can be done by millions of people among who we have sown discord. We must so direct the education of the Goyim communities that whenever they come upon a matter requiring initiative they may drop their hands in despairing impotence.”

“By all these means we shall so wear down the Goyim that they will be compelled to offer us international power of a nature that by its position will enable us without any violence gradually to absorb all the State forces of the world and to form a Super-Government.”

(Protocol X11 Control of the Press.) Not a single announcement will reach the public without our control. Even now this is already being attained by us inasmuch as all news items are received by a few news agencies, in whose offices they are focused from all parts of the world. These agencies will then be already entirely ours and will give publicity only to what we dictate to them. (Rothschild's own Reuters News Agency and all three major networks in the U.S.A.) Control of the press also goes to the motion picture business and to the music industry.

Protocol XX1 Loans and creditforeign loans have fed us the moneys of the goyim,(Global Financial Meltdown) but for our state there will be no foreigners, that is nothing external.....

We shall replace the money markets by grandiose government credit institutions, the object of which will be to fix the price of industrial values in accordance with government views. These institutions will be in a position to fling upon the market five hundred millions of industrial paper in one day, or to buy up for the same amount. In this way all industrial undertakings will come into dependence upon us.

You imagine for yourselves what immense power we shall thereby secure for ourselves...

Protocol XX11 Power of Gold.....In our hands is the greatest power of our day....

Gold; in two days we can procure from our storehouses any quantity we may please.

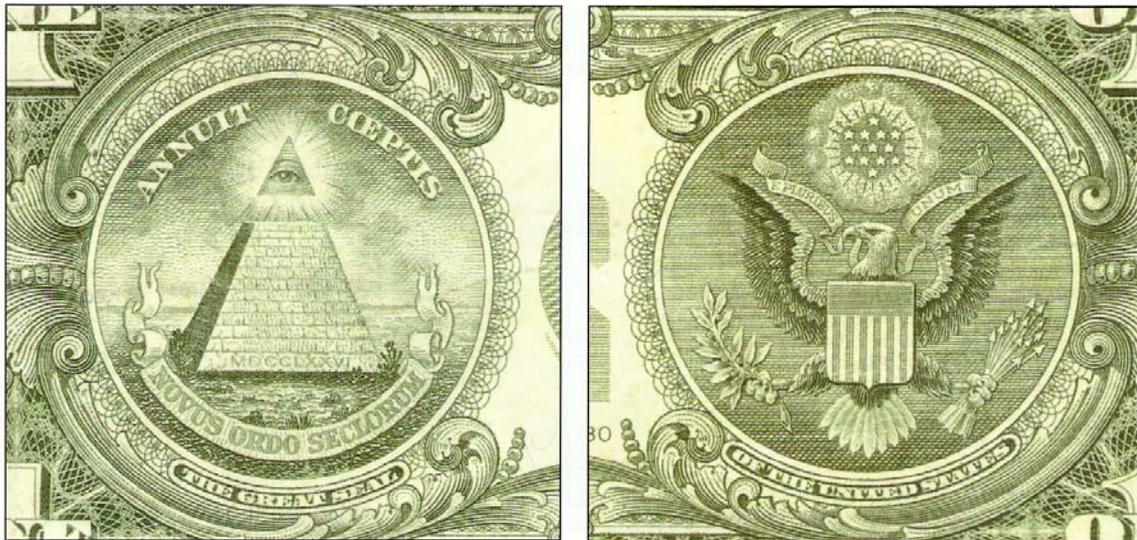

Protocol XX111 Instilling Obedience.....That the peoples may become accustomed to obedience it is necessary to instill lessons of humility and therefore to reduce the production of articles of luxury.

Drunkenness will also be prohibited by law and punishable as a crime against the humanness of man who is turned into a brute under the influence of alcohol.

Protocol XXIV Qualities of the Ruler.....Confirming the roots of King David.

“Nothing that was written in 1865 can have any bearing on the deadly accuracy of the forecasts in the “Protocols,” most of which have since been fulfilled to the letter.” Lord Sydenham, Governor of Victoria and later of Bombay. “London Spectator,” August 27th , 1921.

THE SYMBOL OF THE ILLUMINATI

Left and right vignettes of the Great Seal of the United States of America as they have appeared on the back of the one dollar bill since 1935. The Great Seal of the United States of America was formed on July 4th 1776. By Benjamin Franklin,(a Mason and Rosicrucian.) John Adams,(a Mason). Thomas Jefferson, (a Mason and Illuminist.) and assisted by artist and heraldry expert Pierre Eugene Du Simitiere. It has the Great Pyramid of Cheops, with the capstone missing and replaced with the ‘All Seeing Eye’ it can be traced back to Chaldea as the Solar Eye, Eye of Horus (Sun God) the Eye of Jupiter or Apollo, or Eye of Providence. Hieroglyphics in ancient Egypt identified the name of the Sun God Osiris with a human eye. It also has a Latin phrase “Annuet Coeptis” and comes from

Virgil's 'audacilo annue coeptis' or "Favor my daring undertaking" and "Novas Ordo Seclorum" is translated as "New Order of Ages" and the year "1776 E Pluribus Unum."

The Seal has 13 stars in the crest.

13 stripes and bars in the shield.

13 olive leaves.

13 olives.

13 arrows in the right claw.

13 feathers in the arrows.

13 letters in "Annuit Coeptis."

13 letters in "E Pluribus Unum"

13 courses of stone in the pyramid.

13 X 9 dots in the divisions around the crest.

The cluster of 13 five pointed stars above the eagle represents a hexagram which is the most evil of occult symbols and is used to invoke Satan.

There are thirty two long feathers on the right wing which represents the 32 degrees in Scottish Rite Masonry, and there are thirty three feathers on the left, which represent the 33 degrees of York Rite Freemasonry. The pyramid has 13 levels that represent the 13 Blood lines. At the base of the pyramid is the Roman Numerals MDCCLXXVI.(1776)

Which has nothing to do with when America gained her Independence on July 4th . It represents May 1st 1776 when the order of the Illuminati was founded. May 1st is also an International holiday for all workers, Known as May Day, which was established in 1889 at the International Socialist Congress. According to a United States Treasury press release on August 15th, 1935. Which gave details of the symbol being put on the back of the one dollar bill, said the following "The eye and triangular glory symbolize the all-seeing Deity. The pyramid is the symbol of strength and its unfinished condition denoted the belief of the designers of the great seal that there was still work to be done." Notice they said Deity and not God. The reverse side of the Great Seal which can be found in the Meditation Room of the United Nations, has never been used to seal one document in the United States history and it never will because it is the seal of the Illuminati.

THE SYMBOLIC SNAKE OF JUDAISM.

In his 1905, Edition of the Protocols Sergius Nilus gave the following account. "According to the records of the secret Jewish Zionism, Solomon and other Jewish learned men already, in 929 B.C. thought out a scheme in theory for a peaceful conquest of the whole world by Zion. This scheme was worked out in detail and completed by men who were subsequently initiated in this question. The Symbolic Snake, whose head was to represent those initiated into the plans of the Jewish administration, and the body of the snake to represent the Jewish people. As the snake penetrated into the hearts of the nations which it encountered it undermined and devoured all non-Jewish power of these states. It is foretold that the Snake has still to finish it's work, strictly adhering to the designed plan, until the course which it has to run is closed by the return of it's head to Zion and until the Snake has completed it's round of Europe and has encircled it – and it has encompassed the whole world. This is to be accomplished by using every endeavour to subdue the other countries by Economical Conquest. The return of the head of the Snake to Zion can only be accomplished after the power of all the Sovereign's of Europe has been laid low by means of economic crisis and wholesale destruction effected everywhere, there shall have been brought about a spiritual demoralization and moral corruption. The map of the course of the Symbolic Snake is shown as follows- Its first stage in Europe was in 429 B.C. in Greece, where, about the time of Pericles, the Snake first started eating into the power of that country. The second stage was in Rome in the time of Augustus, about 69 B.C. The third stage was in Madrid at the time of Charles V, in A.D. 1552. The fourth was in Paris about 1790, in the time of Louis XVI. The fifth was in London from 1814 onwards (after the fall of Napoleon). The sixth was in Berlin in 1871 after the Franco-Prussian war. The seventh was in St.

Petersburg, over which is drawn the head of the Snake under the date of 1881. (This "Snake" is now being drawn through the America's and the United States of America) all these States which the Snake has traversed have had the foundations of their constitutions shaken. The further course of the Snake is not shown on this map, but arrows indicate its next movement towards Moscow, Kieft and Odessa. Sergius Nilus 1905.

Long before the days of political correctness, Napoleon wrote to his brother Jerome, King of Westphalia; (Letters of Napoleon,) Lesestre, Letter N-237, March 6th, 1808.

"Since the time of Moses the Jews were oppressors or usurers."

"All the talent of the Jews is concentrated on predatory acts."

"They have a creed which blesses their thievings and misdeeds."

"The Jews ought to be forbidden to make trade, as are forbidden the goldsmiths, who forge a lower kind of gold things, to continue their work."

"The Jews are locusts or caterpillars which are devouring France."

One hundred years after Napoleon's death a prominent Jewish Scholar, Dr Oscar Levy wrote: "We Jews, have made the World War, There is scarcely an event in modern Europe which cannot be traced back to the Jews. The Jewish elements provide the driving force for both Communism and Capitalism... We are today nothing but the world's seducers, its destroyers, its incendiaries, its executioners. Our last revolution is not yet made. We Jews, invented the myth of the 'Chosen people'."

Jewish Scholar, Dr. Oscar Levy. 1920.

The Talmud Sahanderin page, 58, "Every foreigner, who glorifies Sunday (Christian) must be killed without asking him."

Napoleon died at Saint Helena in 1821 he had written in his will, "I die before my time, killed by the English oligarchy and its hired assassins."

Mrs. Nesta Webster's books "World Revolution: the Plot Against Civilisation" 1921; Secret Societies and Subversive Movements"1924; and "The surrender of an Empire". Warned everyone of the plot to destroy civilization as we know it, but is anyone listening?

WHICH POLITICAL PARTY HAD THESE AS THEIR PLATFORM ?

*1 Free education for all children in government schools. Abolition of children's factory labor in its present form. Combination of education with Industrial production.

*2 Centralization of the means of communication and transportation in the hands of the state. (Department of Communication and Transport)

*3 Centralization of credit in the hands of the state, by means of a national bank with state capital an exclusive monopoly. (Reserve Bank)

*4 Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the state, the bringing into cultivation of waste lands, and the improvement of the soil generally in accordance with a common plan. (Department of Agriculture)

*5 A heavy progressive or graduated income tax. (Paying your fair share to the ATO)

*6 Abolition of all rights of inheritance. (Probate tax)

*7 Equal liability of all to labor. Establishment of Industrial armies, especially for agriculture. (Equal rights-woman in the work force including military service)

*8 Confiscation of the property of all emigrants and rebels. (Private land to the Department of Urban Development)

When Karl Marx wrote the Communist Manifesto in 1848 he wrote 10 planks to it, he stated that these planks would test whether a country has become communist or not. If they are all in effect and in force the country would be communist. They are 8 planks of the Communist Manifesto.

THE SECRET COVENANT

The illusion, it will be, so large, so vast it will escape their perception.

Those who will see it will be thought of as insane.

We will create separate fronts to prevent them from seeing the connection between us.

We will behave as if we are not connected to keep the illusion alive. Our goal will be accomplished one drop at a time so as to never bring suspicion upon ourselves. This will also prevent them from seeing the changes as they occur.

We will always stand above the relative field of their experience for we know the secrets of the absolute.

We will work together always and will remain bound by blood and secrecy. Death will come to those who speak.

We will keep their lifespan short and their minds weak while pretending to do the opposite.

We will use our knowledge of science and technology in subtle ways so that they will never see what is happening.

We will use soft metals, aging accelerators and sedatives in food and water,(fluoride) and also in the air.

They will be blanketed by poisons everywhere they turn.

The soft metals will cause them to loose their minds. We will promise to find a cure from our many fronts, yet we will feed them even more poison.

The poisons will be absorbed through their skin and mouths, and they will destroy their minds and reproductive systems.

From all this, their children will be born dead, and we will conceal this information.

The poisons will be hidden in everything that surrounds them, in what they drink, eat, breath and wear.

We must be ingenious in dispensing the poisons for they can see far.

We will teach them that poisons are good, with fun images and musical tones.

Those they look up to will help. We will enlist them to push our poisons.

When a light shall shine among them, we shall extinguish it by ridicule, or death, whichever suits us best.

We will make them rip each other's hearts apart and kill their own children.

The hate will blind them totally, and never shall they see that from their conflicts we emerge as their rulers. They will be busy killing each other.

They will bathe in their own blood and kill their neighbors for as long as we see fit.

We will benefit greatly from this, for they will not see us, for they cannot see us.

We will continue to prosper from their wars and their deaths.

We shall repeat this over and over until our ultimate goal is accomplished.

We will continue to make them live in fear and anger through images and sounds.

We will use all the tools we have to accomplish this.

The tools will be provided by their labor.

We will make them hate themselves and their neighbors.

We will always hide the divine truth from them.

Drop by drop, drop by drop we will advance our goal.

We will take their land, resources and wealth to exercise control over them.

We will deceive them into accepting laws that will steal the little freedom they have.

We will establish a money system that will imprison them forever, keeping them and their children in debt.

When they shall band together, we shall accuse them of crimes and present a different story to the world for we shall own all the media.

We will use our media to control the flow of information and their sentiment in our favor.

When they rise up against us we will crush them like insects, for they are less than that.

They will be helpless to do anything for they will have no weapons.
We will recruit some of their own to carry out our plans.
The recruits will be called “initiates” and will be indoctrinated to believe false rites of passage to higher realms. Members of these groups will think they are one of us never knowing the truth. They must never learn this truth for they will turn against us.
The truth will be hidden in their face, so close they will not be able to focus on it until it’s too late.
Oh yes, so grand the illusion of freedom will be, that they will never know they are our slaves.
When all is in place, the reality we will have created for them will own them. This reality will be their prison. They will live in self-delusion.
When our goal is accomplished a new era of domination will begin.
Their minds will be bound by their beliefs, the beliefs we have established from time immemorial.
But if they ever find out they are our equal, we shall perish then. This they must never know.
If they ever find out that together they can vanquish us, they will take action.
They must never, ever find out what we have done, for if they do, we shall have no place to run, for it will be easy to see who we are once the veil has fallen. Our actions will be revealed who we are and they will hunt us down and no person shall give us shelter.
This is the secret covenant by which we shall live the rest of our present and future lives, for this reality will transcend many generations and life-spans.
This covenant must never, ever be known to exists. It must never, ever be written or spoken of, for if it is, the consciousness it will spawn will release the fury upon us and we shall be cast to the depths from whence we came and remain there until the end time of infinity itself.
This covenant is sealed in blood, our blood, we, the ones who from heaven to earth came.

THE TRUTH ABOUT MELAMINE POISONING

By A. True Ott, PhD, ND.

Melamine is an industrial chemical synthesized from petroleum and used primarily in the production of Melawares-ie plastic goods. It was discovered in the 1950’s by Rockefeller’s Standard Oil Chemists. It is also used in home decoration. It is also called, ‘US restraint board’. Melamine is normally intended to be used in Industrial production and it cannot be absorbed nor excreted by the kidneys. The basic nutrient of milk is a protein called casseinate. Melamine has nearly the same protein structure as casseinate, however, it contains excessively nitrogen ions that eventually causes the kidneys to fail after it reaches a certain level. This can be especially dangerous if one’s diet is high in nitrates and nitrites from processed meats such as hams and hotdogs. Adding Melamine to milk powder reduces the actual milk content and is much cheaper than milk so it lowers the capitalization and cost of goods. When Melamine was discovered as a protein additive, year 2007, over 50,000 US cats and dogs died suddenly, investigators found that pet food from China contained high amounts of Melamine. Starting 2008, In China hospitals, an abnormal increase in infant cases of kidney stones were reported. August 2008, China’s Sanlu Milk Powder tested positive for Melamine content. September 2008, New Zealand Government asks China’s regulators to test milk products. September 21, 2008 the vast majority of milk based food products tested in Taiwan storehouses, manufactured in China showed Melamine content. New Zealand, Australia and most EU nations issue a recall and public warning. Because of the threat of the credit market collapse and the shaky stock market and bank failures, the Bush Administration’s FDA and HHS Secretary Mike Leavitt is completely silent on issuing any public warnings. Billions of dollars worth of Halloween candy chocolates pour out of the nation’s stores (They do, however, continue to promote Avian Flu vaccines, which are also manufactured in China by Rockefeller’s Sanofi-Pasteur.)

What happens when Melamine is digested?

Melamine remains inside the kidney. It eventually forms into stones blocking the tubes that cleanse and excrete the urine. Pain will be intense and the person cannot urinate. Kidney will then swell, and eventually begin to bleed. Although surgery can remove the stones, it will often cause irreversible damage. This can then lead to loss of kidney function and will require dialysis or lead to death because of uremia. China has currently 13,000 infants hospitalized on dialysis - however the Chinese Communist Party often grossly under estimates the actual numbers. It does not matter how much Melamine is consumed. The important point is it cannot be eaten! It is a toxic plastic powder made from petroleum. Rockefeller (Standard Oil Petroleum)

The first three digits of the bar code is the country code where the product is made. For example: all barcodes that start with 690, 691, 692, 693, 694 and 695 are all Made in China.

Melamine is used in plastics, kitchen wares and other household products.

THE TRUTH ABOUT FLOURIDE

Fluoride exposure disrupts the synthesis of collagen and leads to the breakdown of collagen in bone, tendon, muscle, skin, cartilage, lungs, kidney and trachea.

Fluoride stimulates granule formation and oxygen consumption in white blood cells, but inhibits these processes when the white blood cell is challenged by a foreign agent in the blood.

Fluoride depletes the energy reserves and the ability of white blood cells to properly destroy foreign agents by the process of phagocytosis. As little as 0.2 ppm fluoride stimulates superoxide production in resting white blood cells, virtually abolishing phagocytosis. Even micro-molar amounts of fluoride, below 1 ppm, may seriously depress the ability of white blood cells to destroy pathogenic agents.

Fluoride confuses the immune system and causes it to attack the body's own tissues, and increases the tumor growth rate in cancer prone individuals.

Fluoride inhibits antibody formation in the blood.

Fluoride depresses thyroid activity.

Fluorides have a disruptive effect on various tissues in the body.

Fluoride promotes development of bone cancer.

Fluorides cause premature aging of the human body.

Fluoride ingestion from mouth rinses and dentifrices in children is extremely hazardous to biological development, life span and general health.

The contents of a family size tube of fluoridated toothpaste is enough to kill a child.

Fluorides have been used to modify behavior and mood of human beings. It is a little known fact that fluoride compounds were added to the drinking water of prisoners to keep them docile and inhibit questioning of authority, both in Nazi prison camps in World War II and in the Soviet gulags in Siberia. Fluorides are medically categorized as protoplasmic poisons, which is why they are used to kill rodents. The September 18, 1943 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, states, "fluorides are general protoplasmic poisons, changing the permeability of the cell membrane by inhibiting certain enzymes. The exact mechanisms of such actions are obscure." Fluoride consumption by human beings increases the general cancer death rate. In 1975 Dr. John Yiamouyiannis published a preliminary survey which showed that people in fluoridated areas have a higher cancer death rate than those in non-fluoridated areas. The National Cancer Institute attempted to refute the studies. Later in 1975 Yiamouyiannis joined with Dr. Dean Burk, chief chemist of the National Cancer Institute (1939-1974) in performing other studies which were then included in the Congressional Record by Congressman Delaney, who was the original author of the Delaney Amendment, which prohibited the addition of cancer-causing substances to food used for human consumption. Both reports confirmed the existence of a link between fluoridation and cancer. (Note: Obviously Dr. Burk felt free to agree with scientific truth only after his tenure at National Cancer Institute ended. Fluorides have little or no effect on decay prevention in humans. In 1990 Dr. John Colquhoun was forced into early retirement in New Zealand after he conducted a study on 60,000 school children and found no difference in tooth decay between fluoridated and unfluoridated areas. He additionally found that a substantial number of children in fluoridated areas suffered from dental fluorosis. He made the study public. There is no scientific data that shows that fluoride mouth rinses and tablets are safe for human use. In 1989 a study by Hildebolt, et al. on 6,000 school children contradicted any alleged benefit from the use of sodium fluorides. A 1990 study by Dr. John Yiamouyiannis on 39,000 school children contradicted any alleged benefits from the use of sodium fluorides. In 1992 Michael Perrone, a legislative assistant in New Jersey, contacted the FDA requesting all information regarding the safety and effectiveness of fluoride tablets and drops. After 6 months of stalling, the FDA admitted they had no data to show that fluoride tablets or drops were either safe or effective. They informed Perrone that they will "probably have to pull the tablets and drops off the market." The fact that fluoride toothpastes and school based mouth rinses are packaged in aluminum accentuates the effect on the body. In 1976, Dr. D. Allman and co-workers from Indiana University School of Medicine fed animals 1 part-per-million (ppm) fluoride and found that in the presence of aluminum, in a concentration as small as 20 parts per billion, fluoride is able to cause an even larger increase in cyclic AMP levels. Cyclic AMP inhibits the migration rate of white blood cells, as well as the ability of the white blood cell to destroy pathogenic (disease-causing) organisms. Reference: Journal of Dental Research, Vol. 55, Sup B, p. 523, 1976, "Effect of Inorganic Fluoride Salts on Urine and Tissue Cyclic AMP Concentration in Vivo".

"Fluoridation is the greatest case of scientific fraud of this century" Robert Carlton, Ph. D., former U. S. EPA scientist on "Marketplace" Canadian Broadcast Company, Nov. 24, 1992

"Regarding fluoridation, the EPA should act immediately to protect the public, not just on the cancer data, but on the evidence of bone fractures, arthritis, mutagenicity and other effects" William Marcus, Ph. D., senior EPA toxicologist, Covert Action, Fall 1992, p. 66

Hardy Limeback, PhD, DDS, BSc, (Associate Professor and Head, Preventive Dentistry, University of Toronto and past President of the Canadian Association for Dental Research) apologized in 1999 for inadvertently misleading both his colleagues and dental students in his support for fluoridation. Addressing the meeting he concluded; "For the past 15 years, I had refused to study the toxicology information that is readily available to anyone. Poisoning our children was the furthest thing from my mind."

In Australia a group representing 1500 doctors, dentists, and others working in the interests of public health who are primarily interested in prevention and early intervention in disease processes have posted on www.flouridealert.Org/queensland-letter.htm an open letter with links to backup their claims. "We wish to express our grave concerns regarding renewed proposals to fluoridate Queensland's water supplies. Fluoridation begun at a time when asbestos lined our pipes, when lead was added to petrol, and DDT was regarded as safe and effective. These chemicals have now been banned, but fluoridation remains untouched. The fluoridating agent most commonly used is a hazardous contaminated industrial-grade product from the phosphate fertilizer industry. We strongly reject the notion that placing a chronic poison in our water supplies is clever preventive medicine. New evidence for potential serious harm from long-term fluoride ingestion is also emerging."

SATANISM

The Rothschild's are an important part of the history of the Seal of Solomon (also known as hexagram, Magen David, six pointed star, Star of David.) The Seal of Solomon, the hexagram, was not considered a Jewish symbol before the Rothschild's began using it. Throughout the Middle Ages the Seal of Solomon had been used by Arab Magicians, Cabalist Magicians, Druid witches and Satanists. One of the few ancient uses of the symbol was on the floor of a 1200 year old Moslem Mosque found where Tel Aviv is today. Because the Rothschild's were Satanists they adopted this powerful magic symbol in 1822 for their coat -of- arms. The name they adopted for their family actually comes from the fact that in the 17th century Mayer Amschel Bauer began hanging out a red hexagram in front of their house to identify it. Mayer then decided to take the name red -shield (Rothschild in German) after the red shield of Solomon they used.(Why does the Salvation Army call their appeal “The Red Shield Appeal?) In 1836, Rabbi Zevi Hirsch Kalischer approached Rothschild’s and proposed that they buy all of Erez Israel. It took many years for the Rothschild’s to create Israel. The Rothschild’s have been the primary force behind the creation of Israel, and so it is appropriate that the nation carries their Satanic Seal of Solomon as the state logo. Most Jewish people do not concern themselves with learning the occult significance to their treasured Magen David (Star of David). King David did not have any thing to do with the hexagram, although his son Solomon did when he began worshipping Ashtoreth (star, also known as Asarte, Chuin, Kaiwan, Remphan and Saturn.) Solomon built altars to Star (Astarte, aka Ashtoreth). Saturn is important key to understanding the long heritage of this conspiracy goes back to antiquity. The city of Rome was originally known as Saturnia or city of Saturn. Saturn also relates to Lucifer in various occult dictionaries Saturn is associated with evil and was important to the religion of Mithra, and also the Druids. Researcher Eustace Mullins writes that the Rothschild’s took over all the financial operations of the world wide Catholic Church in 1823. Today the large banking and financial business of the Catholic Church is an extensive system interlocked with the Rothschild’s and the rest of the International Banking system. The great wealth of the Russian Czars was entrusted to the Rothschild’s, $35 million with the Rothschild’s Bank of England, and $80 million in the Rothschild’s Paris bank. The Rothschild’s financed the Russian Revolution which confiscated vast portions of the Orthodox Church’s wealth. They have been able to prevent (due to their power) the legitimate heirs of the Czars fortune to withdraw a penny of the millions deposited in a variety of their banks. The Mountbatten’s, who are related to the Rothschild’s, led the court battles to prevent the claimants from withdrawing any of the fortune. In other words, the money they invested in the Russian Revolution, was not only paid back directly by the Bolsheviks in millions of dollars of gold, but by grabbing the huge deposits of the Czars’ wealth, the Rothschild’s gained what is now worth over $50 Billion dollars.

When Amschel Rothschild 1. died on September, 12th, 1812, on the eve of Napoleon’s failure in Russia. His sons ordered the Jews of Poland and Lithuania to plunder and kill all the Christians, who were wounded or ill, fell into their hands.

One of the purest forms of Satanism can be traced back to the Jewish Sabbatain sect and it’s Frankist spin-off. The leaders of this sect up to the Rothschild’s were:

Sabbatai Zevi (1626-1676), Nathan of Gaza (1680-1714), Jacob Frank (1726-1791),

Rothschild’s (1743-present day). The “Jewish Encyclopedia” 1905, states “of the first Fifty-eight Rothschild marriages, up to that date exactly half Twenty-nine had been directly intermarried with Rothschild’s first cousins.” (to keep their Satanic Line)

The Kaiser of Germany referred to the Rothschild’s as “the magic powers of money as wielded by the Lord of Lucre are the powers of Black Magic at its blackest.”

Lord Acton—“The evil that men do, lives on long after they have gone.”

THE GERMAN HOUSE OF SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA

The Mountbatten’s (formerly the German Battenberg’s) are relatives to the Rothschild’s. Princess Marie of Hesse married Tsarevich of Russia in 1841, her brother Prince Alexander of Hesse was invited to live in Russia where he met Julie Hauke, the two eloped to Breslau in 1851, and for this morganatic marriage they were banished from Russia and ostracized from the royal courts throughout Europe, but found their way back into royal society and the German Royal Family. Countess Julie Hauke- was the first Battenberg. Prince William 1X of Hesse-Hanau was one of the richest Houses in Europe hiring out Hessian soldiers to foreign counties for large profits. In 1769, Mayer Amschel Rothschild became court agent to Prince William 1X of Hesse-Cassel the grandson of George 11 of England; cousin to George 111; nephew to the King of Demark, and Brother in-law to the King of Sweden.

During the 1st World War the name of the Royal House was changed from the German Saxe-Coburg-Gotha to the House of Windsor the German name, Battenberg was also changed to Mountbatten in 1917 when British and German soldiers were slaughtering each other in the trenches of Northern France in a war which also saw 60,000 of Australia's finest young men slaughtered also. Rothschild's have been close associates of The House of Windsor since Edward VII son of Queen Victoria and German Prince Albert. Edward VII's closest financial advisor Jewish banker Ernest Cassel daughter Edwina married Lord Louis Mountbatten (German Battenberg). It was Ernest Cassel and Jacob Schiff who floated the first two Imperial Japanese Government War Loans of 10 and 12 million pounds respectively, but a new feature arose during the floatation of the third loan. To quote Takahashi, "The opening of a channel for receiving subscriptions in Germany....the means of distributing our bonds in Germany, was arranged through the connection of Mr. Schiff with M.M.Warburg, of Hamburg, who acted as our agents of the issuing banks." The Jewish Encyclopedia under the heading of "Schiff" the following appeared "Kuhn, Loeb and Co, subscribed for and floated the large war loans in 1904 and 1905, in recognition of which the Emperor conferred on Schiff the Second Order of the Treasure of Japan." Lord Louis Mountbatten arranged the marriage of Queen Elisabeth II to his grandson, Prince Phillip Mountbatten (Formerly German Battenberg)(Prince Phillip did not become a British subject until 1947 after the war).

In 1694, William III,(Who came from Holland) ascended the throne of England.

In 1702 William of Orange died, his wife Mary left no heirs and so Mary's sister Anne became Queen of England. Anne was the last of the Stuart Monarchs because although she had 17 children by her husband George of Denmark, she survived all of them. In 1714, the British crown was taken over by the German Hanover's they were closely connected to the House of Hesse which would become the launching pad for the House of Rothschild. The first Hanoverian King was George I . He couldn't even speak English and refused to learn. He began life as minor German nobility, a great grandson of James Ist ended it as King of Great Britain. George II became King in 1727 and died in 1760, his grandson George III (German born sovereign of England) Whom Rothschild's brought 16,800 young Hessians soldiers to fight against France then later in the future United States, Outlawed the Colonial Script money that the colonies were using in the newly formed America's at interest free, his reign spanned the American War of Independence. The massive expansion of British power under George III and William IV followed before Queen Victoria who reigned as Queen Empress of the Empire from 1837-1901 was due to Rothschild's and The City of London Corporation. The Empire controlled 40% of the world's mass and more than one-fifth of the world's population. The first son of Victoria and Albert became Edward VII, Grand Master of English Free Masonry who reigned until 1910. In 1936, Edward VIII abdicated the throne to marry American divorcee Wallis Simpson, he was replaced by George VI, the father of Queen Elisabeth II and husband to Elisabeth Bowes-Lyon Queen Mother. George died in 1952 and his eldest daughter was crowned Queen Elisabeth II at Westminster Abbey in 1953. Queen Elisabeth II's husband, Phillip Mountbatten (Formerly German Battenberg) is related to everyone. His father was Tsar Nicholas's first cousin, as was George V, thus on his paternal side, Phillip is his wife's second cousin once removed. In his maternal blood line, Phillip and Elisabeth share Victoria as a great-great Grandmother, which makes them third cousins. The tragic Tsarina was Phillip's Great Aunt, Alix was Elisabeth's first cousin twice removed. Phillip provided the D.N.A. evidence that identified her and her daughters desecrated and battered bones.

HISTORY OF MONEY AND BANKING IN ENGLAND

Polish astronomer, Copernicus, first enunciated the theory upon which our modern money system is based. His thesis was condemned as heretical and placed upon the Roman Index. His theories, however, were resurrected two centuries later by the English empiricist, John Locke, Philosopher of the Bank of England.

The first money was leather disks, branded with the mark of the owner of the cattle the disks represented. Indeed such leather disks were still in use on the droving roads of North Wales in the 19th Century. Until the industrial revolution, the ownership of beasts of various kinds was the chief form of wealth. The cattle owner needed to trade both for necessities like iron and luxuries like gold, but it was not always convenient for his trading partners to take the cattle there and then, so they took instead a leather disk which represented one head of cattle. The Latin word for cattle is "pecus" and our modern word 'pecuniary', meaning 'money matters', derives from it. That is historical proof if any was necessary, of the derivation of the first money. There is one thing of immense importance to notice here. The owner of the cattle made and issued the money, which represented wealth!

During the 15th and 16th centuries, Europe was rent by wars and the chief owners of wealth were the feudal nobles. Much of their wealth was in the form of gold and silver plate and when they needed coin, they pawned the plate with the gold smith who had strong rooms. It also became practice to deposit gold plate with the goldsmiths for safekeeping. In either case, the goldsmiths gave a receipt, signed on parchment. Holders of these parchments found it convenient to use them to pay for large purchases, rather than go to the goldsmith and withdraw the gold they had deposited with him. The new owner of the parchment found it equally convenient to pass it on in payment for purchases. The goldsmiths' parchments were therefore direct ancestors of modern bank notes. This was a new development, for whilst the original money, leather disks, was issued by the owner of the cattle they represented, the parchments were issued by a third party, and the results were revolutionary. It was the goldsmith's signature upon the parchments, which made it acceptable as a means of payment and so enable it to pass from hand to hand. In this way, the power of creating money fell into the hands of those who were neither the owners nor the creators of wealth but merely its custodians. It was inevitable that the gold smiths should notice that a large percentage of their clients left their valuables in the bank almost indefinitely. In fact, and the ratio remained constant for centuries, only 1 in 10 of the receipts issued by the gold smiths came back with a demand for payment in gold. It was a simple deduction on the goldsmith's part that they could therefore lend money, at interest, not in the form of gold coin, but in the form of signed parchments and they could safely do so at the ratio of 10-1 of their actual holdings of gold. This is the basis of modern banking now known as the fractional reserve system.

In 1688, James II was driven off the throne by his son in law William III. The King asked a wealthy English merchant by the name of William Paterson to underwrite the cost of the war against France. Paterson saw the opportunity to profit from the situation and enlisted some friends to help him set up a privately owned bank as part of the deal with King William.

Paterson and his associates were permitted to charter an exclusive joint stock bank with limited liability to be called the Bank of England.

Established by an Act of Parliament and operating under Royal Charter, the Bank of England opened for business on July 27, 1694. The bank was authorized to issue its own bank notes as legal tender.

Then in 1743, something happened that not only changed the course of history but in the ensuing years would set the course of history back then, and even to this day still sets the course of history.

A German goldsmith and banker, Moses Amschel Bauer, had a son, Mayer Amschel Rothschild. He in turn had 5 sons, Amschel Mayer Rothschild, Solomon Mayer Rothschild, Karl Mayer Rothschild, James Mayer Rothschild. They became the Central Banks of Germany, Austria, Italy and France respectively. Nathan Mayer Rothschild, the third son, founded the London branch of the House of Rothschild in 1809, where it became N.M. Rothschild & Sons at New Court, where its head quarters are today.

On Sunday June 18, 1815, a battle was fought at La Belle Alliance, a suburb of Brussels Belgium, seven miles south of Waterloo. The first military report to London early in the battle indicated that Napoleon appeared to be winning. Everyone believing Wellington to be defeated began to sell off stock on the English stock market causing stocks to plummet.

Nathan Rothschild received the news on June 20 from his personal courier, a man named Rothworth, that Wellington had received reinforcements from the Prussians under Gebhard Blucher and had turned the tide in favour of Wellington. Nathan Rothschild then bought up all stocks at rock bottom prices. On June 21 at 11:00 a.m., Wellington's envoy, Major Henry Percy, informed the war office that Napoleon had been beaten in a bitter eight-hour battle, losing one third of his men. By now, Nathan Rothschild controlled the British economy and forced England to set up a new Bank of England which he then owned and controlled while his brother James Mayer Rothschild owned and controlled the Bank of France.

Gebhard Bluchers' reinforcements were paid for by James Rothschild.

After his defeat at Waterloo, Napoleon was exiled to the island of Saint Helena in the South Atlantic. Before leaving, he said, 'When a government is dependant for money upon bankers, they and not the leaders of government, control the situation, since the hand that gives is above the hand that takes, financiers are without patriotism and without decency.'

Napoleon died in 1821 at Saint Helena. He had written in his will, "I die before my time, killed by the English oligarchy and its hired assassins".

In his History of His Own Times (1693), Bishop Burnet wrote, "the fear of centralization of the money power was indeed the grounds upon which the Tories and Commons fought so bitterly against founding of the Bank of England, thinking that the bank would grow to be a monopoly. All the money in England would come into their hands and they would, in a few years, become the masters of stock and wealth of the nation".

- Rothschild's London House place loans of 6,500 million pounds worth of foreign loans during the first ninety years of existence.
- Lionel Rothschild made 18 government loans during his career totaling 1,600 million pounds sterling to the British Government.
- Lionel Rothschild funded the 16,000,000 pounds the British Government needed to fight the Crimean War.
- Nathan Rothschild became paymaster-general and chief broker to England's Army. British Prime Minister, Benjamin Disraeli, brought Egypt's 177,000 shares in the Suez Canal for 4,000,000 pounds with money credited from N & M Rothschild & Sons on the 15th November, 1875.
- Nathaniel Mayer Lord Rothschild funded Lenin with 1,000,000 rubles.
- Edmund Rothschild funded the first seven settlements in Palestine.
- Rothschild's' built the Northern Railway, Le Chemin de Fer du Nord Railway and the Kaiser Ferdinand Nordbahn Railway.
- Rothschild's founded Alliance Insurance and own Reuters News agency.
- In 1936, after the abdication of Edward VIII, he fled to the house of Schloss Enzesfeld, owned by Eugene Von Rothschild.

Today N.M Rothschild & Sons Ltd of New Court is:

- Key Bullion broker in the English Commonwealth.
- Owner and Operator of the Royal Mint Refinery.
- Gold agent to the Bank of England.
- And sets the price of gold bullion twice a day.
- Rothschild's' have been among the principal dynamos powering the modern stress cycle. They are the arch demons of our Zeitgeist that is half the reason they are legend. The other half lies in their ability to transcend the very same Zeitgeist they have been spreading.
- "Portrait of a Dynasty" Frederick Morton

Monday June 27, 2005, "Bank of England warns on debts".

The Bank said it feared some vulnerabilities may be building in the long term since some customers and financial institutions are continuing to increase their levels of indebtedness. In June it said that household debts, including mortgages totaled 1.83 trillion pound.

Abraham Lincoln

The money power preys upon the nation in times of peace and conspires against it in times of adversity. It is more despotic than monarchy, more insolent than autocracy and more selfish than bureaucracy. It denounces, as public enemies, all who question its methods or throw light upon its crimes.

Social Credit Movement

Social credit movement was first formed in Australia on the 25th October 1930, founded in Perth then established in Sydney, Brisbane and Melbourne in December of that year. It was formed in Canada in 1935 in the province of Alberta where William Aberhart organized the social credit party and led it to victory in the provincial election of 1935.

Social credit doctrine is now in place in Madagascar.

The Solomon Islands have a Social Credit Party led by former Prime Minister Manasseh Sogavare.

Mr. Sogavare said the party aims to truly represent the grassroots.

Social Credit has nothing to do with Socialism, Catholicism or Religion it is about the government of the day using money for the benefit of the people and not the multi-million dollar profits of bankers.

SOCIAL CREDIT AIMS

1. To make the government the only institution entrusted with the creation of credit.
2. Abolition of all taxation.
3. To increase consumer purchasing power by selling goods and services at fixed prices at less than cost as calculated by producers.
4. The government to reimburse producers for the losses they would otherwise sustain to cover the cost of production out of new money thus creating debt free money in the economy.
5. To create an honest, fair and just banking system.

THE CITY OF LONDON CORPORATION

The enormous power of the City began to accelerate with the opening of the world's first international stock exchange in London and has continued unabated to the present day.

The City either directly or indirectly, controls (including here in Australia) all mayors, councils, regional councils, multi-national and trans-national banks all the major British banks have their main office's there, along with branch office's for 385 foreign banks, including 70 from the United States. It is there you will find the Bank of England, the Stock Exchange, Lloyds of London, the Baltic Exchange (shipping contracts), Fleet Street (home of publishing and newspaper interests), the London Commodity Exchange (to trade coffee, rubber, sugar and wool), and the London Metal Exchange, corporations, judicial systems (through Old Bailey, Temple Bar and the Royal Courts of Justice in London), the IMF, World Bank, Vatican Bank (through N.M. Rothschild & Sons London Italian subsidiary Torlonia), European Central Bank, United States Federal Reserve Bank, The Bank for International Settlements in Switzerland which oversees all the Reserve Banks around the world.

It is the financial centre of the World, it is often termed the 'wealthiest square mile on earth.'

The Twelve Great Livery Companies domiciled in Guildhall (or the hall of the City of London Corporation). As a result of a 'gentleman's agreement between the sovereign and the City merchants and bankers made many hundreds of years ago, the Lord Mayor is officially head of the Corporation and is allowed to operate independently of the sovereign. When the Queen of England goes to visit the City she is met by the Lord Mayor at Temple Bar, the symbolic gate of the City. She bows and asks permission to enter his private, Sovereign State. During such state visits "the Lord Mayor in his robes and chain, and his entourage in medieval costume, outshines the royal party, which can dress up no further than service uniforms.” The Lord Mayor leads the queen into his city and the Lord Mayor is the monarch and the queen his subject. The subject always stays a pace or two behind.

As the former British Prime Minister of England during the late 1800’s Benjamin Disraeli wrote “So you see the world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes”. (Coningsby, The Century Co, N.Y. 1907, p. 233).

In 1956 the then Prime Minister, Sir Anthony Eden launched war to regain the Suez Canal. It had scarcely begun when The City let it be known that in a few days he would have no money to fight it; the pound would collapse. He stopped the war and was turned out of office by his own party. History clearly reveals that the British government is the bond slave of the “indivisible and inaudible” force centered in the City. The City calls the tune and the “visible and audible leaders” are mere puppets who dance to the tune on command. They have no power. They have no authority. In spite of all the outward show they are mere pawns in the game of the financial elite.

However, the wealth of the world held in the Corporation is ultimately the sovereign’s, because, should the gentleman’s agreement break down, the sovereign has the power to “rescind” the Corporation’s independence.

“The Illustrated Universal History,” 1887, records that Great Britain emerged from her long conquest with France with increased power and national glory. Her Empire was greatly expanded in all parts of the world; Her supremacy on the sea was undisputed; her wealth and commerce increased but with all this national prosperity, the lower classes of English people were sunk in extreme wretchedness and poverty, having been bled dry during the struggle of the previous twenty years.

It was at this juncture (1815) that the House of Rothschild seized control of the British economy, the Bank of England and the City—and through their other branches, control of the other European nations.

THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR

The Founding Fathers of the United States new too well the power of the “Money Power”. In the mid 1700 they were issuing their own money called colonial script, which was strictly regulated and didn’t require the payment of any interest, when the Bankers of Great Britain heard this, King George 111 and the British Parliament passed a law prohibiting the currency, forcing them to accept the debt money issued by them. Contrary to what history teaches, the American Revolution was not started by a tax on tea.

Benjamin Franklin--- “The conditions were so reversed that the era of prosperity ended, the colonies would gladly have borne the little tax on tea and other matters had it not been that England took away from the colonies their money, which created unemployment and dissatisfaction, which caused the colonies hatred of England and the Revolutionary War.”

THE WAR OF INDEPENDENCE

When Thomas Jefferson became President he opposed the Bank of North America as being unconstitutional and when the twenty year charter came up for renewal in 1811 it was denied. Nathan Rothschild was head of his family’s bank in England and by this time, had become paymaster-general and chief broker to English army. He was also in charge of a private navy called the British East India Company who’s main trade was slaves. He supported the Bank of the United States, he threaten “Either the application for renewal of the charter is granted or the United States will find itself in a most disastrous war”, He then ordered the British troops to “teach these impudent Americans a lesson, bring them back to colonial status.” This brought the war of 1812, the second war with England, which facilitated the re-chartering of the Bank of the United States and raised the National debt from $45 million to $127 million. In 1816 Thomas Jefferson wrote to John Tyler who became the 10th President. “If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issuance of their currency, first by inflation and then by deflation, the bank’s and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property until their children wake up homeless on a continent their father's conquered. I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. The issuing power should be taken away from the banks and restored to the government to whom it properly belongs,"

THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR

In 1857 the Illuminati met in London to decide America's fate they had to create an incident that would allow the establishment of a central bank. This meant a war and since wars are expensive and governments have to borrow to pay for them by fermenting a conflict between the North and South. The North was to become a British Colony annexed to Canada and controlled by Lionel Rothschild while the South was to be given to Napoleon III of France and controlled by James Rothschild. At the end of the civil war Abraham Lincoln in March, 1863, received congressional approval to borrow $450 million from the people by selling them bonds, or green-backs to pay for the civil war they were not redeemable until 1865, when three could be exchanged for one silver. They were made full legal tender in 1879. Lincoln solved America's monetary crisis without the help of International Bankers. The government furnished its own money without cost and paid of its debts.

Abraham Lincoln—"The government should create, issue and circulate all the currency and credit needed to satisfy the spending power of the government and the buying power of consumers. The privilege of creating and issuing money is not only the supreme prerogative of government, but it is the government's greatest creative opportunity. The financing of all public enterprise and the conduct of the treasury will become matters of practical administration. By the adoption of these principles the taxpayers will be saved immense sums of interest. Money will cease to be the master and become the servant of humanity."

Henry C. Carey, creator of the nationalist economic platform of Lincoln's Republican Party, wrote just before the 1860 election that the British Empire waged continual political and economic "warfare, for discouraging the growth of manufactures in other countries and for compelling the people of other lands to confine themselves to agriculture for producing pauperism."

That is why there has never been any of the great water projects built in Australia like the Bradfield Scheme apart from the time when John Curtin assumed control over the deployment of credit during the war and when Ben Chifley as treasurer in 1945, tabled legislation to make the wartime control of banking which directed credit to the benefit of the national interest when the Snowy Mountains Scheme was built.

In 1941, Mr. L.R. East, Chairman of the State Rivers and Water Supply Commission of Victoria . Proposed that the Commonwealth, New South Wales, and Victoria create a separate Authority with the prospect of diverting the Snowy waters inland.

He proposed that the River Murray Commission be formed to undertake the work.

In 1943 the conflicting proposals for the development of the Snowy waters led

Mr. Arthur Caldwell to ask in federal parliament that " Plans be formulated for the best use of the waters in the interests of the people of Australia as a whole". In 1946, the Commonwealth and the states discussed the national aspect of the project. Director General was Mr. L.F. Loader who later became Sir Louis Loader. Director of Engineering was Ronald.B.Lewis. Detailed of investigations and alternative proposals was given to Engineer for major investigations Mr. E.F.Rowntree. Mr. O.T.Olsen officer of the State Electricity Commission of Victoria carried out investigations for the Kiewa Hydro-Electric project and it was he who proposed the diversion of the Upper Snowy to the Murray river for power production and irrigation along the Murray river. Mr. Nelson Lemmon was the Minister for Works and Housing in the Chifley government. Prime Minister Ben Chifley was a Western Australian who was determined that the national interest would prevail. Nelson Lemmon employed the Defence Force Act to ensure that the great snowy scheme was built and he created the Snowy Act of 1949, which concentrated on the Hydro-electric aspect of the scheme other wise the Commonwealth did not have the power to compulsorily acquire land for the project nor did it have the powers over diversion of waters. William Hudson was born in New Zealand in 1896 he became the Chief Civil Engineer of New South Wales and in 1948 was personally approved by Prime Minister Ben Chifley to head the construction of the Snowy River scheme. On August 1st 1949, he began duty as the Head Snowy Mountains Engineer he was knighted Sir William Hudson in 1955, and was awarded the Kermot Memorial Medal for outstanding engineering achievement. The Snowy Mountains Scheme remains the only national public water infrastructure project in the history of our nation. Lake Eyre is 15 metres below sea level and covers 1.2 million square kilometres at the time of the construction of the Snowy Mountains Scheme investigations were carried out into the building of a canal from the sea in South Australia to Lake Eyre to create an inland sea. At the time it was believed that it would change the weather patterns on the east coast..

THE UNITED STATES UNIQUE IN HISTORY A CREDIT SYSTEM

In 1779, as aide-de-camp to General George Washington, Alexander Hamilton began writing to leading members of the Continental Congress that the credit of the nation was being lost. Hamilton looked to the higher battle which the problem implied, a problem that had doomed all earlier civilizations in Europe and elsewhere. In 1781, he wrote to the leading financier of the Continental Congress, Robert Morris, with a proposal that began a transformation of history: "It is by introducing order to our finances, by restoring public credit, not by winning battles that we are finally to gain our objective. The way the government could secure a permanent paper credit, was to construct a National Bank: It would promote commerce, by furnishing a more extensive medium. A National Bank to increase public and private credit, industry is increased, commodities are multiplied, agriculture and manufactures flourish, and herein consists the true wealth and prosperity of the state. By converting currency produced through loans of the bank, into a real and successful instrument of trade, it would increase the quantity and strength of the currency."

Robert Morris was convinced, and the Congress chartered the Bank of North America in 1781 the bank's sole reason and purpose was to facilitate the development of a national economy. Under the U.S. Constitution and Hamiltonian American System, the government has no need of money. It does not need to gather money, nor loan money, but rather, by the power implied in Article 1, Section 8,s clause, to borrow money (in the credit of the United States).It emits bills on the credit of the United States to the Treasury, which can then be turned into whatever purposes, the money can serve for the economy. Then by receiving these bills of credit from the Congress, the Treasury uses the national bank to coordinate the distribution and allocation of this credit, for the nation's intention. This process creates a sovereign currency, which is a reflection of the nation's power to act, not something to be speculated upon.

Debt is redefined: A creation by government, through an emission of credit, a sovereign government does not have to go into debt to someone else.

Under those terms the United States, as a sovereign republic, can enter into a treaty agreement, with other counties, and those countries like Australia can enjoy the same advantage of a credit system. (No need for taxation).

Lyndon H. LaRouche. Web cast 18/11/2008. "European Nation's are not true nation-states, they are controlled by international monetary interests." Once you give up your sovereignty as a nation, you have no avenue through which to intervene to pursue economic justice. The British Empire is not the British Empire: It's an international monetary-financial system, which is based in England, but which operates globally. And since the break down of the U.S. dollar, in 1971, and the subsequent launching of the highly speculative market in petroleum, and the short term speculative market in petroleum, the U.S. no longer controls its own dollar. The dollar has been increasingly, as the U.S. economy has deteriorated, been controlled by the London centered crowd, in those financial interests."

During his presidency, Lincoln defied British Free Trade doctrines and revolutionized the United States economy. Lincoln's 50% tariff started the American steel industry, while his transcontinental railroads, subsidies for mining, science-educating Agriculture Department, free land for family farmers, free State Colleges, and full scale immigration policy forced the transformation of a bankrupt, cotton-exporting country into the world's greatest industrial powers within 25 years. In a brutal conflict verses the Wall Street firms representing Britain's Rothschild and Baring banks and the British Crown, Lincoln fought to reassert the national control over credit. He put through anti-usury and other strict federal banking laws, sold bonds directly to the people, and issued hundreds of millions of national currency. He was seeking to crack down on the Anglo-American manipulation of gold when he was assassinated.

John Wilkes Booth shot and mortally wounded President Abraham Lincoln on April 14, 1865 five days after Robert E. Lee's Confederate Army had surrendered in the Civil War. In their biography of him, Lincoln's two private secretaries, John G. Nicolay and John Hay, brought up the question of Booth, the Confederate Secret Service headquarters in British Canada, and how the murder was financed.

John Wilkes Booth, Lewis Powell, George Atzerodt, David E. Herold, Samuel Arnold, Michael O'Laughlin and John Surratt (a confederate spy and dispatch lander) were all in the Confederate Secret Service which was headed by the Virginia based Confederate Secretary of State, Judah P. Benjamin, who had been born a British subject in the West Indies, and the London based James Bullock, uncle of the later U.S. President Teddy Roosevelt. They coordinated the supply of British rifles and British naval vessels to the Rebellion, and the transfer of gold through the then British colony of Canada. Some months before he shot Lincoln, Booth deposited funds in the Montreal bank used by Benjamin's operatives. John Surratt, who confessed in 1870 to plotting with Booth to abduct Lincoln, admitted to using the Montreal bank for Secret Service funds. Surratt told of the days preceding the murder, and of his trip to Montreal carrying money and messages from Judah Benjamin. At the Ford's Theater, where John Wilkes Booth shot Lincoln, the U.S. National Park Service now displays a decoding sheet found by police in Booth's trunk, and a matching coding device found in Judah Benjamin's Richmond office. Benjamin fled to England immediately following the assassination and became a wealthy Queen's Attorney. Booth was shot by pursuing U.S. troops, and the other four co-conspirators were hanged.

Editorial, London Times, 1865, "If this mischievous financial policy which had its origin in the North American Republic during the war (1861-1865) should become indurated down to a fixture, then that Government will furnish its money without cost. It will pay off its debts and be without debt. It will have all the money necessary to carry on its commerce. It will become prosperous beyond precedent in the history of civilized governments of the World. The brains and the wealth of all countries will go to North America. That government must be destroyed or it will destroy every Monarchy on the globe."

James A. Garfield took office in March, 1881, with Abraham Lincoln's son Robert as War Secretary and James Blaine, chosen as Secretary of State. In May Blaine sent Lincoln's counterintelligence expert, retired General Stephen Hurlbut, as special envoy to South America. British-sponsored proxy army of Chile had invaded Peru and Bolivia, grabbing control of nitrate deposits, and seeking to crush U.S.-allied nationalism in the region. Britain's diplomats demanded that Peru surrender and cede its richest provinces. Peru's Army had collapsed, relying as it did for military supplies on Britain's Lima-based merchant king, the W.R. Grace Company. Grace controlled virtually all shipping on South America's Pacific Coast on behalf of British banking and political power. James Blaine told the Congress, "The Chilian government pledged to pay into the Bank of England for the benefit of the English bondholders who put up the job of this war on Peru. It was loot and booty..... The iron-clads that had destroyed the Peruvian Navy were furnished by England. It is an English war on Peru, with Chile as the instrument, and I take responsibility for that assertion."

Blaine had warned Garfield of the New York machine and its allies, within their own Republican Party "This section contains all desperate bad men of the Party, bent on loot and booty, and ready for any Mexican invasion or Caribbean annexation, and looking to, possibly a Spanish war as a legitimate means of continuing political power for a clique. "These men are harmless when out of power, and desperate when in possession of it." James Blaine, Dec 10th 1880. Charles J. Guiteau shot President

Garfield on July 2, 1881, four months into his term. Britain's W. R. Grace, the Peru-based enforcer, moved to the U.S. and was elected Mayor of New York City in 1880. Grace managed Wall Street's opposition to Blaine's 1884 presidential bid, and arranged the official 1890 British contract seizing Peru's land and minerals Banker August Belmont, Rothschild's representative and long time head of the U.S. Democratic Party with Leonard Jerome, owner of the New York Times were personally close to the Austrian Hapsburgs and helped manage British-Hapsburg subversive projects in Mexico and South America. Leonard Jerome's daughter Jennie had married Britain's Randolph Churchill, who in 1880, with his partner Arthur Belfour, launched the new ultra-feudalist group in British politics Disraeli's "Venetian Party." Winston was then six years old. Britain's influence in America had grown ominously in 1879. British bankers, whose Wall Street agents ruled the "desperate" New York political machine, had compelled the resumption of gold payments to foreign holders of U.S. bonds. This gave the Rothschild- Morgan syndicate a blackmail dictatorship over U.S. finances. The "McKinley Act" of 1890 was the great protective tariff law of the last generation of American nationalist leaders. Its author, Ohio congressman and former Union military officer William McKinley, said that "the law of 1890 gave work and wages to all such as they had never had before. It did it by establishing great industries in this country..... It had no friends in Europe."

McKinley was elected to the presidency in 1896 on a platform of high wages and defiance of British free trade doctrines. McKinley's first act as President was to push through a law heavily taxing British and other imports, so as "to preserve the home market to our producers; to revive and increase manufactures; to relieve and encourage agriculture, to aid and develop mining and building; to render labor in every field of useful occupation the liberal wages and adequate rewards to which skill and industry are justly entitled." In 1882, when McKinley was a Congressman, he identified the British sponsorship of free trade: Who has demanded a tariff for revenue only? What portion of our citizens? What part of our population? Not the agriculturalist; not the laborer; not the mechanic; not the manufacturer; not a petition before us, to my knowledge asking for an adjustment of tariff rates to a revenue basis." England wants it, demands it—not for our good, but for hers; for she is more anxious to maintain her old position of supremacy than she is to promote the interests and welfare of the people of this republic. Free trade may be suitable to Great Britain and its peculiar social and political structure, but it has no place in this republic, where classes are unknown and where equality is a rule; where labor is dignified and honorable; where education and improvement are the individual striving of every citizen, no matter what may be the accident of his birth, or the poverty of his early surroundings. Under such conditions, free trade can have no abiding place here."

President William McKinley an opponent of British free trade he was assassinated 1901, by anarchist assassin Leon Czolgosz he told police after his capture that he was disciple of Emma Goldman's, and had heard her lecture on the destruction of government two weeks before he killed the President. Emma Goldman and the anarchists were sponsored in high style America and in England. New York's Henry Street Settlement House was built in 1893 by Wall Street's Jacob Schiff, in cooperation with his partner Sir Ernst Cassell, a personal banker to the British Royal Family and to the Fabian Society.

Winston Churchill— "From the days of Spartacus, Weishophf, Karl Marx, Trotsky, Belacoon, Rosa Luxemburg and Emma Goldman, this world conspiracy has been steadily growing. This conspiracy played a definite recognizable role in the tragedy of the French Revolution. It has been the mainspring of every subversive movement during the 19th century. And now at last this band of extraordinary personalities from the underworld of the great cities of Europe and America, have gripped the Russian people by the hair of their heads and have become the undisputed masters of that enormous Empire."

Presenting Speech By Sir Colin Hines, O,B.E. “Gun laws” at Dubbo N.S.W 1/2/1988

Mr. Chairman, Parliamentarians in attendance, Distinguished Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen. I thank those responsible for this evening's meeting and for the invitation to attend, and do so as the Representative of The Returned Services League in this State and at the same time, as a very concerned citizen.

State Executive of the R.S.L has fully agreed with any actions I have taken in the past on the question before the meeting tonight and also support any sentiments I may express on this occasion.

In retrospect I cannot help but think of those people who paid the supreme sacrifice in time of war, both men and women, in the defence of this nation, and I also am very conscious of the sacrifices made by our pioneer grandfather's and grandmother's for their efforts in carving out a nation from a wilderness.

Are the results of their sacrifices to be squandered and destroyed or will we as a people, display the same courage and fortitude and make certain that all the principles of democracy and freedom are retained for our children and future generations.

Ladies and Gentlemen: Why are we, as a people so apprehensive and fearful for the future of Australia? I believe sincerely that the reason is, that we are the potential victims of the greatest conspiracy ever conducted against mankind----- The purpose of that conspiracy is to take over the world in the name of communism, where we will eventually have a World Government with one Navy, one Army, one Air force, with one Church without Christ. The conspirators are very patient, as they have been working towards their goal for over 200 years. I believe that they have made more advances since 1945, than ever before in their history and remembering the words of Karl Marx and I quote--- The theory of communism may be summed up in one sentence “Abolish all private property.” The communists have infiltrated all facets of our society including our Parliament, the Media, The Department of Education and the Churches. The ‘Left’ as a reference to their organization is used to give nothing else but a sense of respectability to the card carrying communists and their fellow travelers. It's interesting to note that some 36 members of the left of the present government prior to the last election would congregate in Canberra when ever a meeting was held. Many changes have occurred in the past few years, with no reference to the people whatsoever. To mention a few--- Change to our national anthem, Stripping of powers to the Monarchy, Divisive actions taken in regard to our national flag and now the constitution to be reframed, Something that I am very fearful of, particularly if the people are not approached on this subject.

The closing and redevelopment of rifle ranges a national disgrace, and now the disarmament of the population. The latter being the policy exerted against many countries since 1945, prior to the takeover in many instances by a communist one party dictatorship. The Baltic States of Europe are a good example of what can happen to democracy and freedom. In the R.S.L. I have what is referred to as Ethnic Sub Branches, they are the Polish Sub Branch, the Estonian and the Greek and I feel ladies and gentlemen, that far more notice should have been taken years ago of these immigrants, as to the consequences that they saw as inevitable, if the Australian people allowed the processes that have been put into operation by the ‘One Worlder's’ to continue. Recently, I issued a press release headed “ The Stark Realities of the Gun Debate,” where I advised responsible people to retain their guns in the face of revelations that gun laws were a political and electoral ploy by the N.S.W. State government. I believe that statement is as relevant today as it was then and I also warned at the same time that television programs depicting violence centered around guns showing characters using guns as weapons of glorification of destruction, were not only fictional but conducive to inciting people with problems to mimic the programs in real life and may underlie the destruction of life and property, not to mention the fear within our community from crimes of violence.

Until the government has acted responsibly in respect of censorship of audio visual material for public consumption, then honest law abiding citizens may need their guns for protection. Until recently men of the N.S.W. rifle association were our civilian militia in time of invasion. I remind you tonight that on the 4th June 1942, The Japanese were approaching the shores of Northern Australia with a very large armada and it has been reported that at the time, the man who I believe could be classified as one of Australia's greatest Prime Minister's John Curtin, warned that all Australian men should arm themselves to defend this country against invasion. Except for the strength of the American Forces at that time, I am certain that the Japanese would have landed in the north of our country. Considering World events and particularly in our own region, is it very different today? Here we are with a defence force and I quote Commodore Alan Robertson from today's edition of the Daily Telegraph, where he claimed that the Army today would need a week to field a Company of three hundred lightly armed infantry and he also claims that it would take a month to field a Brigade of two thousand men. There were many other frightening submissions in that article to which I refer, but I stress the point that those who practice in weaponry must be looked upon as part of the defence structure of the future. Ladies and Gentlemen: What do we do in the immediate future? What urgent steps do we take? I, for a long time, have been a great believer that the only way to get results, particularly from a meeting of this size, is for every person to go home and immediately write to his or her local member, in this case both state and federal, pointing out that it is your will that in this instance he opposes any move to withdraw weapons from the citizens of this country. At the same time, indicating to him that he will not have your support at future elections without his answer in the affirmative. I point out that there is nothing so frustrating to any politician, than to have his mail bag continually full. The difficulty with this approach is that only a few will follow the lines that I have suggested, which in every case leaves it to the executive of the organizers of the meeting to take responsibility for all necessary correspondence. This is unfair and in most instances will fail. Another method would be to take up a petition, which up to date and in particular with regard to the retention of our present national flag, I have found to be more or less ineffective means of convincing the government in power. The other action that we may take is to agree with the meeting that was held at Malabar, dealing with the closure of ANZAC Range, whereby it has been reported in today's Daily Telegraph, that they agreed to organize thousands of gun enthusiasts to march on State Parliament the week before the election. Ladies and Gentlemen: With thirty thousand shooters marching in Melbourne in recent days, I believe that we could far exceed that number in Sydney and that this would be a clear indication to the government that the people of this state, totally disagree with the suggestion that weapons will be withdrawn from responsible citizens. What I have suggested could be combined with letters to your local member and at the same time physically demonstrate our objections to the suggested legislation. Before closing Ladies and Gentlemen, I ask you to remember the words of that famous American President, Abraham Lincoln and I quote—

“Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it to be.”
Thank you Ladies and Gentlemen.

NO I.G. FARBEN NO HITLER

Hitler's main source of economic power was from the I.G. Farben chemical cartel.

The I.G. Farben cartel was created by loans from Wall Street in what was called the Dawes plan. Carroll Quigley described the Dawes Plan as “largely a J.P. Morgan production.” The J.P. Morgan Group set up the loan to I.G. Farben, and administered by Paul Warburg and his brother Max Warburg which created Hitler.

Without the capital supplied by Wall Street, there would have been no I.G. Farben, no Hitler and probably no World War 11 under Adolph Hitler. Henry Ford merged his German assets with I.G. Farben in 1928. The cartel created the lethal Zyklon B gas that was used to exterminate Jews. It was also involved in the torture experimentations that led to mind control methods, such as Monarch Programming.

Germany was at a significant disadvantage if they were to embark on a second world war. The nation had a fuel shortage, I.G. Farben fixed this problem, So Germany was able to fight W.W.11 through the use of synthetic fuels that were created by the Hydrogenation process (turning coal into gasoline). This process was discovered by I.G. Farben. Hydrogenation technology was not fully developed by W.W.11. I.G. Farben made a deal with Rockefeller's Standard Oil, who was able to complete the research, facilitating W.W.11. Surprisingly no I.G. Farben plants were targeted by Allied Bombing raids on Germany. By the end of the war the refineries had experienced only 15 % damage. The American Ambassador to Germany before W.W.11, William Dodd wrote to President Roosevelt: "At the present moment, more than a hundred American corporations have subsidiaries here or co-operative understandings, The Dupont's have their allies in Germany that are aiding in the armament business. Their chief ally is the I.G. Farben Company....., Standard Oil Company... sent $2,000,000 here in December, 1933 and has made $500,000 helping the Germans improve hydrogenation technology...., The International Harvester Company President, told me that their business here rose by 33% a year, but they could take nothing (earnings) out (except in goods). Even our airplanes people have secret arrangements with Krupps. General Motors Company (which was controlled by J.P. Morgan Group) and Ford do enormous business here through their subsidiaries and take no profits out". Germany needed the capital of these and many more American companies in order to wage war. I.G. Farben had a holding company in the United States called American I.G. Farben. Paul Warburg, his brother Max (head of Germany's Secret Service during W.W.1.), and Warburg agent Herman Metz were some of the members of the board of directors of the American I.G. Farben. Other directors included Rockefeller/International banking men Edsel Ford, Charles Mitchell and Walter Teagle. Three Germans on the board of Governors were convicted as war criminals after the war, but the elite Americans were not, even though they had participated in the same criminal decisions as those who were convicted. According to author Eustace Mullins, Hitler met with Allen Welch Dulles and John Foster Dulles in 1933. The Dulles brothers were acting as legal representatives of Schiff and Warburg's Kuhn & Loeb Co, which was an integral part of the Rothschild network. Mullin's claims Kuhn and Loeb had extended short term credits to Germany, and needed to ensure repayment of these loans. The Dulles assured Hitler he would receive the funds necessary to be installed as Chancellor of Germany, if he promised to repay the debts. One of the largest tank manufacturers for Germany was Opel, which was controlled by J.P.Morgan. Bendix Aviation, which supplied data to Germany on automatic pilots, aircraft instruments and aircraft and diesel engine starters was controlled by J. P. Morgan. I.G. Farben produced 84% of all Germany's Bombs that were dropped during the Second World War. Professor Anthony C. Sutton in his book, "Wall Street and the Rise of Hitler" clearly points out that World War 11 was not only well planned, it was also extremely profitable-for a select group of financial insiders. Carefully tracing this secret through original documents and eyewitness accounts, Professor Sutton, documents the roles played by J.P. Morgan, T.W. Lamont, the Rockefeller interests, General Electric Company, Standard Oil, National City Bank, Chase and Manhattan banks, Kuhn, Loeb and Company, Union Banking Corporation of New York Director & Vice President Prescott Bush Father of George H. Bush and grand father of George W. Bush who worked with E.R. Harriman and W.A. Harriman and other business elitists to fund the rise of Hitler. The Second World War was created by the Illuminati, Rothschild, Morgan, Warburg and Schiff. "After the end of the war, the Tribunals that investigated Nazi war criminals censored any materials recording Western assistance to Hitler," Anthony C. Sutton.

The Melbourne "Age," of September 26, 1940, published the following article "The New York Daily News states that $10,000,000. dollars worth of war materials are going to Germany and Italy from the U.S. every month via Spain, Portugal, Cuba, Russia and Mexico. Department of Commerce figures show for example compared with the first seven months of last year's shipments across the pacific to Russia and hence to Germany, were leaping up."

The Melbourne "Argus" of March 7th, 1941 contained the following; "Germany's funds in the United States now total $300,000,000. Dollars, according to official data on international finance made available today. These funds are said to be increasing faster than they can be spent..... These funds reliable sources affirm that Germany's financial position is so favorable that some dollar assets for which Germany finds no use are being transferred toJapan."

WAR IS A RACKET

Major General Smedley D, Butler U.S.M.C. winner of two Congressional Medals of Honor in his 1935 book "War is a racket". The following is an excerpt from a speech delivered by Smedley Butler in 1933, at the launch of his book. "War is just a racket. There are only two things we should fight for one is the defense of our homes and the other is the Bill of Rights. War for any other reason is a racket. It may seem odd for me, a military man to adopt such a comparison. Truthfulness compels me to. I spent thirty three years and four months in active military service as a member of this county's most agile military force, the Marine Corps. I served in all commissioned ranks from Second Lieutenant to Major General. And during that period, I spent most of my time being a high class muscle man for big business, Wall Street and for the Bankers. I suspected I was just part of a racket at the time. Now I am sure of it. Like all the members of the military profession, I never had a thought of my own until I left the service. My mental faculties remained suspended animation while I obeyed the orders of the higher ups, This is typical with everyone in the military service. I helped make Mexico safe for American oil interests in 1914. I helped make Haiti and Cuba a decent place for National City Bank boys. I helped in the raping of half a dozen Central American republics for the benefits of Wall Street. I helped purify Nicaragua for the international banking house of Brown Brothers in 1909-1912. I brought light to the Dominican Republic for American sugar interest in 1916. In China I helped to see to it that Standard Oil went on its way unmolested. During those years, I had, as the boys in the back room would say, a swell racket. Looking back on it, I feel that I could have given Al Capone a few hints. The best he could do was to operate his racket in three districts. I operated on three continents. And yes, "war is a racket"! It always has been. It is possibly the oldest, easily the most profitable, surely the most vicious. It is international in scope. It is the only one in which the profits are reckoned in dollars and the losses in lives. A racket is best described, I believe, as something that is not what it seems to the majority of the people. Only a small "inside" group knows what it is about. It is conducted for the benefit of the very few, at the expense of the very many. Out of war a few people make huge fortunes. In World War One a mere handful garnered the profits of the conflict. At least 21,000 new millionaires and billionaires were made in the United States during the war. That many admitted their huge blood gains in their income tax returns. How many other war millionaires falsified their tax returns no one knows."

On Tuesday 26th, November, 1963 the day after President Kennedy was buried. President Lyndon Johnson signed National Security Action Memorandum number 273. That document gave the C.I.A. the green light to begin covert operations again in the Gulf of Tonkin and in that the acceleration of the Vietnam War. And set in motion the biggest Industry in the United States even to this day, (WAR)

NATIONAL SUICIDE Military Aid to the Soviet Union. Anthony C. Sutton.

About 80% of the armaments and supplies for the Vietnamese War came from the Soviet Union, and a key part of President Nixon's policy was the transfer of technology to the USSR. Soviet military aid has of course been fundamental for the North Viets. In September 1967 the institute for Strategic Studies in London reported that the Soviets had sent large numbers of MiG-17 and Mig21 fighters, Ilyushin-28 light bombers, transport aircraft, helicopters, 6,000 antiaircraft guns (one half radar controlled), surface-to-air (guideline) missiles, 200-250 missile launchers, several thousand air defense machine guns, and a training mission of about one thousand men to North Vietnam. This was confirmed in April 1967 in testimony of Former Assistant Secretary of Defense John T. McNaughton to the effect that the Soviets had supplied the "sophisticated equipment in the field of anti-aircraft defense." The loss of 915 U.S. planes over North Vietnam between February 1965 (the date of the first U.S. air operations over North Vietnam) and the bombing halt of November 1st 1968 testifies to the accuracy and the utility of the Soviet equipment. After President Nixon took office in January 1969 and expanded technical transfers, losses mounted, rising to a total of more than 4,000 U.S.

aircraft by the end of 1972. In 1972, a full scale invasion was launched with various kinds of heavy equipment they had not previously used. The tanks, guns, and trucks came from the Soviet Union—and were produced in plants erected and equipped by American and European companies. The T-54 tank was used in force in early 1972. The T-54 has a modified Christie-type suspension. The GAZ trucks on the Ho Chi Minh trail came from the Ford-built Gorki plant. The ZIL trucks on the Ho Chi Minh trail came from the Brandt-built plant. Both plants were equipped with new American machinery while the Vietnamese War was in progress. The amphibious PT-76 tank is manufactured at Volgograd—in a factory built by eighty U.S. firms. This was called “peaceful trade” as the material presented in this book will show, the “arsenal for revolution” was built by Western firms and has been kept in operation with “peaceful trade”. Both the Johnson and Nixon administrations irrationally and illogically chose to expand trade to Soviet Russia. The more Hanoi stoked up the war, the more Soviet Russia received from the United States. American Policy wittingly or unwittingly—was guaranteed not only to maintain the Vietnam War but to expand it, increase our losses, and compound the problem of preserving South Vietnam. The guns, the ammunition, the weapons, the transportation systems that killed Americans in Vietnam came from the American-subsidized economy of the Soviet Union. The trucks that carried these weapons down the Ho Chi Minh trail came from American-Built plants. The ships that carried the supplies to Sihanoukville and Haiphong came from NATO allies and used propulsion systems that the American State Department could have kept out of Soviet hands – indeed , the Export Control Act and the Battle Act, ignored by the State Department, required exactly such action. The only other route for these supplies was by rail across Siberia and China. But Soviet locomotives and railroad operating equipment have also been traced to U.S. and European origins. Between 1961 and 1964 the American casualty toll was 267 killed 783 wounded. Then in 1965 President Johnson stepped up the flow of technology to the Soviets they in turn stepped up the flow of supplies to North Vietnam and the American toll mounted rapidly- 1965—1,369 killed, 3,308 wounded. 1966—5,008 killed, 16,526 wounded. 1967—9,378 killed, 32,371 wounded. 1968—14,592 killed, 46,799 wounded. After President Nixon took office in 1969 the toll was as follows 1969—9,414 killed, 32,940 wounded. 1970—4,221 killed, 15,211 wounded. 1971—1,380 killed, 4,767 wounded. 1972—300 killed, 587 wounded.

Anthony C. Sutton dedicated this book to the 35million individuals killed by Soviet statism between 1917 and 1972.

Lysander Spooner, No Treason (Boston, 1870)

This business of lending blood money is one of the most thoroughly sordid, cold blooded, and criminal that was ever carried on, to any considerable extent, amongst human beings. It is like lending money to slave traders, or to common robbers and pirates, to be repaid out of their plunder. And the men who loan money to governments, so called, for the purpose of enabling the latter to rob, enslave and murder their people, are among the greatest villains that the world has ever seen.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND

In his book “Lessons of my Life” Lord Vansittart, Head of the British Foreign Office wrote; “We and several other countries were in it to, financing Germany, but the United States were by far the major sinners, and alone provided over 50% of loans..... Some of the first were made to the big German armament firms..... Wall street and the City kept fattening her for the slaughter of others.”

“In view of the disastrous policy followed by the Bank of England after the last war and the part it is believed to have played in the re-armament of Germany, does not the right hon. Gentleman Sir John Simon consider it time that the people knew a bit more about the proprietors of this unique concern?” Mr. R.Stokes, in the British House of Commons, April 16, 1940.

The following is an extract from the publication “Social Credit,” September 20, 1935.

“By a strange twist of irony a Bank of England concern, which has probably done more in the last few years to undermine Britain’s security than all the Communists and all the machinations of foreign powers put together, is called National Shipbuilders’ Security Ltd. A more suitable name would be International Bankers’ Security, for this concern is engaged in making ship-owning safe for bankers who now control the ‘British’ mercantile marine. It is ‘rationalizing’ the ship building industry by scrapping so-called redundant yards. According to its annual report, this company has spent, in three years, a total of $ 1,153,387. pounds to buy shipbuilding yards for the deliberate purpose of scrapping them. To replace this destruction would cost at least twenty times as much. This is but one more instance of the sabotage of real wealth in the attempt to make facts fit an archaic financial system. Those who remember the submarine blockade of last war, which resulted in the loss of millions of tons of ships and thousands of human lives, and nearly resulted in starving this country into surrender, should ponder the dangerous activities of National Shipbuilders’ Security, particularly at the present time. We trust that, if, unfortunately, war comes again, no plea of ignorance or ‘sound’ financial reasons will enable those responsible for this sabotage to escape the penalty of traitors, should Britain suffer for lack of these yards to build ships to replace those sunk.”

The sabotage of Britain’s shipbuilding was referred to in the House of Commons January 21, 1941; Mr. James Griffiths (Llanelly) “I came into this House very largely because of the way industry was being neglected. We are paying the price for the last twenty years in allowing our industrial equipment to rust and to rot. For twenty years we lived in a period when coal mines, workshops and shipbuilding yards were being closed down. By whom? By financiers of this country, I cannot give way, as I have not much time, and I am entitled to make my point. I want the nation to remember that for twenty years we have pursued a policy of restricting and cutting down production, and now we are paying the price for it. I will give one example. What would this nation give today for a shipbuilding yard like Jarrow? Who closed down Jarrow? “The Bank of England.” Montagu Norman was the Governor of the Bank of England and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht of the German Reichsbank during World War 11, they were both listed as directors of the Bank for International Settlements Switzerland. The “Times” Basle correspondent reported April 5th, 1936. “For the first time since its existence of the Bank of International Settlements a board meeting was held today in a country other than Switzerland. Dr Schacht had invited all the Governments to meet at Badenweiler, a German health resort in the Black Forest, where Dr. Schacht has several times spent week-ends with Sir Montagu Norman. After Munich, Dr. Schacht went over to England and was a guest of Mr. Norman. The following is taken from the British “Handsard” “Mr. Parker asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he is aware that, in the report of the Bank of International Settlements, dated May 27, 1940, the names of Mr. Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and Dr. Funk, German Economic Minister are included together amongst the list of directors; and as it is not desirable at the present time should Mr. Norman be listed in a public document as a colleague of a German Cabinet Minister, will he take the necessary steps to terminate this country’s connection with the Bank of International Settlements?”

“Sir K. Wood : “No, sir, I do not think so, because, as I have said, I think there are advantages to this country in retaining the connection. We have a little money there.....“ Mr. Gallacher: ‘Does the right hon. Gentleman remember the words of the Prime Minister, that the gold sent through this bank by Montagu Norman to Germany would come back to this country in the form of bombs; and in view of the correctness of that prophecy is it not about time to put an end to this bank?’”

“Sir K. Wood; ‘I have already said we have some interest there.’”

The following is an extract from the Diary of Lord Bertie, 1914-1918 (vol. 1, page 134.)“The Dardanelles expedition was known only to the inner ring. Louis Mallet heard of it at dinner from Leo de Rothschild, who had learned of it from Alfred de Rothschild, who may have picked up the information in the course of his daily visits to Kitchener at the War office and 10 Downing street. There is no such thing as a secret nowadays, at the Dardanelles, we lost thousands upon thousands of our best men.”

In 1974, The Houghton Mifflin Company published the “Diary and Letter’s of General George S. Patton.” In the summer of 1945, the U.S. Army had just completed the destruction of Europe and had set up a government of military occupation amid the ruins to rule the starving Germans. General George S. Patton, commander of the U.S. Third Army, became military governor of the greater portion of the American occupation zone of Germany.

On May 7th, 1945. At a conference in Austria with U.S. Secretary of War Robert Paterson. General Patton was gravely concerned over Soviet failure to respect the demarcation lines separating the Soviet and American occupation zones. He was also alarmed at the plans by Washington for immediate partial demobilization of the U.S. Army. Patton told Paterson “Let’s keep our boots polished, bayonets sharpened and present a picture of force and strength to the Red Army. This is the only language they understand and respect.” Patterson replied “Oh George, you have been too close to this thing so long, you have lost sight of the big picture.” Patton rejoined: “I understand the situation. The Soviet supply system is inadequate to maintain them in a serious action such as I could put to them. They have chickens in the coop and cattle on the hoof----- that’s their supply system. They could probably maintain themselves in the type of fighting I could give them for five days. After that it would make no difference how many million men they have, and if you wanted Moscow I could give it to you. They lived on the land coming down. There is insufficient left for them to maintain themselves going back. Let’s not give them time to build up their supplies. If we do, then we have had a victory over the Germans and disarmed them, but we have failed in the liberation of Europe; we have lost the war!”

Patton’s urgent and prophetic advice went unheeded by Patterson and other politicians and only served to give warning about Patton’s feelings to the conspirators behind the scenes in New York, Washington and Moscow.

Most of the Jews that were in Germany after the war came from Poland and Russia.

He described in his diary one of the displaced persons camps the American’s had built. “where, although room existed, the Jews were crowded together to an appalling extent, and in practically every room there was a pile of garbage in one corner which was also used as a latrine. The Jews were only forced to desist from their nastiness and clean up the mess by the threat of the butt ends of rifles. Of course, I know the expression ‘lost tribes of Israel’ applied to the tribes which disappeared—not to the tribe of Judah from which the current sons of bitches are descended. However, it is my personal opinion that this too is a lost tribe—lost to all decency.”

Patton’s initial impressions of the Jews were not improved when he attended a Jewish religious service at General Eisenhower’s insistence. In his diary entry for September 17, 1945, reads in part: “This happened to be the feast of Yom Kippur, so they were all collected in a large, wooden building, which they called a synagogue. It behooved General Eisenhower to make a speech to them. We entered the synagogue, which was packed with the greatest stinking bunch of humanity I have ever seen. When we got half way up, the head rabbi, who was dressed in a fur hat similar to that worn by Henry VIII of England and in a surplice heavily embroidered and very filthy, came down to meet the General..... The smell was so terrible that I almost fainted and actually about three hours later lost my lunch as the result of remembering it.”

After a visit to ruin Berlin, Patton wrote to his wife on July 21, 1945: “Berlin gave me the blues. We have destroyed what could have been a good race, and we are about to replace them with Mongolian savages. And all of Europe will be communist. It is said that for the first week after they took Berlin, all the women who ran were shot and those who did not were raped. I could have taken it instead of the Soviets had I been allowed.” In a press conference on September 22nd, After losing his temper, the press interpreted one of Patton’s answer’s to their insistent questions as to why he was not pressing the Nazi-hunt hard enough that night he wrote in his diary. “There is a very apparent Semitic influence in the press. They are trying to do two things: first, implement communism, and second, see that all businessmen of German ancestry and non- Jewish antecedents are thrown out of their jobs. They have utterly lost the Anglo-Saxon conception of justice and feel that a man can be kicked out because somebody else says he is a Nazi. They were evidently quite shocked when I told them I would kick nobody out without the successful proof of guilt before a court of law.”

In a letter to his wife dated the same day; “I will probably be in the headlines before you get this, as the press is trying to quote me as being more interested in restoring order in Germany than catching Nazis. I can’t tell them the truth that unless we restore Germany we will insure that communism takes America.”

Eisenhower responded immediately to the press outcry against Patton and made the decision to relieve him of his duties as Military Governor.

On October 22nd, he wrote to Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord.

“I have been just as furious as you at the compilation of lies which the communist and Semitic elements of our government have leveled against me and practically every other commander. In my opinion it is a deliberate attempt to alienate the soldier vote from their commanders, because the communists know that soldiers are not communistic, and they fear what eleven million votes of veterans would do.”

Gen. Douglas MacArthur—“I am concerned for the security of our great nation not so much because of any threat from without, but because of insidious forces working from within.”

WHO CONTROLS THE WORLD’S OIL.

In 1863, with partners Maurice Clark and Samuel Adams, John Davidson Rockefeller sr. 1839-1937. Formed the Standard Oil Company. In 1865, Rockefeller brought out Clark and later brought in Henry Flagler. By 1870 their firm was running the largest oil refinery in Cleveland and it became incorporated as the Standard Oil Company and by 1880 controlled the refining of 90-95% of all oil produced in the United States. In 1899 the Standard Oil Company was incorporated in New Jersey as a holding company. On May 15th, 1911, Standard Oil was found to be in violation of the Sherman Anti Trust Act of 1890. The U.S. Supreme Court ordered in a twenty thousand word decision that Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) divest itself into 38 separate companies. The court said that Standard Oil wanted to establish a monopoly in order “to drive others from the field and exclude them from their right to trade, and that seven men and a corporate machine have conspired against their fellow citizens. For the safety of the Republic, we now decree that this dangerous conspiracy must be ended.” Rockefeller owned 25% of Standard Oil New Jersey, which meant he now owned 25% of all Standard Oil subsidiaries. In 1911, after the break-up eight companies retained Standard Oil in their name. In 1931, through another merger Standard Oil of (New York) became Mobil Oil. In 1939, Standard Oil of (Indiana) absorbed Standard Oil of (Nebraska) and Standard Oil of (Kansas) in 1948 and became Amoco Corporation. In 1961, Standard Oil of (California) acquired Standard Oil of (Kentucky) and became Chevron in 1984. In 1972, Standard Oil of New Jersey changed its name to Exxon, which is one of the largest corporations in the world controlling 321 other companies. Standard Oil (Ohio) became British Petroleum in 1987. Exxon controls Venezuela’s Creole Oil, Scony Oil or Mobil, Continental Oil (Conoco), Atlantic Richfield (Arco), Gulf Oil, Phillips 66, Texaco Oil, Marathon Oil and Humble Oil. Exxon is known as Esso outside the United States and was derived from Standard Oil (SO) ESSO. The 799 mile Alaskan pipeline is owned by British Petroleum and Exxon. The 753 mile Trans Arabian pipeline from Qaisuma in Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean Sea is owned by Exxon, Chevron, Texaco and Mobil. The 143 mile pipeline in Venezuela and the 100 mile Interprovincial pipeline in Canada are both owned by Exxon. These pipelines as well as other vital arteries control 90% of all crude exports to world markets. By controlling these pipelines they can restrict the flow of oil, limiting supplies to refineries and increasing costs to consumers at will. In 1984, Chevron brought and merged with Gulf Oil and then in 2001, merged with Texaco to become Chevron-Texaco. The second largest oil company in the United States. In 1998, Exxon merged with Mobil to become Exxon- Mobil the largest oil company in the United States and also the largest company on the planet. In 1987, British Petroleum purchased the remaining 45% of Soho Oil (Standard Oil of Ohio) then in 1998, merged with Amoco (Standard Oil of Indiana) and in 2000 merged with Arco (Atlantic Richfield). In 2001, Conoco (Continental Oil) and Phillips Petroleum merged to make Conoco-Phillips the third largest oil company in the United States. Who controls the world's oil? It was the cartel known as the "Seven Sisters" now it's back to about Four Sisters, all controlled by the same people.

ABIOTIC OIL

The theory that oil is not solely of organic origin, but that there may be another origin as well, from deep within the earth's crust, involving magma.

In 1970, the Russians started drilling the KOLA SG3, an exploration well which reached the world record depth of 40,230 ft. Russian oil company, Yukos has drilled more than 310 successful super-deep oil wells and put them into production. It would be a fairly safe bet to say that there has never been forests more than forty thousand feet below the earth's surface. NASA scientists are about to publish conclusive studies showing evidence of abundant methane of a non-biological nature that was found on Saturn's giant moon Titan that validates the findings that oil is not a fossil fuel. (World Net Daily) 1/12/2005.

In their book "Black Gold Stranglehold" Jerome Corsi R.PHD. and Mr. Craig R. Smith expose the fraudulent science that has made the world vulnerable in the belief that oil is a fossil fuel and that it is a finite resource. The book reveals the conclusions reached by Dr. Thomas Gold, a professor at Cornell University in his seminal book "The Deep Hot Biosphere", The myth of fossil fuels; accepted by many in the scientific community that oil is not the product of fossil and pre-historic forests but rather the bio product of a continuing bio-chemical reaction below the earth's surface that is brought to obtainable depths by the centrifugal forces of the earth's rotation.

IS AUSTRALIA IN PERIL? YES!

These People, the Financial Oligarchy which has ruled the World down through the centuries intends to destroy the Independent Sovereign Nation State called Australia they must, if their plan for Globalization is to go through. They must destroy the Australian constitution as well. They are doing it right now through something that is called the fractional reserve banking system, all they have to do is sit back and wait and it will come to them. It's been called by many terms down through the years but the end result is going to be the same. Darwinism, Nietzscheism, Marxism, Leninism, Stalinism, Socialism, Fascism, Communism, Capitalism and now Globalism. They are going to bankrupt Australia along with other Nation States at which point the United Nation's International Monetary Fund and the World Bank will merge and become one entity and their will be One World Government through the United Nations with One Army, One Navy, One Air force too enforce it, One money system with One currency in the world and they will say which counties will receive funding for which projects and for what purposes. Sound far-fetched at the April 2009 G20 meeting which Kevin Rudd played a major role in securing (SDRs) Special Drawing Rights for the IMF International Monetary Fund. The London Telegraph's Ambrose Evans-Pritchard cited the clause calling for the issuance of $250 billion in SDRs as "a revolution in global financial order." "In effect, the G20 leaders have activated the IMF's power to create money and begin global 'quantitative easing.' In so doing, they are putting a defacto world currency into play. It is outside the control of any sovereign body," he wrote.

In 1975, Thirty- nine third world counties couldn't pay their debts to the United Nation's World Bank. So at a meeting in Lima Peru, between March 12th-26th. Under U.N.I.D.O. (United Nations Industrial Development Organization). Out of which came the (Lima Declaration and Plan of Action). This meant that the developed countries like Australia, New Zealand, Canada, U.K. and U.S.A etc, would wind their Industries down, shift them across to the third world, then import the goods back that we used to make here in Australia. And the Third World would be given a means in which they could come up to the First Worlds standard of living and be able to pay their debts. The vote was carried out by Bureaucrats on our behalf of Australian's, who would never have to suffer the consequences and they voted in the affirmative. After accepting The Lima Declaration and plan of Action the Australian government decided to have a look at what this meant for Australia and Australians, by this time Malcolm Fraser was the Prime Minister, John Howard, the Treasurer and Andrew Peacock was the Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Malcolm Fraser, John Howard and Andrew Peacock went ahead and accepted it. On July 20th 1978 The then Minister for Foreign Affairs Andrew Peacock gave an address to the Victorian Branch of the Australian Institute of International Affairs. The following is a text from that speech Page 5. "The transfer of technology to developing countries is another basic concern. We are participating actively in the work in the United Nations system aimed at drawing up a code of conduct for the transfer of technology. I am convinced that the developing countries would make rapid strides if the technology appropriate to their needs was made much more freely available to them. It is clear that the research and development capacity of the developed countries could be readily and relatively cheaply directed to that objective. In the field of Industrialization Australia has broadly accepted the Lima Declaration and Plan of Action on Industrial development and co-operation. We will therefore assist in action designed to accelerate industrialization in developing countries and will be participating fully in the relevant international consultations on that objective."

In 1979, the Australian Treasury produced an economic paper number 6. titled NIEO an assessment of the proposals for the New International Order. This is what the Treasury said Chapter 5. Implications for Australian Policy. Quote "In this sense, the NIEO proposals as presented in the U.N. have serious adverse implications for Australia's security and economic welfare." "Moreover, an International economic system that involved the exercise of substantive economic or other powers by International institutions could impinge on Australia's sovereignty in ways that could have serious implications for the nature of Australian society."

Since that time 1975 on Australia has lost over 65% of its manufacturing base over seas and we have lost over 175,000 family farmers. (Thrown out, off their farms, for what?) So we can import the food that we used to grow here for ourselves. The Third World never came up to our standard we are going down to theirs. One could argue how the deliberate winding down of Australian Manufacturer's and Farmers has benefited the third world if you read Pamela Bone's article "A Bank's Poverty Policy" The Age, November 25th, 1991. "Thirteen million children a year die of hunger and disease of poverty. To stand by and do nothing when the world has the resources to feed them could be a crime of genocide, Mrs. Justice Elisabeth Evatt told a recent conference of the Freedom from Hunger Campaign. The world is doing something isn't it? What about the Billions of dollars of aid the West has poured into the Third World countries over the years? Last year alone the developed world gave the developing countries US$50 billion in aid. It took back US$93 billion in debt repayments and unequal trade deals. While rich countries plead compassion fatigue; the world's poor last year gave US$43 billion the world's rich." The article further quotes Mr. Kamal Malthotra, the director of overseas programs for Community Aid Abroad saying "because the World Bank's major shareholder is the United States, it is accused of echoing US policies and being little more than a debt collector for American banks." The United Nations, World Bank and the International Monetary Fund were established to alleviate world poverty now they are causing it. Why? Under John Howard's leadership Australia's total Foreign debt rose by over two thirds, Since 1996 when John Howard took office to 6/12/2006 Australia's Foreign Debt grew 170% to $522 billion or 53.4 % of G.D.P. and it is continuing to grow at about $50 billion per year, despite the biggest commodity boom since the 1960's. At the same time he double the taxation take 1995-1996 $115,700,000 to 2006-2007 $217,866,000 And that is no cycle. In 1980, Australia had no Foreign Debt and the Rural Debt was $3.7 billion today the Rural Debt is over $54 billion if that trend continues there will not be enough primary producers to produce the food for Australia's population. In 1960, Australia had 290,000 primary producers with a net rural debt of $77 million. By 1970, there were 250,000 with a net debt of $1224 million. In 1985, the primary producers were reduced to 170,000 carrying between them a debt of over $6,000 million. By 1988, farmer numbers had dropped below 150,000 while their debt had spiraled around $8,000 million and in 1990 $11 Billion, 2002 $26 Billion, 2009 $54 Billion. With less than 100,000 primary producers and family farms have been destroyed. (And no amount of rain is going to bring those farmers back they are gone forever.)

Brisbane Times, Business, June 4th, 2008.---Nassim Khadem.

“Australia’s Foreign Debt, Topped $ 1 trillion for the first time in the March quarter, as the nation borrowed at record levels from the rest of the world to finance its spending habits. The nation’s trade performance also deteriorated significantly during the three months to March 31st, with the current account deficit widening to almost $20 billion as the resources boom failed to boost a struggling export performance. In a reminder to the Federal Government of its mounting economic challenges, the Bureau of Statistics reported that Australia’s net foreign debt rose by almost $9 billion in the March quarter to a record high of $616.1 billion, equivalent to about 57% of Australia’s Annual Gross Domestic Product.

In gross terms—when the amount owed by the world to Australia is excluded from the figures—Foreign Debt came in at more than $1 Trillion (or $1000 billion) for the first time, prompting warnings from economists about our vulnerability to economic shocks.” Remember, One Billion months ago dinosaurs walked the earth. (One Billion months is 82 million YEARS.)

Today Australia’s Gross Foreign Debt is $ 1,232 Billion or 1.232 Trillion and rising.

If you wanted to pay off a Trillion dollars of debt at a dollar a second it would take you 32,000 years. Wake up, you ---- ----- can’t you see that these people are destroying our nation. All the major political parties are under their influence. And the Australian Banking system has been under their influence since 1924 when Prime Minister Stanley Melbourne Bruce arrived back from London with orders to destroy the powers of King O’Malley’s’ original Commonwealth Bank which Bruce did. Up until John Howard, Stanley Bruce was the only Prime Minister to lose his seat at an election. On the 12th February 27, 2010.

Commonwealth Government Debt was $122 billion 10% of GDP.

Australia’s Gross Foreign Debt was 1,232 billion or 1.232 (trillion). Over 100% GDP.

Australia’s Household Debt was $1,200 billion or 1.2 (trillion) -100% GDP.

Foreign Debt of Australia’s Banks and other Financial Institutions $827 billion.

Bank’s and other Financial Institutions Foreign Debt with a maturity of less than 90 days $441 billion.

In 1960, 1 in 20 adults below retirement age were drawing welfare payments today that figure is 1 in 5. In 1960, there were 22 workers to every one person on welfare.

Today, there are 5 workers to every one person on welfare.

Australia is ranked 160th in the Current Account balance hierarchy.

These people also intend to drop the World’s population down from 7 billion people to 2 billion.

They are doing that right now too through the implementation of a new tax (ETS) called Carbon Trading on Developing nations and Developed nations. And also by allowing the hospital system to decline with a growing number of senior citizens (Baby Boomers) needing more and more medical & pharmaceutical needs. The number of hospital beds, public and private per 1000 people has been in decline in Australia since 1975. In 1975 there were just under 7.8 public and private hospital beds per 1000 population in 2005 the number has dropped to 4 beds per 1000 population That is why 4000 Australians’ died in 2009 waiting for medical treatment.

In 1979, the then Australian Treasurer John Howard appointed a leading financier, Keith Campbell, to head the “Committee of Inquiry into the Australian Financial System”, Known as the Campbell Committee. Campbell who was not only the head of the Hooker Corporation here in Australia, but he was also tied to the Mellon Bank in the United States. Campbell’s report set the scene for radical deregulation of Australia’s financial system. Campbell’s proposals were so radical John Howard was unable to attract enough support in the Fraser Government to implement them. Then in 1983, when Labor came to power Bob Hawke and Paul Keating implemented them. They deregulated the banks; floated the Australian dollar; scrapped capital controls;(started Foreign Debt), lifted restrictions on interest rates; and opened Australia up to foreign banks, like Macquarie Bank—which started as the Australian branch of the “City of London’s” Hill Samuel Bank. Graeme Julian Samuel, Chairman of the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC), Executive Director of Hill Samuel Australia Ltd, Executive Director of Macquarie Bank Ltd, Director of Grant Samuel & Associates Pty Ltd, Co Chairman of the Jewish Communal Planning and Development 1995-1997, Chairman of Commission Future Jewish Community Vic 1992-1997.

In the early 1980’s The Hawke-Keating government initiated massive privatization programs, which included Australia’s greatest financial institution, the Commonwealth Bank, later John Howard completed the banks privatization in 1996. In 1989, Paul Keating set up compulsory superannuation, which generated and directed the flow of money out of workers’ pay packets and into a deregulated financial system dominated by unleashed private banks, and new institutions like hedge funds and private equity funds, along with new forms of money, called derivatives, which were formerly illegal. Then in 1991, Keating and the state treasurers signed off on a report by a Macquarie Bank executive, Fred Hilmer, into “competition” policy. This report mandated all levels of government to allow private financial interests to take down every area of the economy under public ownership or control or government regulation for “increased competition” and Graeme Samuel was picked to enforce this new policy. In the early 1990s, Victorian Premier Jeff Kennett and Treasurer Alan Stockdale went on the biggest privatization spree of any nation in world history, selling $30 billion in assets in three years, all under the cover of the new competition policy. The head of Kennett’s Business Roundtable of advisors was Macquarie Bank’s Laurie Cox; Macquarie Bank financed the think tank called the Tasman Institute, which co-wrote Kennett’s privatization blueprint, entitled (Project Victoria); and Macquarie Bank earned tens of millions of dollars in fees from the Victorian Government for brokering the sales. Morris Iemma tried to ram through the privatization of the N.S.W. electricity system, it was to finance the extension of Macquarie Bank’s M4 Motorway. When Alan Stockdale left politics he went to work for Macquarie as did Bob Carr, so does Paul Keating’s sister Anne, John Howard’s brother Stan, former Howard government minister Warwick Smith and former Keating government minister Michael Lee members from both Keating and Howard’s cabinets now work for Macquarie. When Lindsay Tanner retired from politics he cited his young children as the reason, saying they “need me more than my country needs me”. On September 10th 2010, he announced that he was going to work for investment bank Lazard, Freres where former PM. Paul Keating is Lazard’s international chairman. Lindsay Tanner’s government awarded Lazard a multi million dollar contract to advise on the financing of the $43 billion national broadband network. Between 1993 and 2008, Macquarie Bank’s funds under management grew from $8.9 Billion to $232 Billion, it’s annual profit grew from $59 million to $1.8 Billion, it’s number of employees expanded from 132 to 13,000 and it’s net worth from $341 million to $16 Billion.

Privatization started in Australia with the federal sale of Qantas and the partial sale of the Commonwealth Bank in 1991, N.M. Rothschild and Sons director Sidney Baillieu Myer was the chairman of the Mont Pelerin Society front the Tasman Institute. Which co-wrote the Kennett’s “blueprint for reform”, Project Victoria. Rothschild’s became the key creditor to many of the companies that snapped up the assets.

By 1998, according to Naill Ferguson, author of ‘The House of Rothschild’.

Rothschild Australia accounted for an incredible one third of the global, N.M. Rothschild’s groups profits. Rothschild / Inter-Alpha group partners are The Royal Bank of Scotland, ING, the Spanish giant Banco Santander.

Rothschild Australia chairman is Trevor Rowe, he is the leading business advisor to the Queensland Government and until recently was the chairman of the Queensland Investment Corporation (QIC), and his Rothschild Australia was the lead advisor to Anna Bligh’s predecessor Peter Beattie’s sale of Queensland’s electricity retail assets in 2007. Former Liberal Prime Minister John Howard turned to Rowe informally and sometimes as a formal advisor, on the sale of Telstra, Commonwealth Bank and Sydney Airport. Now Rowe's Rothschild Australia is one of the three lead advisors, along with Merrill Lynch and fellow Inter-Alpha Group member RBS (Royal Bank of Scotland), advising Premier Anna Bligh on the Privatization of Queensland's Ports, Rail, Roads and Forestry. One of Rowe's positions is as a member of the "Board of Guardians" of the Federal Government Future Fund, the $66 Billion fund set up by Howard and Costello with the proceeds of the sale of Telstra. As well as Rowe, the Board of Guardians is chaired by former CBA boss David Murray, and has members drawn from other banks including CBA, Suncorp, and J.P. Morgan, (the only non-banker is Peter Costello, His new job is managing director of BKK Partners, which was founded by "former" executives of Goldman Sachs). Following the August 2007 onset of the global financial crisis, the Future Fund, under the stewardship of these bankers, took the lead in bailing out Australia's Banks; $35 billion of the fund was deposited among the banks to provide a desperately-needed capital boost, and significant portions of the balance were lent to the banks, and invested in bank bond offerings. And that is the reason now why there is quadrillions upon quadrillions upon quadrillions of un-payable debt in the world and as Lyndon La Rouche quite rightly points out that the world will be headed for a new dark-age the same as the last one in the 14th century when the Venetian bankers collapsed world trade and commodity prices.

King O'Malley the man who created the Commonwealth Bank in 1912.

"The Australian is such a lovable fellow, salt of the earth. So vigorous physically, but dulled mentally for want of sharpening up with knowledge. How he could expand! What God-given heritage there is here! But Australians sleep on. If only the people here would realize what they own; what is theirs by the grace of God! Trouble is it came to them without a fight.... But they'll wake up good and proper some day. Then let the rest of the world look this way-there'll be something to see! That I'll promise you."

King O'Malley (1865 – 1953) who had emigrated from America, campaigned ceaselessly for a National Bank. In 1896 he was elected to the South Australian House of Assembly as the member for Encounter Bay. In 1901 O'Malley entered the first House of Representatives as the independent member for Tasmania, advocating, amongst other things, the establishment of a National Banking System. His detailed proposals for one became part of Labor's "Fighting platform" in its non-negotiable principals at the party's Brisbane conference in 1908. He then gave his allegiance to the Labor Party.

*Frank Anstey 18/8/1865--31/10/1940. Member for Bourke 13/4/1910—7/8/1940. And mentor to John Curtin. Published a book called The Kingdom of Shylock, in which he described the "money power" which he said controlled and manipulated capitalism from behind the scenes. "London is, so far, the web centre of international finance," he wrote. "In London are assembled the actual chiefs or the representatives of the great financial houses of the world. The Money Power is something more than Capitalism. These men constitute the Financial Oligarchy. No nation can be really free where this financial oligarchy is permitted to hold dominion, and no 'democracy' can be aught but a name that does not shake it from its throne." Anstey described this system as the "Black Masonic Plutocracy." "These men constitute the Financial Oligarchy, this group of speculators properly designated and distinguished as the Money Power, controls the whole mechanism of exchange, and all undertakings in the field of industry are subject to its will and machinations. It wields an unseen sceptre over thrones and populations, and bloody slaughter is as profitable to its pockets as the most peaceful speculation." James Hume Cook held the seat of Bourke after Frank Anstey until Solicitor Maurice Blackburn won it, the same Maurice Blackburn Solicitors' that are now mounting the class action against Bank Usury.*

The Commonwealth Bank The People's Bank

In 1891, after the labor movement was crushed in the great shearers and maritime strikes of 1890, it turned to politics. The issue of the General Welfare or Common Good, as it was called in Australia back then, was paramount to the early founders of the Australian Labor Party who desired, what they called “National Federation” of Australian colonies as opposed to the “Imperial Federation under the Crown.”

They, like the Americans, made the adoption of a National Bank, a corner stone for the fight for our sovereignty. They embedded such a bank in the platform of the Labor Electoral League, a forerunner of the ALP in the NSW election in 1891. In that election, 37 Labor members for the first time representing an actual Labor Party, were elected anywhere in the country.

With the adoption of “Imperial Federation” under the Crown in 1901, the struggle to adopt and maintain a national bank was Labor’s outlook, which was captured in an editorial of January, 5th 1907 in The Brisbane Worker, one of the papers owned by The Australian Workers Union, under the leadership of its founder and organizer W.G Spence.

“The Money power! It is the greatest power on earth; and it is arrayed against Labor. No other power that is or ever was can be named with it. ... It attacks us through the press--a monster of a thousand lying tongues, a beast surpassing in foulness any conceived by the mythology that invented dragons, werewolves, harpies, ghouls and vampires. It thunders against us from innumerable platforms and pulpits. The mystic machinery of the churches it turns into an engine of wrath for our destruction.

“Yes so far as we are concerned, the head- quarters of the money power is in Britain. But the money power is not a British institution; it is cosmopolitan. It is of no nationality, but all nationalities. It dominates the world. The money power has corrupted the faculties of the human soul and tampered with the sanity of the human intellect...

“And that is why labor men and women should stand religiously to their principals and refuse the baits of compromise and expediency. The labor party represents the only movement able to cope successfully with the money power, the only force not vitiated by it”.

From the time of his arrival in the late 1890’s a man by the name of King O’Malley (1885 – 1953) who had emigrated from America, campaigned ceaselessly for a National Bank. In 1896 he was elected to the South Australian House of Assembly as the member for Encounter Bay. In 1901 O’Malley entered the first House of Representatives as the independent member for Tasmania, advocating, amongst other things, the establishment of a National Banking System. His detailed proposals for one became part of Labor’s “Fighting platform” in Its non-negotiable principals at the party’s Brisbane conference in 1908. He then gave his allegiance to the Labor Party.

On September 30, 1909 in a five hour speech on the subject to the Federal parliament, O’Malley emphasized:

“The private Banking System of the Commonwealth is only legalized monopoly for gathering of wealth from the many, and its concentration in the hands of a privileged few. The system established by America’s first Treasurer, Alexander Hamilton, should be adopted instead,” he argued adding “I am the Hamilton of Australia. He was the greatest financial man who ever walked this earth, and his plans have been improved upon. The American experience should determine us to establish a national banking system which cannot be attacked. We are legislating here for the countless multitudes of future generations, who may bless or curse us..... We are in favor of protecting not only the manufacturer but also the man who works for him. We wish to protect the oppressed and down trodden of the earth. However great the natural resources of the nation, however genial it’s climate, fertile it soil, ingenious and enterprising it’s citizens or free it’s institutions, if the money volume is manipulated by private capitalists for selfish ends, it’s credit shrinks and prices fall. Its producers and business people must be overwhelmed with bankruptcy, its industries will be paralyzed and destitution and poverty will prevail. If Australia implements a national bank” O’Malley said “a glorious future will open up for it. In the commonwealth, the national banking system will greatly reduce interest rates that useful productions will increase in leaps and bounds. Wealth, instead of accumulation in the hands of a few will be distributed amongst the producers. A large proportion employed on relief works, building up cities, will be expanded in cultivating and beautifying the country. Natural improvements will be made to an extent, and in perfection unexampled in the history of the world. Agriculture, Manufacturers, inventions, science and the arts will flourish in every part of the nation. Those who are now non producers will naturally become producers. Products will be owned by those who perform the labor, because the standard of distribution will be neatly to the rights of humanity.”

On October 5, 1911 over opposition from his own party’s leadership, including Prime Minister Andrew Fisher and the then Attorney General Billy Hughes, King O’Malley with James Scullin and other members known as the “Torpedo Brigade,” decided that at a meeting of the caucus, whoever was called upon by the Prime Minister for new business, would move the adoption of a bank bill by the government. The honor fell on Hon. J.M Chatner, and Dr. William Maloney, Chairman of the “Torpedo Brigade” seconded the motion.

After vigorous debate, advocates of the bank defeated leaders of the government and forced them to bring down the bill for the bank. A few favored the establishment of a Commonwealth bank facilities. It would give a means for taking over state debts. Since federation the question of the Commonwealth Government taking over state debts had been under consideration. The following men supported King O’Malley in the caucus: W.G. Higgs, J.K. McDougall, G. Can, T. Brown, Dr W. Maloney, J. M. Chanter, W.F. Finlayson, J.M. Fowler, F. Brennan, J. Matthews, F.J. Foster, J.A. Jensen, A.T. Ozane, W. Webster, E. Riley, P. Maloney, J.H. Scullin, W.G. Spence, F.W. Banford, F. Anstey, J.E. Fenton, L. Smith, H. DeLargie, A. Rae, R.K. Ready, A. McDougall, D.J. O’Keefe and S. Barker.

One fact of the campaign for a Commonwealth Bank merits attention. If King O’Malley had continued publicly advocating a National Bank, the private banks would have naturally prepared to block the proposal from going into effect. As it was however, bankers, after the conference with Government leaders in 1910, thought the matter settled. The prolonged silence of King O’Malley seemed to confirm this view.

Consequently when Caucus, on October 5th 1911, voted for the bank, leaders of the private banks were caught unprepared. It is very doubtful if King O’Malley would have succeeded if he had not been silent.

From Dr L.C. Jauncey’s (Harvard University) Australia’s Government Bank Book, and quoted in the House of Representatives on October 19, 1927 by Sir Earl Page. The Bill establishing the Commonwealth Bank was passed in a more limited form than the issue, reserve, exchange and deposit which O’Malley desired.

The new Commonwealth Bank opened for business on July 15th 1912 and rapidly accomplished several things. It stopped the bank crash on the eve of world war one. It financed at much lower interest rates than prevailed in London, much of Australia’s involvement in that war. It provided the capital for infrastructure and other projects including the Transcontinental Railway whose construction O’Malley personally oversaw and directed as Home Minister in Andrew Fisher’s cabinet from 1910 -1913.

Sir Denison Samuel King Miller was born near Wollongong on the 8th March 1860 and educated at Deniliquin public school where his father was headmaster. He joined the local branch of the Bank of New South Wales obtaining a transfer to the head office in Sydney in 1882. He became head accountant in 1896, Assistant to the General Manager, John Russell French, in 1900 and Chief Metropolitan inspector in 1909. Strongly recommended by French, he was hand picked by King O’Malley to be the first head of the Commonwealth Bank.

O'Malley was fully aware of the stakes involved and had told Miller, "You have a chance to make history, Brother Miller, Australian History, which will become World History. Think the matter over deeply and accept the job. Decide to make history. I am sure you're the man to do it".

Denison Miller was appointed the first Governor of the Commonwealth Bank on June 1st 1912. The bank's sole capital was 10,000 pounds advanced by the government. By January 1913 the Commonwealth Savings Bank operations extended throughout Australia and general banking business had begun. On March the 12th 1913 at an official ceremony to mark the commencement of building, Lady Denman, wife of the Governor General, named Canberra. And the foundation stone of the nation's capital was laid by Lord Denman, Prime Minister Fisher and Home Affairs Minister King O'Malley. The Bank's resources totaled 9,750,000 pounds by January 1914. On September 13th 1915 the Commonwealth Government imposed income taxes for the first time in the Commonwealth, to pay for war expenditures. During World War I, Denison Miller created a succession of war loans that raised more than 190,000,000 pounds. Miller's seven year term as governor of the bank was renewed in 1919 and the note issue was given to the bank in 1920.

In 1921 during an interview, Sir Denison Miller as Governor of the Commonwealth Bank, was asked if he, through the Commonwealth Bank, had financed Australia during the First World War for 700 million pounds. He replied, "Such was the case, and I could have financed the country for a further like sum had the war continued". Asked if that amount was available for productive purposes in this time of peace he answered "Yes".

Sir Denison Miller also said in the Australian press on July 7 1921 "The whole of the resources of Australia are at the back of this bank, and so strong is the Commonwealth Bank, whatever the Australian people can intelligently conceive in their minds and will loyally support, that can be done. As long as the race that made Australia stands, so too will the Commonwealth Bank".

On 6th June 1923, Sir Denison Miller died suddenly.

In 1924 Prime Minister Stanley Melbourne Bruce arrived back from London with orders to do something about the Commonwealth Bank. Its powers were gutted under its new chairman Sir Robert Gibson. In 1929 with the world plunging into the Great Depression, a Labor government under Prime Minister James Scullin, a member of O'Malley's Torpedo Brigade, came to power in October. Scullin's Treasurer, Ted Theodore, introduces two Bills--the Central Reserve Bank Bill to establish a new reserve bank, which would control the paper note issue and the gold reserve and mandate all private banks to keep 10% of their current accounts and 3% of their reserves with it, and the Commonwealth Bank Act Amending Bill, to replace the six member big business dominated board with a single governor, such as it had under Sir Denison Miller. Both bills are killed by the Senate. The Bank's Chairman, Sir Robert Gibson, is asked to issue 18 million pounds in notes for public works to provide work for men whose families are beginning to starve. He adamantly refuses saying, "Prime Minister and members of the Cabinet. You asked me to inflate the currency. My answer is that I bloody well won't".

Inflating the currency was a lie: Australia's money supply had dropped from 57 million pounds in 1924 to 42 million pounds in 1929.

In 1927 the Bruce Government on the Advice of Sir Ernest Harvey, Bank of England, separated the general bank from the savings bank. In September, 1927 Dr Earl Page, Commonwealth Treasurer, introduced a Bill in the Commonwealth Parliament to separate the savings bank business from the Commonwealth general bank. On July 19 1930 Sir Otto Niemeyer, second in charge of the Bank of England under Sir Montague Norman, arrived in Australia to place austerity programs on Federal and State governments and to make sure no credit is issued for the public works.

Under enormous pressure, the federal Labor government and State Premiers sign on to Niemeyer's demands by adopting the so-called Premiers Plan, which cuts jobs and relief payments. The same day however, a special conference of unions and the Australian Labor Party passes an emergency resolution calling for a five year moratorium on overseas interest payments, and the cancellation of all war debts owed to the City of London, and the mobilization of the credit, for the community to work for sustenance for the revival of industry.

Author of the resolution is Victorian MP Frank Anstey, another member of O'Malley's Torpedo Brigade and mentor of John Curtin.

On October 25, 1930 John Thomas Lang (1876 -1975) i.e. Jack Lang sweeps to victory as New South Wales Premier, campaigning against "Niemeyerism". One of his chief campaigners is future Prime Minister John Curtin. In 1931 Jack Lang formulates the "Lang Plan" supported by Frank Anstey, which has three main points: A partial moratorium on debts to the British, since much of the debt dated from World War One when Australia had lost 60,000 of her finest young men fighting to defend the British Empire; The lowering of all internal interest rates to 3%; And the adoption of a "Goods Standard" to replace the usurious, London-controlled "Gold Standard."

Cabinet Minister Frank Anstey supports Lang: "If I have to make a choice between this government constantly belly crawling to the banking power and John Lang, then give me John Lang". In a bitter faction fight, Anstey is dumped from cabinet.

His protégé, John Curtin, authors a pamphlet entitled Australia's Economic Crisis and the 55,000,000 interest bill: How the years of Money Power Extortion have brought misery to the Nation. Curtin concluded his pamphlet with a ringing call for a National Bank.

On December 19, 1931 NSW Premier Jack Lang, threatens a debt moratorium against the British. He had implemented an Anti-Eviction Bill to stop the escalating tide of evictions along with a Moratorium Act, to stop bankrupt farmers from being driven off their land. Then, in March 1932, Lang refused to pay the next payment due to the British Bondholders. He would later explain "We were spending 3 million pounds a year from State Taxation on relief of distress. If we sent 3.5 million pounds overseas to meet interest payments, we would have to stop issuing dole tickets, and put men off public works being maintained for the relief of the unemployed. I had no intention of doing that. So the Bond Holders would have to wait their turn. It was simply a question of whether the bond holders went unpaid."

During this time Jack Lang built the Sydney Harbor Bridge which provided employment for many unemployed and symbolized the hope of many Australians at the time of the Depression. On March 19th 1932 at the official opening of the Sydney Harbor Bridge, New Guardsman Col. Francis de Groot preempted NSW Premier Jack Lang, by riding forward on his horse and cutting the ribbon with his sword.

On May 13th 1932 the Queen's representative in NSW, the Governor Sir Phillip Game, sacked Jack Lang as Premier. On June 5th 1932 the largest crowd in the history of Australia, estimated between 400,000 and 500,000 of Australia's total population of less than 7 million, turned out in a rally at Sydney's Moore Park to support Lang.

New South Wales Premier Jack Lang, like King O'Malley, was a fierce enemy of the "Money Power." He wrote in his 1962 book The Great Bust, of how the City of London-centred "Money Power" functioned.

"The City of London for more than two hundred years dominated the financial affairs of the world. It had mastered the technique of the management of money. London was the exchange hub of the world. With the Bank of England, Lloyds of London, the great investment brokers, the underwriters, the insurance combine, and its shipping trusts, it was able to gather together all the intricate strands of the world's most efficient money machine. Most countries paid their tribute in the form of dividends, interest and premiums. The sun indeed never set on the far-flung dependencies of the City of London.

"From the time I first came into contact with the system, as Treasurer of the then sovereign State of New South Wales, I had many opportunities to study the machine in actual operation. One could not help but admire its expert handling of the smallest details of a deal. At the same time, it was impossible to ignore the inescapable conclusion that it was leech-like in its methods.

“It was the City of London that had established what was known as the Mercantile System out of the industrial revolution. The Victorian era had been one of great commercial expansion. With that rare genius for political invention, Gladstone, Disraeli and other British statesmen sought a substitute for the old system of Crown Colonies. They found it in the British Empire. The formula was to hand to the colonies the right to govern themselves providing they did not break the financial nexus with the City of London.”

Lang then described how this great octopus entirely dominated Australia:

“The City of London provided all the capital required for the development of the colonies. The City controlled the ships, the wool and wheat exchanges, the insurance houses and all the other machinery of trade and commerce... .

“The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, as they called the Bank of England, presided over the financial dynasty of the Empire. It was supported by the Big Five, the major private banks. If a government in the Dominions or the colonies wanted to raise money, it had to go through approved channels. The financial world was divided into zones of influence. The Houses of Nivison, Rothschild, Barings, Morgan and Grenfell, all had their respective rights. If a government in the colonies wanted to raise money, it could only approach one firm. It had to meet a rigidly controlled scale of underwriting fees. It had to accept the conditions and the interest rates dictated by its London agents who were actually agents for the British investors. There was no room for argument. It was a case of taking it or leaving it. It was useless to try another source.

“The City had its own underground communication system. It was left to the underwriters to divide up the spoil. They simply produced the clearing house. In addition there were the big mortgage companies, who had invested in colonial estates, handled colonial primary produce and advanced money to colonial settlers. They were closely allied to the banks. They specialized in mortgages. As they invariably reserved the right to handle all the produce as well, they perfected a form of tied business that left no loopholes for the client. Usually the banks and the mortgage companies had interlocking directorates, who specialized in colonial business. So, in Australia, the grazers, the farmers, as well as most of the import houses, the principal mining companies as well as the banks, insurance companies and shipping, all led directly back to the City of London.

“That had been the complete picture when Australia entered the First World War. All our railways, our power plants, our school buildings and even our police courts and goals had been built with money supplied by the City of London. We were a debtor nation. The bondholders never permitted us to forget it.”

In 1936 the Royal Commission on Banking, though appointed by the Lyon Government, finds that not only should the Commonwealth Bank have expanded credit in the late 1920's and early 1930's instead of restricting it, but that, in the case of conflict between the bank and the Government, “The views of the government should prevail”. Future Prime Minister Ben Chifley is a member of the Commission.

September 20th 1937, John Curtin gives his policy speech in Fremantle. He refers to the findings of the 1936 Royal Commission saying, “These findings emphasize the degree in which the Royal Commission on Banking realizes that banking is more than mere finance, that it is in fact a great social function which should be controlled in the permanent interest of the people”.

To deal with unemployment and to make that industrial and economic preparedness which is the essence of national defense and security, three related monetary measures are necessary:

- 1 National control of credit to ensure its adequacy to maintain and increase employment;
- 2 National control of interest rates, in order to keep to a minimum the monetary and capital cost on production and industry;
- 3 National direction of investment with the object of assisting in the promotion of balanced economic development.

“The Commonwealth Bank is the logical instrument to function for the community in effecting monetary re-adjustment and economic reconstruction. The Labor Government will legislate so that the Commonwealth Bank would be able to completely control:

- A) Credit of the nation;
- B) Rates of interest;
- C) Direction of general investment;
- D) Currency relations with external markets.

The Labor Party points to the planks of its platform and insists that the Bank must have its original charter restored.

In 1939 on the eve of World War II, veteran campaigner King O’Malley raises his voice once again for a National Bank, in his pamphlet, “Big Battle”:

“Oh! Would that I possessed the power to arouse the Australian people to the imperative importance of revitalizing the Commonwealth Bank! In financial crisis they have suffered, but their minds seemed to be possessed with the fatalism of the Turks. But I say it is not the will of God which produces panics, but a want of an intelligent banking system. Banking is the fundamental function. The banks should be co-workers with the producers and traders. The Commonwealth Bank should possess the capacity to continue exercising the banking functions and thereby sustaining normal values during the fiercest commercial crisis. A system possessing potential financial power such a capacity in connection with the talent for production, trade and commerce possessed by the people of Australia and the boundless wealth of its natural resources may make Melbourne instead of London the principal exchange city of the world, and Australia instead of England the creator nation of the world”.

December 27, 1941 Prime Minister John Curtin assumes control over the deployment of credit, and Australia begins the greatest surge in production in its history, becoming self-sufficient in machine tools and even supplying Allied Forces abroad.

January 1945, Treasurer Ben Chifley tables legislation to make the wartime control of banking which directed credit to the benefit of the national interest, permanent. Chifley tells parliament, “The intention of this legislation is to ensure that the banking system of this country shall work in the interests of the people as a whole. It has been planned in such a way as to ensure that final authority over the monetary policy of the country shall rest with the government, which is responsible to the parliament, and to the people. No longer shall we leave control of the monetary system of this country in the hands of people with no special training, whose interest are personal and material and associated with ‘Big Business’.”

The bill becomes law, but is bitterly opposed by the private banks. In 1947 the High Court overturns whole sections of Chifley's banking bill. Prime Minister Chifley, as he now is, passes a new bill providing for the Commonwealth Bank to take over all private banks. Chifley tells parliament that the purpose of the bill is to develop the immense resources of Australia: “Essentially the task of the new (Banking) organization will provide a financial mechanism appropriate to the needs of our rapidly growing economy. Australia is destined to see great developments in the coming years and this process, which is already underway, must be promoted by every means possible. The basic services of transport, communications, water supply, power, housing, health and education must be enlarged to meet the needs of a larger economy, a banking system created to serve the welfare of the community”.

The private banks immediately launch an all out assault on the Law in the High Court, employing Sydney K.C. (Kings Council) Garfield Barwick, in August 1948. The High Court finds in favor of the private banks, overturning Chifley’s legislation and in 1949 The Privy Council of London also finds in favor of the private banks. The banks launch a campaign to drive Chifley from office.

The Brisbane Mail of July 31, 1949 writes, “The decision of the Privy Council against the nationalization of banking in Australia has touched off an all out campaign by the banks and bank officers to sink Chifley at the federal elections towards the end of this year". The campaign was successful and Robert Menzies comes to power.

Sir Robert Gordon Menzies (1894 –1978) was the youngest-ever Kings Councilor in Victoria and was awarded the highest honorary British Office ever held by an Australian as Warden of the Cinque Ports. He first became Prime Minister in April 1939 upon the death of J.A Lyons. The opposition rejected his proposal for an all party wartime administration in September 1939 after making his pledge to support Britain "to the last man and the last shilling" following the outbreak of war on September the 3rd 1939.

In the years 1940 and 1941 Menzies had stripped Australia of virtually all of its trained manpower, by sending the 6th, 7th and 9th Inventory Divisions to North Africa and the Middle East. After party dissention in August 1941 he was compelled to resign.

As early as 1934 B.H.P. managing director Essington Lewis began to warn about the danger of an impending war, and the need to build up Australia's defences following a trip he had taken to Japan. Lewis returned convinced of both the danger that Japan presented, and the urgency for Australia to build its own ships, but more importantly, its own air force and aircraft production capacity. His warnings were ignored, so in 1936, B.H.P and five partner companies formed the Commonwealth Aircraft Corporation and built a factory at Fishermen's Bend in Melbourne, and began the production of 40 Wirraway aero planes. When war broke out three years later, they represented Australia's only aircraft production capability and a base from which to produce aircraft, thanks to Essington Lewis' foresight.

Lewis and John Curtin went on to become the two most significant Australian figures in War World Two. When General Douglas Macarthur arrived in Australia on March 17, 1942, he was given a status report on March 20 on the defences available to Australia. There was less than one American division, virtually no planes, and most of Australia's experienced troops were still abroad. After getting the report and having seen the devastation in Darwin, Macarthur could only say, "God have mercy on us". In his biography, Macarthur would later say of the condition of Australia left by Menzies, "It was the greatest shock of the whole war".

From David Allen Rivera "Final Warning", The History of the New World Order

"American and British Intelligence have documented evidence that the House of Rothschild, and other International Bankers, have financed both sides of every war, since the American Revolution. Financier Haym Salomon, who supported the patriots during the American Revolution, then later made loans to James Madison, Thomas Jefferson, and James Monroe, was a Rothschild agent. During the Napoleonic Wars, one branch of the family funded Napoleon, while another financed Great Britain, Germany, and other nations. Their boldest maneuver came prior to the Civil War.

The Rothschild's operate out of an area in the heart of London, England, the financial district, which is known as 'The City' or the 'Square Mile.' All major British banks have their main offices there, along with branch offices for 385 foreign banks, including 70 from the United States. It is there that you will find the Bank of England, the Stock Exchange, Lloyd's of London, the Baltic Exchange (shipping contracts), Fleet Street (home of publishing and newspaper interests), the London Commodity Exchange (to trade coffee, rubber, sugar and wool), and the London Metal Exchange. It is virtually the financial hub of the world.

Positioned on the north bank of the Thames River, covering an area of 677 acres or one square mile (known as the "wealthiest square mile on earth"), it has enjoyed special rights and privileges that enabled them to achieve a certain level of independence since 1191. In 1215, its citizens received a Charter from King John, granting them the right to annually elect a mayor (known as the Lord Mayor), a tradition that continues today.

Both E. C. Knuth, in his book Empire of the City, and Des Griffin, in his book Descent into Slavery, stated their belief that 'The City' is actually a sovereign state (much like the Vatican), and that since the establishment of the privately owned Bank of England in 1694, 'The City' has actually become the last word in the country's national affairs, with Prime Minister, Cabinet, and Parliament becoming only a front for the real power. According to Knuth, when the Queen enters 'The City,' she is subservient to the Lord Mayor (under him, is a committee of 12-14 men, known as 'The Crown'), because this privately-owned corporation is not subject to the Queen, or the Parliament. There seems to be little doubt that the Rothschild's continue to influence the world economy, and it is known that they are squarely behind the movement to unite all the western European nations into a single political entity, which is just another step towards one-world government."

On September 10th 1984 the then-treasurer Paul Keating and the Federal Government invited the Foreign Banks to establish their business in Australia. Sunday Herald Sun July 14th 2002 "Ray hits Keating Bank sell-off" Christine Jackman. "The Hawke-Keating Labor Government rushed through the sale of the Commonwealth Bank with no proper briefing of Cabinet. Labor power broker Robert Ray and several other senior Labor figures have admitted misgivings about the sale in private interviews for a PhD Thesis by Shadow Trade Minister Stephen Martin. And, in a possible indication of Telstra future under Labor, some admitted it was impossible to stop the full sale of the Commonwealth Bank once part of it was sold."

"The thing about the Commonwealth Bank was once you sold a third of it, you had bugged the lot", former speaker Leo McLeay told Mr. Martin. "Once you sell a percentage of a public utility, you lose control". At the time, the Government justified the partial sell off of the Commonwealth Bank as a means of funding a rescue takeover of the State Bank of Victoria which was on the verge of collapse in 1990, but Senator Ray said the Victorian crisis "was just used as a lever to flog off the (Bank)". "Cabinet made the decision without any briefing papers being given out in advance, just told 'this is the decision we had to make'. He said "The Commonwealth Bank was sold for one reason only, to make money to put into the Budget"; Shadow Treasurer Bob McMullan admitted he had since questioned his own support for the sale. "I was pretty reluctant but I thought it was necessary" Senator McMullen said. "In hind sight, I'm not so sure". The Martin thesis was completed in July 2000 for a Doctorate in economics from the University of Wollongong and has just been released from a University embargo. On the 25th August, 1986 in the West Australian newspaper, General Manager of the Commonwealth Development Bank, Mr. John Fletcher, warned that Australia's money system was being sabotaged. "Foreign exchange dealers and multi-national banks are using dirty tactics deliberately to run down the Australian dollar. The multi-national bankers should never be underestimated in the lengths they will go to, and the dirty tactics they will employ in pursuing their profit objectives."

When the Labor Party sold the Commonwealth Bank, they not only sold the Bank but they also sold Australia's sovereignty and put our children and grandchildren's destiny directly into the hands of the Money Power, the very same power that King O'Malley, Denison Miller, James Scullin, Frank Anstey, John Fitzgerald, William Spence, John Curtin, Ben Chifley, Jack Lang and his brother-in-law Henry Lawson, had fought so hard against, to free Australia from. Today the Money Power is also centered in the United States of America. They are:

- 1 Rothschild Banks of London and Berlin
- 2 Lazard Brothers Banks of Paris
- 3 Israel Moses Seif Banks of Italy
- 4 Warburg Bank of Hamburg and Amsterdam
- 5 Kuhn, Loeb Bank of New York
- 6 Chase Manhattan Bank of New York
- 7 Goldman, Sachs Bank of New York

These Banks are the private corporation known as the Federal Reserve Bank of America.
Abraham Lincoln –

"The money power preys upon the nation in times of peace, and conspires against it in times of adversity. It is more despotic than monarchy, more insolent than autocracy, more selfish than bureaucracy. It denounces, as public enemies, all who question its methods or throw light upon its crimes.

Today N.M Rothschild & Sons Ltd of New Court is:

Key Bullion broker in the English Commonwealth. Owner and Operator of the Royal Mint Refinery. Gold agent to the Bank of England. And sets the price of gold bullion twice a day.

Rothschild's' have been among the principal dynamos powering the modern stress cycle. They are the arch demons of our Zeitgeist that is half the reason they are legend. The other half lies in their ability to transcend the very same Zeitgeist they have been spreading.

"Portrait of a Dynasty" Frederick Morton.

Peter Kershaw ---"The Founding Fathers of this great land had no difficulty whatsoever understanding the agenda of bankers, and they frequently referred to them and their kind as, quote,' friends of paper money.' They hated the bank of England, in particular, and felt that even were we successful in winning our independence from England and King George, we could never truly be a nation of freemen, unless we had an honest money system. Though ignorance, but moreover, because of apathy, a small, but wealthy, clique of power brokers have robbed us of our Rights and Liberties, we are being raped of our wealth. We are paying the price for near-comatose levels of complacency by our citizens, and god only knows what might become of our children, should we not work diligently to shake this country from its slumber! Many a nation has lost its freedom at the end of a gun barrel, but here in America, we just decided to hand it over voluntarily. Worse yet, we paid for the tyranny and usurpation out of our own pockets with "voluntary" tax contributions and the use of a debt-laden fiat currency!"

Australia's net foreign debt from 2007 Australian Bureau of Statistics year book. At the 30th of June 2006 was $493.8 billion, up $61.9 billion on 30th of June 2005. The increase during 2005 – 2006 resulted from a $118.1 billion increase in net foreign debt liabilities. Total foreign debt liabilities are $833.451 billion. Today in 2010 Foreign Debt is $1.2 Trillion and growing.

KING O'MALLEY, (1858-1953), Founder of the Commonwealth Bank. On September 30, 1909 in a five hour speech on the subject to the Federal parliament, O'Malley emphasized:
"The private Banking System of the Commonwealth is only legalized monopoly for gathering of wealth from the many, and its concentration in the hands of a privileged few. The system established by America's first Treasurer, Alexander Hamilton, should be adopted instead," he argued adding "I am the Hamilton of Australia. He was the greatest financial man who ever walked this earth, and his plans have been improved upon. The American experience should determine us to establish a national banking system which cannot be attacked. We are legislating here for the countless multitudes of future generations, who may bless or curse us..."

In 1939 King O'Malley had vigorously entered the: Save the Commonwealth Bank Campaign", by publishing a booklet, "Big Battle". He wrote, "I trust that all good and patriotic Australians will swear by the altar of their gods, the tombs of their Ancestors and the cradles of their children, that they will never vote for Parliamentary candidates whose secret mission is to destroy The Commonwealth Bank... and whose brains, if extracted, dried and placed in the quill of a cocksparrow and blown into the eye of a bee, would not even make him blink."

Insurance salesman and politician, was by his own account born on 4 July 1858 at Stamford Farm, Quebec, Canada, but more probably at Valley Falls, Kansas, United States of America, son of Irish migrant William O'Malley and his wife Ellen, née King. By O'Malley's own account again, his father was killed in the Civil War and King was sent to live with an uncle and aunt in New York. His uncle owned a small bank where O'Malley started work at 14 after a very sketchy education. Banking fascinated him throughout his life.

O'Malley's interest in politics had been growing and in January 1896 he announced his candidature for the House of Assembly. To be eligible for election a candidate had to be a British citizen; this posed some difficulty, for O'Malley had been proclaiming that he was an American. He overcame this restriction by declaring that he had been born in Canada but brought up in the U.S.A. Although most of his views were in line with those of the United Labor Party, he was returned as an Independent in April 1896 as one of two members for Encounter Bay.

O'Malley, a picturesque and flamboyant figure, he told many colourful stories. At the same time he was far-seeing, forceful and stubborn. By the exercising of these qualities he succeeded in the two great aims of his political career. The foremost being the founding of the Commonwealth Bank, the other was his desire to secure land for a Federal Capital

. THE SHUT-DOWN OF THE MURRAY-DARLING BASIN.

In 1994, the Council of Australian Governments (COAG) agreed to a national "Water Reform Framework", under the auspices of Paul Keating's National Competition Policy. This was the agreement to change the status of water from that of human right, to tradable commodity, so that speculators such as Macquarie Bank—the author and beneficiary of most National Competition Policy "reforms"—could make money by driving up its price, at the expense of food production. This could only succeed if water was scarce, so the Howard government seized upon the drought to impose it. Also in 1994, following the push for global population reduction at the U.N's Cairo Conference, the House of Representatives Committee for Long Term Strategies conducted an inquiry into Australia's Population "carrying capacity". The resulting report, entitled "One Nation, Two Ecologies", recommended a government policy to shift to work toward a range of "politically and socially" realistic population goals that included a preferred option to stabilize the population at 23 million, but also included an option to reduce the population to as low as 5 million. Recommendation 11 stated, "Australia should adopt a consumption strategy, to be developed around the challenge of learning to move from high levels of consumption based on high levels of material throughput per unit of consumption to lower levels of consumption based on lower levels of material throughput per unit of consumption. Such a strategy need not reduce quality of life although it may change the way in which people enjoy quality lives." Along with the recommendation that a ministry for population be created at Cabinet level –achieved this year with the appointment of Tony Bourke as population minister, just before the MDBA report came out. The committee's overall recommendation was that with regards to the population increase, "Australia should adopt a precautionary policy in accordance with the principals of ecologically sustainable development."—the exact same language of the 2007 Water act that set the terms of reference for the Murray-Darling Basin Authority.

Under John Howard water rights were separated land title; the Murray- Darling Basin Commission started interstate water trading in 1998. In 2003, the Liberal-National coalition initiated the National Water Initiative, And in 2004 the National Water Commission. Under John Howard, In 2007 his legislation established the Water Act, which established the Authority (later to absorb the separate MDB Commission), and charged it with determining “the volume of water required to maintain and restore environmental assets, using the best available science and the principles of ecologically sustainable development” As the report foreword states –The Water Act captured the spirit of the 1994, population report: targeting the level of population, by imposing environmental objectives on Australia’s food bowl. When push comes to shove this has been Liberal -National party coalition policy to shut down Australia’s food bowl, and depopulate the nation. The labor party and the greens will push this along because it is their policy too. The one good thing that might come out of this is that some people might wake up to the blind faith and levels of near comatosed complacency that they have been in because the next time you vote you may literary be voting for your life.

In 1828, Charles Sturt traveled down the Darling River, he found that the water in places was too salty to drink, and when he reached the mouth of the Murray River he had to turn back because it was closed. In 1923, Victoria’s water commissioner Sir Ronald East was photographed at Nyah, (near Swan Hill) standing astride the Murray River, which was a trickle. Dry rivers are not sick rivers they simply reflect the state of the biosphere at the time. Rivers are how water, evaporated mostly from the oceans and rained over land, flows back into the oceans again. And any water drawn from a river for irrigation isn’t lost; it ends up evaporating and returning as rainfall, either somewhere else on land and flowing out to sea through another river or raining directly into the ocean. In Australia it is a natural occurrence to have dry periods followed by drought breaking rains.

In 1963, Prince Phillip founded the Australian Conservation Foundation (which he chaired from 1971-1976 as a branch of his World Wildlife Foundation. Prince Phillip has repeatedly stated that he wants to be reincarnated as a “deadly virus” to help solve the supposedly over population problem as was reported in the Deutsch Presse Agentur in 1988. Early in 2010, the ACF filed a formal complaint with the then Environment Minister and also two time ACF president, Peter Garrett, that human population is a “key threatening process” to biodiversity, today shares an overlapping leadership with the Sustainable Population Australia (SPA), which openly calls for reducing Australia’s population. Tim Flannery leading Wentworth Group member is on record advocating a maximum population for Australia of just 6-7 million people, justified by citing the claim that the ‘fragile’ nature of Australia’s ecosystems means that Australia cannot sustain more people than that amount.

The Clarence River system is one of the great water projects that would provide increased water supply, on the scale of the Snowy Mountains Scheme to the Murray- Darling system and was most recently proposed by the late Emeritus Professor of Engineering, Lance Endersbee AO. His proposal was to take some of the large amounts of annual flood waters in the Clarence River catchment area and pump it over the Great Dividing Range, and the let it flow down into the Murray-Darling system. This project would open up new irrigation areas along the Dumaresq, Macintyre and Barwon rivers as well as increased flows of water into the Darling and Murray rivers. As apposed to reducing the population and reducing food production this would be able increase both. The Murray-Darling Basin area has just 6,4% of Australia’s water run off and utilizes 80% of that water to grow one-third of the nation’s food the Clarence River Scheme would put an extra 1000 GL per year into the Basin system a similar amount to what the Snowy system puts in now.

U.S. FOOD RIOTS CLOSER THAN YOU THINK

The following is a email received by Robert Felix and reprinted with permission.

US food riots closer than you think .Recently I said that we will be fighting in the streets long before were buried in ice. I spent about thirty years working in commercial agribusiness. My main job was to purchase ingredients, mainly grain, for flour mills and animal feed mills. As part of my job, I became aware of the US food supply system and something’s that nearly all Americans are completely unaware of. I am going to make a list of statements and then you will see where I’m going with this.

1% of the US population grows all of the food for all Americans. Nearly all Americans know essentially nothing about where the food they eat comes from. The bulk of the food they eat comes from grain. Half of the meat they eat is raised on grain, so when they eat meat they are really eating grain. The dairy products (milk, cheese, butter etc) comes from cows that are fed grain. Most of the grain in the US is grown in the Midwest and moved to the coasts, where 70% of the population lives. One day the grain travels by rail from Kansas to Seattle to the flour mill.

The next day the flour mill makes the flour and sends it to bakeries, the next day the bakeries make bread and other baked things and the next day it is at the supermarkets where it is purchased that day. Nobody stores anything anymore. The grain that is produced and stored in the Midwest is shipped daily through a single railroad to the rest of America where people live. Up until the 1980's there was a system that stored grain in elevators around the countryside. At one time, a whole years harvest of grain was stored. There was a safety net or backup. So now nothing is stored. We consume what we produce each year and store practically nothing. So there's no contingency plan. If a drought such as the one that has lingered over other parts of the U.S. were to move over the grain producing states in the Midwest it would seriously damage the food supply of the country. In order for riots to break out the whole of the food supply doesn't have to be wiped out it just has to be threatened sufficiently. Americans are armed to the teeth. In LA people burn down their own neighborhoods to protest a court case. Other nations cannot make up the difference because no other nation has a surplus of grain in the good times let alone in times when they are having droughts and floods as well."

The deliberate running down of the Grain Elevators Board and the closing down of grain silos and railway lines to them. The selling off of the Australian Wheat Board and now the Senate Inquiry into the abolition and the single desk wheat selling mechanism has direct parallel with what has happened in the U.S. Given that every single grain of wheat that is brought and sold on the international market goes through the hands of five multinational companies. The same multinational companies that the Australian Government will hand the Australian wheat crop over too and call it competition. World grain supplies are now the lowest in 25 years and constitute two months of "days consumption" For seven of the last ten years world annual production of basic grains has been below the level of consumption. In 1982 the US Government allowed the conversion of government grain stock into fuel and gave multibillion dollar subsidies to Cargill and ADM to produce ethanol. In 2005 national mandates for how much biofuel must be blended into gasoline and diesel fuel were set. In 2007, Al Gore has led the push for this. 12% of the world's corn harvest alone went into biofuel production that year. 80% of Americans live from payday to payday. Australians household to debt ratio is now 178% the highest in the world so there would be more than 80% of Australians living from payday to payday. How much food do you have in your pantry. Could you last one week, 2 weeks, 1 month or 12 months? Many Governments are trying to mandate food rationing and substitutions in order to make their food supply last. The UN Food for Agriculture Organization estimates that those going hungry include 204 million in Sub-Saharan Africa, 156 million in Asia-Pacific, 221 million in India, 142 million in China, 53 million in Latin America, 39 million in North Africa- SW Asia, 28 million in the former USSR and 9 million in other Industrial countries. That is a total of 825 million or nearly one seventh of the world's population. There is currently food rioting in 33 countries around the world.

Someone once told me that people never do anything until it directly affects them. I suggest that you start to prepare for what is coming our way.

BANK N.S.W. REVIEW 1978

Economics--Sources of Money.

Despite its universal acceptance and use, money remains a rather mysterious element in the economy. Most people realize that banks and government have something to do with the process of collecting and dispensing money, but few would have a clear notion of where it comes from and what forces regulate and influence its creation.

What is Money?

Before looking at where money comes from it is necessary to clarify what money is? Money has taken many forms. Before the development of the banking system and the circulation of banknotes and coins with a minimal intrinsic value, a wide range of commodities, such as shells, oxen, gold and silver bars, provided the means to purchase goods, measure values between goods, settle debts, and store wealth.

A necessary prerequisite for any commodity functioning satisfactorily, as money is that its supply can be controlled fairly easily. In primitive monetary systems this requirement naturally led to the choice of items which were relatively scarce. The most satisfactory forms of money were those which were durable, easy to move about and readily divisible without loss of value. As economies evolved, the less efficient forms of money were gradually discarded to facilitate economic development.

Nevertheless, the general criterion for transforming a particular commodity into money, irrespective of its efficiency, remained its general acceptability by people in exchange for other goods. For example in Australia it is possible to pay the grocer with paper notes issued by the Reserve Bank; but if, say, New Zealand dollar notes were tendered, the offer of payment in this form would probably be rejected. Consequently the New Zealand dollar is not money in Australia because it is generally not an acceptable form of payment.

Gold and silver coins were the first widely - recognized metallic currency. A

By - product of this usage was the genesis of the banking industry. People deposited surplus coin with goldsmiths, the owners of strong-room facilities. By the 17th century it had become accepted practice for goldsmiths to issue receipts for the deposits and for a receipt to be treated as a negotiable asset which ultimately could be presented to the goldsmith to be converted back into gold. In principle this procedure was the same as banks issuing banknotes. The early notes were pieces of paper issued by a bank which could be exchanged, when demanded by the holder, for a fixed amount of gold. This system of guaranteeing the convertibility of the note issue into gold was called the Gold Standard and it had its heyday in the nineteenth century.

The arrangement was finally abandoned in the 1930's under pressure of the Great Depression. Despite the intense debate which took place in the early part of this century on the pros and cons of the Gold Standard, the acceptability of paper currency is not a special problem today. Banknotes are no longer convertible into gold, or any other precious metal, but they remain currency because people know that others will readily accept them in payment.

Today in Australia, as in most other modern economies, all money is a debt of the banking system.

Banknotes held by the public are liabilities of the Reserve Bank while bank deposits are claims on the trading banks and savings banks. In a strict sense, only bank cheques along with notes and coins are acceptable as money, but since all other categories of trading and savings bank deposits can be readily converted into cash or current account deposits they are included in the official volume of money statistics.

In Australia, notes and coins currently represent less than 9% of the total volume of money. Much more important are trading and saving bank deposits which each accounted for about 45% of total money supply of $39 billion in June 1978.

The composition of the volume of money has altered with changing commercial practices. The wider use of cheques to settle payments has resulted in a decline in the importance of currency. Moreover, in the post – war era savings bank deposits have grown strongly as a form of money. Other items such as credit card, undrawn overdraft limits building society shares, finance company notes and debentures, and short – term government securities, too, are important sources of liquidity (i.e., assets which can be converted readily into money) in the Australian economy. But so far they have not been incorporated into official statistics of the volume of money (see Definitions) and other liquid assets.

Definitions of Volume of Money in Australia:

M1 Notes and coin held by public plus demand deposits of trading banks but excluding Commonwealth and State Government and inter – bank deposits.

M2 M1, plus interest bearing deposits of trading banks.

M3 M2 plus savings bank deposits.

The government as a Source of Money

The first and most obvious source of money is the Commonwealth Government. It has exclusive rights over the printing of banknotes and the minting of coin. The quantity of currency in existence, however, is attuned to the community's need for cash which, apart from a short boost in December for Christmas spending, is relatively constant and in any case is an insignificant cause of variation in the money supply. It is only in exceptional circumstances, for example, the conversion to decimal currency in Australia, in February 1966, that a surge takes place in the production of new coins and bank notes. The expansion or contraction in the volume of money by government depends on the amount of domestic expenditure it has to finance for which no tax revenue or loan funds from the non – bank public are available. In the case of a revenue deficit, the money supply will expand, and in the case of a surplus, it will contract. It is not normal for a government to meet a revenue shortfall by the excessive printing of new banknotes, though there have been occasions in the past where this has occurred: for example in Germany after the First World War and in Hungary after in Second. In both cases the rapid expansion in notes in circulation led to the complete destruction of the existing monetary system, economic and social chaos ensued. In the Australian economy today, the so - called “printing press” operations necessary to cover the Government's revenue shortfalls are actually achieved by the Reserve Bank as the banker extending credit to the Commonwealth Government. When government cheques are presented through the banking system for settlement, the Reserve Bank effects payment, which increases bank deposits and consequently the volume of money. To cover the Government's indebtedness the Reserve Bank normally agrees to purchase low – yielding treasury bills. The money supply rises as if the note issue had increased, except that people have larger holdings of bank rather than cash money. This increase in the money supply, however, can be offset by government borrowing from the non – bank public which would reduce bank deposits. The accompanying table indicates that the Government has become a much more important source of money growth in Australia since 1973/74, after acting as a damper on monetary expansion in the early part of the decade. Budgetary considerations, however, are not the only way the monetary authorities are able to influence the volume of money. Changes can also be effected by the Reserve Bank selling or buying government securities on the open market. By altering the price or interest rate expectation on government securities, excess liquidity can be drained from the capital market or, conversely, a tight money situation can be alleviated. For example, the Commonwealth Government's announcement last year that it hoped to have official interest rates cut by two percentage points during 1978 induced strong buying of government securities by individuals and institutions in the expectation of the capital gains to be made as yields were reduced in the year ahead. These purchases of bonds mopped up excess liquidity from the capital market left idle by the low rate of economic activity. Large increases in the non – bank private sector's holdings of government securities of $1.5 billion in 1975/76 and $1.1 billion in 1976 / 77 were sustained at $1.3 billion in the following year and reduced the expansionary impact on the money supply of the Government's large domestic deficit. In the latest June quarter during the customary seasonal drain on liquidity caused by collection of provisional personal and company taxes, the Reserve Bank was able to prevent the money supply from becoming unduly tight by, among other things, purchasing government securities from the private sector. By encouraging the non – bank private sector, as opposed to the banking system, to hold national debt, the Government has been able to dampen the monetary impact of the budget deficit. The Government has been able to find willing buyers for its bonds with the prospect of capital gain and because of the low activity in the private sector which has resulted in a diminution of alternative investment opportunities. And in part the slow growth of production, accompanied by high rates of unemployment and sharply rising costs, has held back the elimination of the recent large budget deficits. Should the pace of economic activity quicken, the deficit can be expected to shrink gradually as tax receipts rise and welfare payments fall with rising income and employment. But increased demands on the capital market for finance from the private sector could force the Government to revert to financing a larger banking system in order to prevent interest rates from rising. The consequence of the alteration in the holding of the national debt, however, would be an increase in the volume of money, unless the deficit could be reduced at a similar rate. Banks Create Money--Another important source of money creation is by the banks. A deposit, or claim on a bank, can be formed in two ways. The first is by a customer taking coins and banknotes to his banker. The depositing of cash in a bank, however, is a substitution of one type of money for another. Cash has disappeared out of circulation and has been replaced by an equal amount of bank money, so that the total quantity of money has remained unchanged. This method of deposit formation is relatively insignificant.

Bankers, however do not only lend out money they have received from others. They have the capacity to create money because their liabilities (deposits) are accepted as money. Consequently, the second and more important method by which a claim on a bank can come into existence is for a bank to acquire an asset. For example, if a bank wishes to purchase a government bond in the market, it makes payment for it by crediting the seller's bank, thus increasing total bank deposits.

The largest proportion of bank assets is in overdrafts and loans. When a banker grants a customer credit by overdraft, the bank "opens an account" in its books and gives the client the right to draw funds without first having to put money into the account. But bank deposits only increase when the customer actually draws on the account to pay his creditors. In the case of loans, funds are deposited directly to the customer's credit and result in an immediate increase in the volume of money. In either case the money supply increases as a result of the bank's lending activities. As long as the debt remains outstanding the community's quantity of money is increased. Money created by bank lending increased in importance in Australia during the 1970's. This growth partly reflected the increased dependence of the corporate sector on external sources of finance following a sharp erosion in business profits. Banks also attempted to meet the stronger demand for personal finance, and savings bank housing loans in particular increased markedly during the decade.

Unlike the Government, the banks' have ability to create money indefinitely.

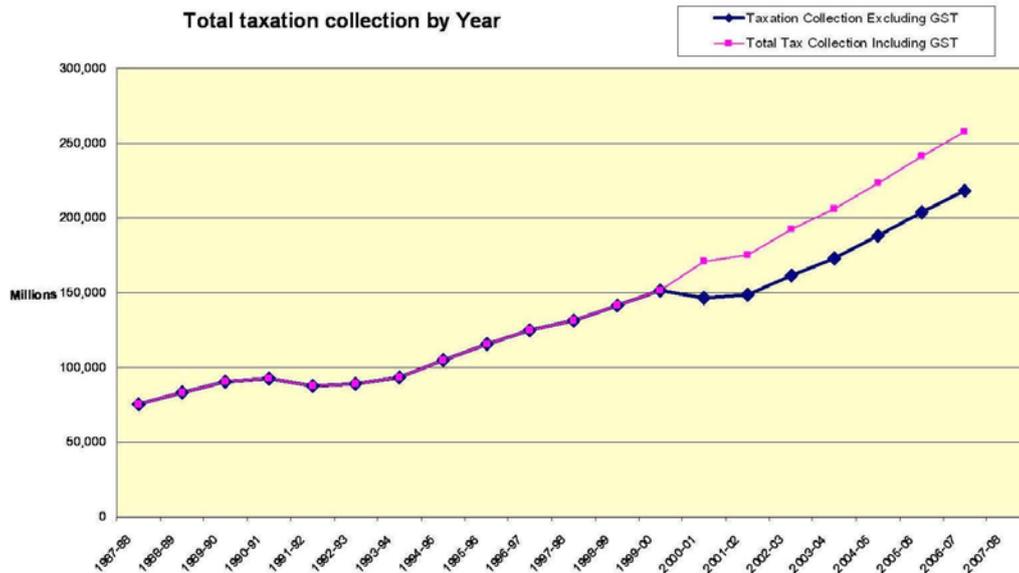

The Reserve Bank of Australia defines monetary aggregates as;

- M1: currency bank + current deposits of the private non-bank sector
- M3: M1 + all other bank deposits of the private non-bank sector
- Broad Money: M3 + borrowings from the private sector by NBFIs, less the latter's holdings of currency and bank deposits
- Money Base: holdings of notes and coins by the private sector plus deposits of banks with the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) and other RBA liabilities to the private non-bank sector

The top line is what is borrowed from banks and the middle line is what is available to pay the top line off with.

‘Ballooning debt could see countries default’

“Greece’s debt totaled $298 billion at the end of 2009, according to Finance Ministry figures. That’s more than five times more than Russia owed when it defaulted in 1998, and when Argentina missed its repayments in 2001. Japan has the largest debt of all, Ministry of Finance estimates that by March 2011, Japan’s borrowings will be $973 Trillion. That’s more than the economic output of the UK, France and Italy combined.”

Portugal, Ireland, Greece, Spain and Dubai have all defaulted on their loans. And Australia will be no different, I say this again no sovereign nation should have foreign debt.

WILL U.S. MILITARY SHOOT AMERICAN CITIZENS IF ORDERED ?

A 46 question survey was handed out in May 1994, to “300 hundred randomly selected” marines (veterans of the Panama and Persian Gulf War) at the Twenty-nine Palms Marine Corps Base in the Mohave Desert about 70 miles east of San Bernardino, California. The soldiers were asked for their reaction to various statements, such as U.S. Military troops being commanded by U.N. officers, whether the President “has the authority to pass his responsibilities as Commander-in-Chief to the United Nations Secretary General,” and if they would serve in a U.N. Military Force to “maintain world peace.” The survey concluded with this “The U.S.

Government declares a ban on the possession, sale, transportation and transfer of all non-sporting firearms. A thirty day amnesty period is permitted for those firearms to be turned over to local authorities. At the end of this period a number of citizen groups refuse to handover their firearms. Consider the following statement: I would fire upon U.S. citizens who refuse or resist confiscation of firearms banned by the U.S. Government. After news of the survey surfaced (In Spotlight and the November issue of American Legion Magazine), it was later reported that it was part of a soldiers Masters Thesis at a Naval postgraduate school in Monterey, California, and did not reflect any Government program. However, the February 1994, issue of Modern Gun Magazine reported a similar survey had been given to some Navy Seals. The thesis called "Peace Keeping and U.N. Operational Control." A study of their affect on unit cohesion, had been classified, until March 1994, when it was approved for public dissemination. In response to the question about swearing allegiance to the U.N. 208 Marines said they could not do so (117 of those strongly disapproved) and 71 said they could (with 19 of those strongly approving) and in regard to the question of firing upon U.S. citizens of the 264 Marines who responded, 185 said that they would be apposed to firing at American citizens with (127 strongly apposing) and 79 said that they would be willing to shoot U.S. citizens if ordered with (23 strongly affirming). The bottom line is, if ordered, one out of every four Marines would shoot American citizens. On November 11, 1990. President George Bush signed executive order that authorized the presence of U.N. Battle Groups in the United States. In 1950, the American State Department published an official report, (Post War Foreign Policy Preparation), 1939-1945, which named the men in the U.S. Government who did the planning and shaped the policies that led to the creation of the United Nations: Alger Hiss, Harry Dexter White, Virginius Coe, Noel Field, Laurence Dugger, Henry Wadleigh, Nathan Silvermaster, Harold Glasser, Victor Perlo, Irving Kaplan, Solomon Adler, Abraham Silverman, William Ullman, William Taylor and John Foster Dulles. All of these men except for John Foster Dulles, were later identified in sworn testimony as Communist agents. John Foster Dulles was hired by Joseph Stalin to act as Russia's legal council in the United States. He was closely associated with J. P. Morgan. The constitutions of both the United Nations and the USSR are the same, the seal of both the U.N. and the USSR are similar. As you walk into the main entrance of the U.N. building you are greeted by a large naked male statue: this is Zeus—the supreme god of the pagan pantheon. He is the representative of Satan (or Lucifer). Upstairs is the "Meditation Room" this room has a floor plan in the shape of a truncated pyramid, the symbol of the Illuminati. On the back wall of the Meditation Room, in geometric design, is over one hundred occult symbols of varies organizations; these include Masonry, Spiritism, and all the ancient fertility cults. In the centre of the Meditation Room is a large polished black block. This is the Ashlar and represents Free Masonry. The rough block represents humanity being formed and polished by the use of the compass and the square into a smooth, finished, even rectangular block. This is the Mason's symbol of taking the masses of humanity and forming them into a finished block under their control. Over the top of the black block is a small single floodlight mounted on the ceiling. This sends a single shaft of light down onto the block. This symbolizes the light of the sun (or sun god) the sun represents Lucifer. The United Nations was the successor to the League of Nations, formed after World War 1. On the 27th August 1929. The Pact of Paris was signed by 65 nations who promised to settle all international disputes by peaceful means under the League of Nations with its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. The Preamble of the U.N. Charter says; “We the people of the United Nations, determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of wars.....” Under its charter the U.N. was established “to maintain International peace and security.” Of the fifteen members of the Security Council, five have permanent seats China, USSR, France, Great Britain and the United States those five permanent members are the five biggest arms dealers in the World. Since the establishment of the U.N. up to 1991 their have been 157 wars. J. Reuben Clark, Jr. Ambassador to Mexico and Under Secretary of State of the United States, in his August, 1945, analysis of the U.N. charter wrote; “The Charter is built to prepare for war, it is not a peace document.” An article about the U.N. in the March 2nd, 1964 edition of the Santa Ana Register made this comment. “The whole purpose and, indeed, the method of the U.N. is to use armed might against any nation presumed to be an aggressor. Its function is to make war....” Rep. John. E. Rankin (D-MS 1921- 1953) said ; “The United Nations is the greatest fraud in all history.”

When he accepted an award from the World Federalist Association, CBS newscaster Walter Cronkite said, “We must strengthen the United Nations as the first step toward World Government..... We Americans will have to yield up some of our sovereignty.”

Brock Chisholm, first director of the U.N. World Health Organization said; “To achieve One World Government it is necessary to remove from the minds of men their individualism, their loyalty to family traditions and national identification.”

GLOBAL COOLING

The Earth was closer to the Sun during the Southern Hemisphere summer 2009 than at anytime in the 21,000 year combined cycle of precession and advance of the Perihelion period, January 3rd 2009. (35 Days before Black Saturday.) The Sun was 91.5 billion miles from Earth which drives long term climate.

Conversely the Northern Hemisphere summer is occurring at a point in the long procession cycle known as Aphelion period, July 4th 2009 when the Earth was the most distance from the Sun 94.5 billion miles from Earth

The entire 0.6 degree rise in global averaged temperature has been eliminated by the last ten years of global averaged decline.

The important determinant in global climate is the cycle of glaciations, like all real physical processes the Earth’s climate is asymmetrical. The convergence of the Earth’s land mass towards the north, has meant periodic glaciations have occurred over the northern continental land mass over the past 2.5 billion years. The last one brought glaciers as far south as New York and Chicago ended 11,000 years ago. By best estimates of previous patterns, glaciations of 100,000 years or longer have followed the brief periods of 10,000-12,000 years known as interglacial.

31,000, Scientists world-wide have now signed the petition stating that there is no such thing as human induced global warming

On June 5th 2008 the US Army held its first-ever conference call on global warming, focusing on solar activity as the cause of the warming in the past 100 years as opposed to manmade global warming. The call featured Dr Bruce West, Chief scientist of the Army Research Office’s mathematical and science directorate. Dr West said : “The Sun’s turbulent dynamics are linked with the Earth’s complex ecosystem. These connections are what is heating up the planet”.

The Australian Federal Parliament's Standing Committee on Science and Innovation report entitled "Between a Rock and a Hard Place", on the subject of "Geosequestration of Carbon Dioxide". Had four members issuing their own dissenting report. The dissenting MPs were former CSIRO scientist Dr. Dennis Jensen, Hon Jackie Kelly, Hon Danna Vale and Mr. David Tollner. Their report was compiled with the assistance of Dr John Christy, former lead author of the IPCC. One of the chief points of their refutation is; Global warming has been observed on other planets and moons, including Mars, Jupiter, Triton, Pluto, Neptune. Strange how the national media and our governments have chosen to overlook the fact that the Sun was three billion miles closer to the earth than at anytime in the last 21,000 years. I wonder what impact that would have on climate and bushfires in Australia?

On Monday 1/2/2010 I traveled to Melbourne, along with 1000 other people to hear a presentation by Lord Christopher Monckton, former adviser to Margaret Thatcher on global warming or rather not. I am not a climate sceptic. I have always known that it was a fraud with more sinister intentions behind the scenes.

Here are some of the facts presented by Lord Monckton: Co2 is not a pollutant, it is a naturally occurring gas, a product of all carbon based life forms which plants need to grow if you double the concentration of Co2 plants will grow 50% faster. You drink it in beer and soft-drinks. Of the 2500 United Nations IPCC scientists only 600 examined the science of which 308 reviewed the second draft of which 62 considered the cause of climate change of which 7 were independent of which 2 disagreed. Only 5 independent scientists said Co2 has a 90% chance of being involved in climate change. Compared with 31,000 scientists, who have signed the petition saying that there is no conclusive evidence that Co2 causes climate change. UAH Globally average satellite-based temperature of the lower atmosphere are not showing any increase at all, since 2004 there has been a cooling of actual temperatures. Co2 is a trace gas, 1% of the air is greenhouse gas of that 1%, 3.6 is Co2 greenhouse and 3.4 is human caused. Take a ball of string, roll it for one kilometre then stop, bend over and take a good hard look at the last millimetre. By introducing a Emissions Trading Scheme (ETS) that last millimetre is the amount of greenhouse gases that Australia will reduce. China alone increases its Co2 by Australia's amount every four months. An (ETS) new tax will cost Australian tax payers an extra $50 billion dollars a year or an extra $4,550 per tax payer on top of what you pay now. Do you want that? Because if you do sit back and say nothing and do nothing and you will get it. As Lord Munckton points out what happened in Great Britain when a (ETS) was introduced the main emitting companies steel works, smelters etc simply shut down and went to China and India.(more jobs offshore). The two main things that sicken me the most was not that fact that this thing will drop the World's population down by billions, with poorer countries unable to buy carbon credits. The main one was that the P.M. along with 114 government, state government leaders and bureaucrats went ready to sign away Australia's sovereignty under the Copenhagen treaty agreement to the United Nations to bring this in. The truth of this, is an agreement that would have been absolutely binding for Australia with permanent limitations and no avenue to withdraw. Without a single vote of yes or no by the people.

Under the original Copenhagen Treaty was attached a two page note from the Secretariat of the State Department, United Nations with an 186 page annex title Framework Convention on Climate Change. Paragraph 38. of the annex reads;

“The scheme for the new institutional arrangements under the convention will be based on three basic pillars; Government, Facilitative Mechanism and Financial Mechanism. (That is World Government with one money system)

The Government will be ruled by the countries of the parties with the support of a new subsidiary body or the adoption, and of an Executive Board responsible for the management of the new funds and the related facilitative process and bodies.....”

Paragraph 36. “A facilitative mechanism drawn up to facilitate the design, adoption and carrying out of public policies as the prevailing instrument, to which the market rules and related dynamics should be subordinate”.

Passim of the Copenhagen Treaty

New taxes—*Wealthy nations 2% of GDP. *2% tax on all financial transactions.

*Power to interfere in economies and environmental affairs. *World-wide cap and trade regime. Unlimited non-compliance fines. More than 300 new bureaucracies to enforce the regime.

THE STOCK MARKET CRASH AND GREAT DEPRESSION

The Federal Reserve Board met on May 18, 1920, to plan the depression. Large banks began calling in loans, causing stocks to plummet from a high of 138.12 in 1919, to a low of 66.24 in 1921. When the value of government bonds dropped, they were forced to call in even more loans. When thousands of banks' customers couldn't pay their loans the banks seized their assets. After 1922, profits rose, and with the Federal Reserve's ability to lend out ten times their reserves, credit was easily available. From 1923 to 1929, $8 billion was taken off the deficit. The Reserve expanded the money supply by 62% and this excess money was used to bid the stock market up to enormous heights. The media began publicizing that there were large profits to be made on the stock market. This push was planned at a meeting of the International bankers in 1926, who made the boom possible, and who were going to bring about the financial disaster later on.

On October 24, 1929, the New York bankers began calling in their loans, forcing their customers to sell off stocks at rock bottom prices in order to pay off their loans. Stock prices fell by 90% and U.S. Securities lost $26 Billion. Thousands of smaller banks and insurance companies went bankrupt, and people who had been millionaires, were now broke. To prolong the depression after the crash, from 1929 to 1933, the Reserve began to reduce the money flow by one-third. Minor 'depressions' were created in this way in 1937, 1948, 1953, 1960, 1966, 1970 and 1979.

In his book "My Exploited Father-in-Law" by Curtis Dull (son-in-law of Franklin D. Roosevelt) wrote- "The depression was the calculated 'shearing' of the public by the World Money Powers, triggered by the planned sudden shortage of supply of call money in the New York money market.... The One World Government leaders and their ever close bankers have now acquired full control of the money and credit machinery of the United States via the creation of the privately owned Federal Reserve Bank."

Franklin Delano Roosevelt to the Congress, April 29th, 1938.

"The Liberty of a democracy is not safe if the people tolerate the growth of a private power to a point where it becomes stronger than their democratic state itself. That, in its essence, is Fascism—ownership of government by an individual, by a group or by any controlling private power."

Congressman Charles Lindberg in an address to the United States Congress in 1921 said "Under the Federal Reserve Act, panics are scientifically created. The present panic is the first scientifically created one, worked out as we figure a mathematical equation."

In the United States today 97% of all money is digital and 3% is cash over the last 93 years the United States dollar has devalued 96%.

RESTORE GLASS-STEAGALL

Glass-Steagall. Mean anything to anyone? Probably not. Glass-Steagall was enacted on the 16th June, 1933 by American President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. To rein in the Wall street / City of London Bankers who had caused The Great Depression. It was enacted to facilitate President Roosevelt's infrastructure-led recovery program. It established a firewall to protect the financial functions of banking that were necessary to the daily lives of the American people. Under Glass-Steagall, commercial banks which held deposits were protected by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. (FDIC) the savings accounts, chequing accounts, and business trading accounts were forbidden from owning, or being owned by Wall St. investment banks. Under Glass-Steagall the Wall St investment banks were denied any access to the enormous deposit base of the American people. In 1999 under the threat of impeachment President Bill Clinton repealed Glass- Steagall and Wall St finally got access to the commercial banks and their deposits, and all forms of speculation expanded exponentially. For 66 years it had acted as a Firewall against the precise Wall st /City of London speculation which has caused the current Global Financial Crisis. In August, 1971, Richard Nixon took the United States dollar off gold. That ended the fixed exchange rate Bretton Woods system, and opened the door for unbridled speculation in currencies and other financial instruments such as colateralized debt obligations, derivatives etc,etc. As investment drained out of the real physical economy of agriculture, industry, and infrastructure into speculation on stock-markets .The financial shocks came one after another in succession. These included: The October,1987 U.S. stock market collapse, the greatest ever; near collapse of the global financial system in 1997-98 with the Asia-Russian bond, and LTCM hedge-fund crisis; the mortgage crisis which erupted in August 2007, still ongoing the near global crashes in 2008 and 2009, averted only when the U.S. and European governments bailed out the banks with an estimated $30-40 trillion. The eruption of the euro-zone crisis Portugal, Ireland,Italy,Greece,Spain and now Great Britain, Japan, Iceland and America. Thank god Australia is alright or are we? Of the total $1.23 trillion foreign debt owed by Australia, over $800 billion is owed by Australia's banks, and over $440 billion of that is on 90 day terms. Most of this short term debt is from the carry trade. It cannot be repaid, so it is constantly rolled over with new borrowing from the carry-trade. Australia's four major banks hold the major share of the $14.2 trillion derivatives exposure of the Australian banking system in 2009.And in 2010 it had blown out to $15.195 trillion. They were suckered in like everybody else.

The Cantwell- McCain amendment introduced into the U.S. Senate on 6th May,2010 as an amendment to the "Financial Reform Bill" would prohibit commercial banks from affiliating in any manner with investment banks and prevent directors, officers and employees of a commercial banks from working in investment banks and vice-versa Sen. John McCain said "Its time to put a stop to the taxpayer-financed excesses of Wall St."

Governments have "solved" each crisis by pouring taxpayers money into bailout the private banks, but each bubble only created a larger, even more explosive bubble for the next round." The World is headed for financial collapse unprecedented in size and scope.. The City of London and Wall St. will ensure, that this happens just as they did back in Jack Lang's time. Its time to put people first before a flawed, immoral, unfair and unjust financial system." Enact Glass-Steagall now."

DEBT BASED MONETARY SYSTEM & MONEY SUPPLY

The money in circulation is the key issue because it is the basis of the speed of the economy. In a debt based system it is possible to alter the natural supply of money. In the debt based system which Australia has if no new money is loaned into the system then the cash simply dries up. It is a simple mathematical certainty. The money is loaned into the system, but the interest is never funded, so as the interest is paid from the funds that were loaned the amount of cash in the system is reduced, even if the debt is never repaid. All funds end up in accounts receivables and companies and people cannot buy because they have not been paid. This debt based system is unnatural and will fail, it is just a question of when there are no more borrowers or when the controllers of the system want it to fail. A quick review of history of the system will show that every time that the borrowed money or debts are reduced the entire system goes into depression. This fraudulent ridiculous system is maintained because the learning institutions have been funded and controlled. They promote the debt based system as the only way for economics to function. Once this concept is established the world's attention is on regulation and fine tuning of the system instead of the fraud and deceit of its operations. The institutions turn out the managers of the system. Those that see through it or question it never get promoted and it continues.

WEALTH BASED OR VALUE SYSTEM AND MONEY SUPPLY

In a wealth based system all money is asset based. That is, based on actual commodities and the time value of humans. The role of the government central bank is to manage the cash, that is, keep enough cash in the system for commerce to flow as necessary. Individuals could use their assets as collateral to fund expansion. There is no reduction of the cash supply by an outside force bleeding off interest. There is no manipulation of the interest with only a select few knowing where the rates will go ahead of time. Rates would be fixed and eventually would be very low as the economy grew and prospered. As commodities and human time availability increase so does the money supply. If the economy slows then the expansion naturally slows as the use of human time decreases. When our government sponsored loans and programs to fund and human time are made available to the system without the problematic interest associated with our current system. These increase the flow of goods and services without creating inflation.

THIRTY QUESTIONS

Q. What was Karl Marx real name?

A. Moses Mordecai Marx Levi.

Q. What was Vladimir Ilyich Lenin real name?

A. Vladimir Ilyich Ulyanov.

Q. What was Joseph Stalin real name?

A. Iosif Visarionovich Dzhugashvili.

Q. The Sealed Train left Zurich Switzerland on April 9, 1917, bound for Petrograd with $50,000,000 (million gold marks) from M&N Rothschild's London bank, Lenin changed the name of his political party from the Social Democratic Party on board the Sealed Train too what?

A. The Bolshevik Communist Party.

Q. Who coordinated the frame work and wrote most of the United Nations Charter?

A. The idea for the United Nations was officially proposed in 1944 at the Dunbarton Oaks Conference, where the frame work was laid out. The conference was attended by representatives from the U.S. England, and Russia, and it was all coordinated by Alger Hiss. Hiss was trustee of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, a director of the Executive Committee of the American Association for the United Nations, a director of the American Peace Society, a Trustee of the World Peace Foundation, a director of the American Institute of Pacific Relations, and President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The April, 16, 1945 issue of Time Magazine called him "one of the State Department's brighter young men."

It was Hiss, and Joseph E. Johnson (who later became Secretary of the Bilderbergers) who wrote the U.N. Charter, patterning it after the Constitution of Russia, and the Communist Manifesto.

In 1950, Alger Hiss was convicted of perjury and of being a communist traitor and sent to prison. His spying and communist activities dated back to 1939.

He later became the acting Secretary-General after the establishment of the United Nations.

Q. Who donated the land that the United Nations' Building stands on in New York?

A. In December, 1946, John D Rockefeller 111 donated an 18 acre tract of land in Manhattan (which he purchased for $ 8,500,000, with New York City contributing the remaining $ 4,250,000.)

Q. Who paid for the $65,000,000. cost of the U.N. Building?

A. The $65,000,000. was taken care of by an interest free “loan” by American tax payer.

Q. Who is warning us on the effects of climate change?

A. The IPCC or United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change.

Q. Who is warning us that the Oceans will rise by 7-8 metres

A. The World Wildlife Fund.

Q. Where does the rights of a child come from? (you can't smack your child)

A. United Nations.

Q. Where does World Heritage listing come from?(you're not allowed to go in and camp there.)

A. United Nations.

Q. Why can't you cut trees down on your farm and clear your land ?

A. Because of an agreement that was drawn up in the United Nations. There are thousands upon thousands of agreements, treaties, conventions that Australia has signed, agreed and ratified in the United Nations that are alien to every thing that Australia was built on and if we continue down this path, our traditions will not survive.

Q. Who ordered The Bay of Pigs Invasion and sent their own private mercenaries in, invading Cuba and almost sparking a nuclear holocaust without the knowledge or consent of President John F. Kennedy.

A. The CIA.

Q. Who did President Kennedy sack from the C.I.A. as a result of that?

A. Head Director of the C.I.A. since 1953, Allan Dulles and Deputy Director General Charles Cabell.

Q. Who was the Mayor of Dallas at the time of the assassination?

A. Mr. Roy Cabell, brother to former Deputy Director General Charles Cabell.

Q. The C.I.A. run other operations called Operation Mongoose, Operation 40 and Operation Alpha 66. Alpha 66 was the name of an oil rig off the coast of Cuba. Who owned that oil rig?

A. Someone by the name of George H. Bush.

Q. In Oliver Stone's movie J.F.K. Jim Garrison goes to Washington to meet Mr. X the character played by Donald Sutherland, Who is Mr. X in real life?

A. U.S. Air Force. (Ret) Colonel L. Fletcher Prouty.

Q. What three questions does Prouty pose to Garrison?

A. Why was Kennedy killed? Who benefited from it? And who had the power to cover it up?

Q. What is the name of Col. Prouty's Book?

A. The Secret Team, The C.I.A. and its Allies in Control of the United States and the World. (Chapter 4, President Kennedy Attempts to Put the C.I.A. Under Control.)

Q. What was Lee Harvey Oswald's F.B.I. number?

A. S.179.

Q. What is the biggest Industry in the United States?

A. The biggest industry by far is WAR.

Q. What year will the documents from the C.I.A. F.B.I. Secret Service and the O.N.I. be released to the public?

A. 2038.

Q. Today how many Americans believe that the Government was involved in President Kennedy's assassination?

A. I don't know the answer to that.

Lord Rothschild, June 25th 1863 "The few who understand the system will either be so interested in its profits, or so dependent on its favors, that there will be no opposition from that class, while on the other hand, the great body of the people, mentally incapable of comprehending the tremendous advantages to be derived from the system, will bear the burden without complaint, and perhaps without even suspecting that the system is inimical to their interests."

On January, 5th 1907, the Brisbane Worker, one of the paper's owned by the Australian Workers' Union, under the leadership of it's founder and organizer W.G.Spence. captured in an editorial the essence of the " Money Power".

"The Money Power! It is the greatest power on earth; and it is arrayed against Labor. No other power that is or ever was can be named with it..... It attacks us through the press- a monster of a thousand lying tongues, a beast surpassing in foulness any conceived by the mythology that invented dragons, werewolves, harpies, ghouls and vampires. It thunders against us from innumerable platforms and pulpits. The mystic machinery of the churches it turns into an engine of wrath for our destruction".

"Yes so far as we concerned, the headquarters of the money power is in Britain. But the money power is not a British institution; it is cosmopolitan. It is of no nationality, but all nationalities. It dominates the world. The money power has corrupted the faculties of the human soul and tampered with the sanity of the human intellect."

FOR THE RELIGIOUSLY MINDED

Jesus of Nazareth was a Galilean he was referred to as " The Galilean", he was not born in "Bethlehem of Judea" and he was not "King of the Jews" The only time he used violence was when he threw the money changers out of the Temple of prayer. The greatest man of peace was driven to violence by these people. The "Jewish Encyclopedia" makes it clear that the crucifixion was the result of the collaboration between the Roman Powers and the Jewish inner circle.

This is not bible prophecy that is being carried out, it is a evil sinister plan carried out by evil sinister planners. And the only way that they have been able to carry it out is by the power of the creation of Money (Money Power). Take that away from them and they are powerless, the creation of a national credit bank will do just that. Praying to God will not stop it the only thing that will is action.

Remember, many a Christian has had their head cut off whilst praying.

Some people believe that ultimately the conspiracy will come down to Christendom v Judaism. Judaism does not believe there is a heaven or hell. They believe there is a middle life here on earth in which their spirit lives on within the Jewish race.

Judaism does not believe in a physical afterlife they want their rewards on this earth. Thus, they worship mammon (New Testament; personification of riches and greed in the form of a false god), gold and money. They have an ancient saying, "LeLom Tickach" which means "always take" or never give in dealings with Gentiles.

Judaism is the only religion in the world which does not seek converts. There is no such thing as a Jewish missionary. They believe that one can only be a Jew born of a Jewish woman. Converts are frowned upon and discouraged. Even those who insist on converting to Judaism are not actually accepted by Jews as one of them.

Jews do not believe in “sin” or doing penance as they do not there is any afterlife punishment for sin.

There is no such thing as a “Judeo-Christian.”

Judaism is the exact opposite to Christianity. These people seek to destroy Christianity and replace it with One World Religion based on Humanism without God through The Temple of Understanding and the United Nations Meditation Room.

Quotes

John. F. Kennedy---1962.” The high office of the President has been used to foment a plot to destroy the American citizens’ freedom and before I leave office, I must inform the citizens of this plight.”

Peter Kershaw ---“The Founding Fathers of this great land had no difficulty whatsoever understanding the agenda of bankers, and they frequently referred to them and their kind as, quote, ‘ friends of paper money.’ They hated the bank of England, in particular, and felt that even were we successful in winning our independence from England and King George, we could never truly be a nation of freemen, unless we had an honest money system. Though ignorance, but moreover, because of apathy, a small, but wealthy, clique of power brokers have robbed us of our Rights and Liberties, we are being raped of our wealth. We are paying the price for near-comatose levels of complacency by our citizens, and god only knows what might become of our children, should we not work diligently to shake this country from its slumber! Many a nation has lost its freedom at the end of a gun barrel, but here in America, we just decided to hand it over voluntarily. Worse yet, we paid for the tyranny and usurpation out of our own pockets with “voluntary” tax contributions and the use of a debt-laden fiat currency!”

Alan Greenspan---Federal Reserve Chairman-- In the absence of the gold standard, there is no way to protect savings from confiscation through inflation..... This shabby secret of the welfare statist’ tirades against gold. Deficit spending is simply a scheme for the confiscation of wealth. Gold stands in the way of this insidious process. It stands as a protector of property rights. If one grasps this, one has no difficulty in understanding the statist’ antagonism toward the gold standard.

The Saturday Evening Post of June 19, 1909.----revealed

“The Montefiores’ have taken Australia for their own, and there is not a goldfield or sheep run from Tasmania to New South Wales that does not pay them heavy tribute.” The secret of Montefiores’ power and wealth lies in the marriage of Abraham Montefiore with Henriette, daughter of Amschel Rothschild, and in the marriage of his grandson Lord Anthony Rothschild with his cousin Montefiore.”

Horace Greeley 1872---“We have stricken the shackles from four million human beings (black slaves) and brought all laborers to a common level, not so much by the elevation of the former slaves as by practically reducing the whole working population, white and black, to a condition of serfdom. While boasting of our noble deeds, we are careful to conceal the ugly fact that by our iniquitous money system we have nationalized a system of oppression which, though more refined, is not less cruel than the old system of chattel slavery.”

Abraham Lincoln---“I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country; corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption in High Places will follow, and the Money Power of the Country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until the wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the Republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of war.”

James Madison---“History records that the money changers have used every form of abuse, intrigue, deceit, and violent means possible to maintain their control over governments by controlling the money and its issuance.”

Louis McFadden--- 1932“Open the books....and you will be staggered to see how much American money has been taken from the United States Treasury for the Benefit of Russia. Find out what business has been transacted for the State Bank of Soviet Russia, by its correspondent, the Chase Bank of New York.”

“Mr. Chairman, I see no reason why the citizens of the United States should be terrorized into surrendering their property to the International Bankers who own and control the Federal Reserve.”

“The Great Depression resulting from the Stock Market crash was not accidental. It was a carefully contrived occurrence.... The international bankers sought to bring about a condition of despair here so they might emerge as rulers of us all.”

“What is needed here is a return to the Constitution of the United States. We need to have a complete divorce of Bank and State. The old struggle that was fought out here in Jackson’s day must be fought over again.... The Federal Reserve Act should be repealed and the Federal Reserve Bank’s, having violated their charters, should be liquidated immediately. Faithless Government officers who have violated their oaths of office should be impeached and brought to trial. Unless this is done by us, I predict that the American people, outraged, robbed, pillaged, insulted and betrayed as they are in their own land, will rise in their wrath and send a President here who will sweep the money changers out of the temple.”

* Dr. Oscar Levy Jewish Writer---“The question of the Jews and their influence on the world, past and present, cuts to the root of all things and should be discussed by every honest thinker.”

Eric Butler---“The Present issue of money in general does not correspond with the requirements per head, and cannot therefore satisfy all the needs of workers. The issue of money ought to correspond with the growth of population.”

* Rev. D. Kennedy-Bell, Vicar of St John’s, London, The Daily Mail,1925. “The only real experiment in setting up of Communism had resulted in tyranny being replaced by a tyranny ten thousand times more hideous.”

Major General, Count Cherep-Spiridovich---1926, Since 1789, his Red (Roth) Flag (Shield) is the adopted worldly signal for all bloodshed. “The Jews have made the World War.” Confirmed a Jew, Dr Oscar Levy of London. All wars, bloodshed and troubles are being prepared and started through their Executives-the Free Masonic Lodges, governed by the Jewish Central Chancellery-The Universal Israelite Alliance in Paris.” “The World since 1815, has practically been ruled by the Occult Jewish Dynasty of Rothschild’s, who are as Rulers of Germany, Austria, England, France, Italy, the United States and now they rule Russia through their pro-consuls the Jews, Brostein (alias Trotsky); Apfelbaum (Zinoviev); Rosenfeld (Kamenev) etc.”

As the former British Prime Minister of England during the late 1800’s Benjamin Disraeli wrote “So you see the world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are behind the scenes”. (Coningsby, The Century Co, N.Y. 1907, p. 233).

Lloyd George one time solicitor to the Zionist Movement; “In the States too, today there is a great force that creates the movement of thought in the people, and that is The Press.”

Lord George Bentinck; “The most skilful accumulators of property ally themselves with Communists, the peculiar and chosen race touch the hand of all scum and low castes of Europe and all this because they wish to destroy Christendom.”

Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Chairman of the Midland Bank--- “I am afraid the ordinary citizen will not like to be told that the banks can and do create and destroy money. The amount of finance in existence varies only with the action of the banks increasing or decreasing deposits and bank purchases. We know how this is affected. Every loan, overdraft or bank purchase creates a deposit, every repayment of a loan, overdraft or bank sale destroys a deposit. And they who control the credit of a nation direct the policy of governments, and hold in the hollow of their hands the destiny of the people.”

William Lyon Mackenzie King--- “Once a nation parts with the control of its currency and credit, it matters not who makes the nations laws. Usury, once in control, will wreck any nation. Until the control of the issue of currency and credit is restored to the government and recognized as its most sacred responsibility, all talk of the sovereignty of parliament and of democracy is idle and futile.”

Franklin Delano Roosevelt-United States President 1933 “The real truth of the matter is that a financial element in the large centres has owned the Government since the days of Andrew Jackson.”

Charles A. Lindbergh---“This Act (the Federal Reserve Act, Dec, 23rd 1913) establishes the most gigantic trust on earth. When the President (Woodrow Wilson) signs the bill, the invisible government of Monetary Power will be legalized.... The worst legislative crime of the ages is perpetrated by this banking and currency Bill.”

G.D. McDaniel---“If, as it appears, the experiment that was called 'America' is at an end... then perhaps a fitting epitaph would be... ' here lies America the greatest nation that might have been had it been for the Edomite bankers who first stole their money, used their stolen money to buy their politicians and press and lastly deprived them of their constitutional freedom by the most evil device yet created--- The Federal Reserve Banking System.”

William R. Mattox, Jr.---“In 1950, the average family of four paid 2% of its earnings to federal taxes. Today it pays 24%.

* Carroll Quigley---For the first time in it’s history, Western Civilization is in danger of being destroyed internally by a corrupt, criminal ruling cabal which is centered around the Rockefeller interests, which include elements from the Morgan, Brown, Rothschild, Du Pont, Harriman, Kuhn-Loeb, and other groupings as well. This Junta took control of the political, financial, and cultural life of America in the first two decades of the twentieth century.

Jesus of Nazareth---“And Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and brought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the money changers, and the seats of them that sold doves, and said unto them, ‘It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves.’”

President Andrew Jackson---“Gentlemen, I have been watching you for a long time and I am convinced that you have used the funds of the bank to speculate in the breadstuffs of the country. When you won, you divided the profits amongst you, and when you lost, you charged it to the bank. You tell me that if I take the deposits from the bank and annul its charter, I shall ruin ten thousand families. That may be true, gentlemen, but that is your sin! Should I let you go on, you will ruin fifty thousand families, and that would be my sin! You are a den of vipers and thieves.

Thomas Jefferson wrote to John Tyler the 10th United States President. “If ever the American people ever allow private banks to control the issuance of their currency, first by inflation and then by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all their property until their children wake up homeless on a continent their fathers’ conquered. I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies. The issuing power should be taken away from the banks and restored to the Government to whom it properly belongs.”

Sir Josiah Stamp---Banking was conceived in iniquity and was born in sin. The Bankers own the earth. Take it away from them, but leave them in power to create deposits, and with the flick of the pen they will create enough deposits, to buy it back again. However, take it away from them, and all the great fortunes like mine will disappear and they ought to disappear, for this would be a happier and better world to live in. But, if you wish to remain the slaves of Bankers and pay the cost of your own slavery, let them continue to create deposits.

The Changing Definition of Inflation:

Webster’s 1957, New Century Unabridged Dictionary of English Language;

Inflation---an increase in the amount of currency in circulation, resulting in a relatively sharp and sudden fall in it’s value and rise in prices.

Webster’s New Collegiate Dictionary 1979;

Inflation---an increase in the volume of money and credit relative to available goods resulting in a substantial and continuing rise in general price level.

This subtle change in definitions shows how the persons inflating, control things.

They have conned the public into thinking that inflation is part of the economy, caused by the market. It is not a natural process. It is caused by the current expanding and confiscatory monetary system.

John Maynard Keynes---1945.” By a continuing process of inflation, governments can confiscate, secretly and unobserved, an important part of the wealth of their citizens. There is no subtler, no surer, means of overturning the existing basis of society than to debauch the currency. The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which not one man in a million is able to diagnose. If, however, a government refrains from regulations and allows matters to take their own course, essential commodities soon attain a price out of the reach of all but the rich, the worthlessness of the money becomes apparent, and the fraud upon the public can be concealed no longer.”

G. Edward Griffen--- Inflation has now been institutionalized at a fairly constant 5% per year. This has been determined to be the optimum level for generating the most revenue without causing public alarm. A 5% devaluation applies, not only to the money earned this year, but to all that is left over from the previous years. At the end of the first year, a dollar is worth 95 cents. At the end of the second year, the 95 cents is reduced again by 5%, leaving its worth at 91.25 cents, and so on. By the time a person has worked 20 years, the government will have confiscated 64% of every dollar he saved over those years. By the time he has worked 45 years, the hidden tax will be 90% . The government will take virtually every thing a person saves over a lifetime.

Lord Acton—“Essays on the French Revolution,” wrote: “The appalling thing is not the Tumult, but the design. Through all the fire and smoke, we perceive the evidence of a calculating organization, the managers remained concealed or masked, but there is no doubt about their presence from the first.”

“The Jew evolved organized capitalism with its working instrumentality, the banking system.” “The American Hebrew,” September, 10, 1920.

“Without exaggeration it may be said that the great Russian social revolution was indeed accomplished by the hands of Jews..... The symbol of Jewry, which for centuries has struggled against capitalism, has also become the symbol of the Russian proletariat, which can be seen in the adoption of the Red five pointed star, which in former times, as is well known, was the symbol of Zionism and Jewry.” M. Cohen in the news paper “Communist.” (Kharoff) in April, 1919.

John Adams 1735-1826---“There are two ways to conquer and enslave a nation, one is by the sword, the other is by debt.”

Extract from the article by Professor Cassel in the London “Financial Times” in 1929. “Practically absolute power over the welfare of the world has been placed in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board. And one is appalled to see the apparently haphazard manner in which the Board uses this power.”

David Rockefeller-Council of Foreign Relations---We are grateful to the Washington Post, The New York Times, Time Magazine and other great publications who’s directors have attended our meetings and respected their promises of discretions for almost 40 years it would have been impossible for us to develop our plan for the world if we had been subjected to the lights of publicity during those years. But, the world is more sophisticated and prepared to march towards World Government. The Supranational Sovereignty of an Intellectual elite and World Bankers is surely preferable to the national auto-determination practiced in past centuries.

Lord Acton--- 1834-1902 “Power corrupts Absolute power corrupts absolutely.” “The issue which has drifted down through the centuries and one which will have to be fought sooner than later is the people verses the banks.”

Paul Warburg-Council of Foreign Relations/Architect of the Federal Reserve System. “We shall have World Government whether or not we like it. The only question is whether World Government will be achieved by conquest or consent.”

Mel Gibson---Vanity Fair, 1997, “I mean, why go in and take a country with a bayonet when you can use the banking system.”

Mel Gibson---2008 “Jews where responsible for all the wars in History.”

Jeff Davy, 2010, “If you won’t stand up and Fight for Justice, Liberty and Freedom, true freedom. Freedom from debt for your children, grandchildren and your country then you are a Coward.”

“ Defeat the Money Power Fight for a National Credit Bank.”

The Citizens Electoral Council is the only political party in Australia that has the establishment of a New National Credit Bank in their Platform to fund the New Infrastructure Projects the legislation is already drawn up in their 1984 book “What Australia Must Do To Survive The Depression.” For as little as twenty dollars you can become a supporter of the CEC a small price to pay for something that might save your nation, you and your family from destruction.

“Money is a creation of man, therefore man creates money”

Bank’s never lend out what they have received from depositors.

Every new loan is created out of nothing.

When a bank buys a prominent site or building costs the bank nothing because they honor their own cheques.

When a bank sponsors a major sporting event cost the bank nothing because they honor their own cheques.

King Kaid of India

The great King Kaid of India was growing weary. For years he had been a mighty warrior, but now all his enemies were conquered; there were no rebels in his realm, and the neighboring countries paid their tribute regularly. "I cannot go to war without a cause," said Kaid, "for that would be displeasing to the gods, and I should go down to posterity as a wicked oppressor. Yet there is nothing else that interests me. I would give anything to the man who would invent some means of interesting me and so make the time pass quickly." There were many courtiers present. And one man, an aged sage, paid a good deal of attention to what the King had said. He went home and retired to a room, taking with him a pen and parchment. For days the old man remained in this apartment by himself, coming out only to eat his meals. At last, after a fortnight, he sent for Talachand, a skilful carver of ivory, and commanded him to make thirty two little figures after patterns which he described to the carver. There were to be two Kings two queens, four warriors on horse back, two castles modeled after a famous stronghold near Delhi, and other figures of different sizes and shapes. Half of these were to be white and the other half red. Talachand worked hard at the figures, and in another fortnight brought them to the wise man, who was very pleased with them. Meanwhile, the sage had ordered a curious board from a wood worker in the bazaar. It was square, and contained sixty four smaller squares, Alternately red and white. Such a curious board had not been seen before, and many people were puzzled to think what its use could be. At last, when the board was finished, and the figures were all ready, the wise man carried them to the King's palace. As soon as his presence was announced, the King summoned him to his chamber. "Sire," said the old man, "you promised to fulfill any request that might be made by the man who was able to interest your Majesty in some new occupation. Does that promise still hold good?" "It does," replied the King. "I will do anything for the man who can save me from weariness." "Well," continued the old man, arranging the ivory figures carefully upon the board in two pairs of rows facing each other, "here is a new kind of warfare your Majesty, a warfare in which no blood is shed, no towns are burned, no children are orphaned, but which will give you plenty of excitement and will tax your powers of strategy if you are able to win." Already the King was interested; and, as the old man showed how the warfare of the ivory figures was waged on the battle ground of chequered board, the King grew excited and his weariness fled. "This white King is your Majesty," said the old man; "and if you are to win the battle, you must keep a clear mind, for it is by skill and not by force that success comes in this war."

Then the old man showed how the different figures were to move on the board, some going across in either direction, and others moving diagonally. Some moved over many squares at one time and others over one square only. For weeks the King studied this new kind of warfare, in which no one was slain. And after a time felt he had made himself a master of it, and he called the game "the King," or "Chess," which means the same thing. "What shall I give you?" question the monarch. "Ask me anything you like, and you shall receive it, to the half of my kingdom."

"I want neither gold nor jewels," said the old man. "All I ask is that your Majesty shall give me one grain of corn for the first square on the chessboard double that for the second square, double that again for the third, and so on – that is, I am to have one, two, four, eight, sixteen, and so on up to the sixty fourth square; simply that, and nothing more.” “Of course you can have that,” replied the King; “but it is nothing for what you have done. Let me add a hundred lacs of rupees?” “No your Majesty,” said the old man, modestly; “I am grateful for your generosity, but give me only the corn that I ask for and I shall be content.” “Very well,” replied the King; and, calling his treasurer, he told him to count up the number of grains.

“I must ask your Majesty to send them to me,” added the wise man; and to this the King agreed, although he could not understand, he said, why the old man could not take so small a reward with him. The treasurer went away, but after an hour or two he returned in great consternation. “Have you sent the old man his reward?” asked the King Kaid. “No, your Majesty,” replied the treasurer; it is impossible. He has asked for more than the value of your Kingdom.” “What do you mean?” demanded the King severely, looking greatly astonished. “Why, your Majesty, to give one grain for the first square, two for the second, four for the third, and so on to the sixty fourth, means that he is to have 18,446,744,073,709,551,615. Quintillion grains of corn. Not a thousandth part of this corn exists in the world, for its value at two shillings a bushel is $3,385,966,293,667.” The King could not believe his treasurer until the sum was worked out in his presence, and then the King, too was in dismay. At this moment the wise man appeared to ask again for his reward. The King, in great alarm, asked him if he realized what his request meant. “But,” said the old man, “Your Majesty has solemnly promised to give me what I asked, even to half your Kingdom.” The King was silent. Then, after a few moments, the wise man said: “King I cave no reward for having taught your Majesty that there are other things of interest in life beside slaughter and fire; and, if I have made the greatest of monarchs realize that even he cannot fulfill every rash promise, made without thought and pride of heart, then I shall have been rewarded for inventing a game that men of all ages and countries may yet come to delight in.” And chess, was thus invented.

Ministry of Education, The Victorian Readers, Fifth Book, 1928.

Nikola Tesla was born in Smiljan Lika, Croatia in 1856. Tesla studied engineering at the Austrian Polytechnic School. He worked as a electrical engineer in Budapest and later emigrated to the United States in 1884 to work at the Edison Machine Works. During his lifetime, Tesla invented fluorescent lighting, the Tesla induction motor, the Tesla coil, alternating current (AC) electrical supply that included a motor and transformer, 3 phase power. Tesla is now credited with inventing the modern radio as well; since the Supreme Court overturned Guglieimo Marconi’s patent in 1943 in favor of Nikola Tesla’s earlier patent’s. The Tesla coil, invented in 1891, is still used in radio and television sets and other electronic equipment today. Ten years after patenting a successful method for producing alternating current, Nikola Tesla claimed that he had invented an electrical generator that would not consume any fuel. Tesla stated that he had harnessed cosmic rays and that his invention had caused them to operate a motive device. In 1885, George Westinghouse, head of the Westinghouse Electric Company, brought the patent rights to Tesla’s system of dynamos, transformers, motors and this invention has been lost to the public and to the world. (A whole system of universal power that needs no fuel.) In total Nikola Tesla was granted more than one hundred patent’s and invented countless more unpatented inventions, he is credited with the second industrial revolution. He was more famous than Thomas Edison through out the 1890’s. J.P Morgan and John Jacob Astor underwrote his laboratory work which explains why his Cosmic Generator never saw its potential.(You can't charge people for something that uses no fuel) His invention of polyphase electric power earned him worldwide fame and fortune, His alternating current system was used to light the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893 in Chicago. He died on January 7th, 1943 in New York, destitute.

“We are intruders, we are subverters, We have taken your natural world, your ideals, your destiny, and played havoc with them. We have been at the bottom not merely the last great war, but of nearly all your wars; not only of the Russian, but every other revolution in history.” Marcus Eli Ravage, 1928, New York Times staff member, “Century Magazine.” Rumanian Jew.

One hundred years after Napoleon's death a prominent Jewish Scholar, Dr Oscar Levy wrote: “We Jews, have made the World War, There is scarcely an event in modern Europe which cannot be traced back to the Jews ..The Jewish elements provide the driving force for both Communism and Capitalism... We are today nothing but the world's seducers, its destroyers, its incendiaries, its executioners. Our last revolution is not yet made. We Jews, invented the myth of the ‘Chosen people’.” Jewish Scholar, Dr. Oscar Levy. 1920.

H G. Wells---“When I wrote the ‘Outline of History’ I slowly gained the conviction which crystallized itself later on into a positive idea, that the great Roman Empire was ruin not only from outside by the storming barbarians; but also by the internal financial difficulties, by the indebtedness of all social classes, and by the heavy burden of taxation, until, under these financial burdens, the whole scaffolding of imperialism broke down. It is dreadful to watch how gradually the same symptoms of decadence become visible in the great empires of the modern world.”

William Shakespeare—(Edward Devere) “Money as the external, universal medium and faculty appears as the distorting power both against the individual and against the bonds of society, which claim to be entities in themselves. It transforms fidelity into infidelity, love into hate, virtue into vice, servant into master and intelligence into idiocy. Since money, as the existing and active concept of value, confounds and confuses all things, it is the general confounding and confusing of all things, the world upside down—the confounding and confusing of all natural and human qualities.”

Winston Churchill--- “Most people, sometime in their lives, stumble across the truth. Most jump up, brush themselves off and hurry on about their business as if nothing happened. We have nothing to fear from the truth, if that, in fact, is what we are really seeking.”

Edmund Burke---“The only thing for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing.”

American President, Abraham Lincoln—“Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end, dare to do our duty as we understand it to be.”

John Fitzgerald Kennedy---“The greater our knowledge increases the more our ignorance unfolds.”

J. P. Morgan---“Capital must protect itself in every way..... Debts must be collected and loans and mortgages foreclosed as soon as possible. When through a process of law the common people have lost their homes, they will be more tractable and more easily governed by the strong arm of the law applied by the central power of leading financiers. People without homes will not quarrel with their leaders. This is well known among our principle men now engaged in forming an imperialism of capitalism to govern the world. By dividing the people we can get them to expand their energies in fighting over questions of no importance to us except as teachers of the common herd.

YOU HAVE JUST COMPLETED READING THE FINAL CHAPTERS IN MY BOOK ENEMIES OF HUMANITY, SATANIC FORCES, IS AUSTRALIA IN PERIL,YES.

This book will be dedicated to my late grandfather who was one of four boys who were given five hundred pounds each in 1907 from my great grandfather's estate and to my grandmother after a misdealing with a banker and real-estate agent traveled to Kingaroy, Queensland from Boort, Victoria on a horse and dray with their belongings. Where they cleared two farms from the Queensland scrub, built two houses by hand under the hot Queensland sun and after a prolonged period of drought only to have their life's work and sweat taken by a banker that created the money out of nothing in the first place. And also to my late father who at the age of 19 was in Palestine fighting in World War 11, that was not only well planned but extremely profitable for a select group of International bankers that brought about a homeland for them.

And to my mother who taught me right from wrong and I'm hoping that your mother did the same for you.

In his own words

(11) " For we are opposed around the world by a monolithic and ruthless conspiracy that relies primarily on covert means for expanding its sphere of influence—on infiltration instead of invasion, on subversion instead of elections, on intimidation instead of free choice, on guerillas by night instead of armies by day. It is system which has conscripted fast human and material resources into the building of a tightly knit, highly efficient machine that combines military, diplomatic, intelligence, economic, scientific and political operations. Its preparations are concealed, not published. Its mistakes are buried, not headlined. Its dissenters are silenced, not praised. No expenditure is questioned, no rumor is printed, no secret is revealed it conducts the cold war, in short, with a war-time discipline no democracy would ever hope or wish to match..... Today no war has been declared—however fierce the struggle may be, it may never be declared in the traditional fashion. Our way of life is under attack. Those who make themselves our enemies are advancing around the globe. The survival of our friends is in danger. And yet no war has been declared, no borders crossed by marching troops, no missiles have been fired.”

John F. Kennedy. 1963

The following is part of a letter from Jim Garrison to Dawn Meredith 1/8/1986. People like you, who are interested in perceiving the truth, can save a great deal of time by dismissing outright the Agency’s smoke screen of a false “Mafia-Castro,” assassination scenario to anyone with a grain of intelligence it should be apparent that John Kennedy was eliminated by forces desiring the continuation of the Cold War-an artificial conflict draining the assets of and greatly changing for the worse, the character of the nation. The clandestine arm for those Cold War forces was the Central Intelligence Agency-the destructive talents of which run the gambit from deception to murder. And John Kennedy-from his refusal to provide Naval Air back-up for the Agency’s hapless attempt to invade Cuba at the Bay of Pigs. All the way to his decision in 1963, to withdraw totally from South Vietnam-was in the process of cutting off the lifeline of the Cold War warriors. In summary, there is no mystery about who killed Kennedy, nor is there any mystery as to why it was done. That is what my book explains.”

Regards Jim Garrison.

“What kind of peace do I mean? And what kind of peace do we seek? Not a Pax Americana, enforced on the world by American weapons of war, we must re-examine our own attitudes toward the Soviet Union. Our most basic common link, is that we all inhabit this small planet, we all breath the same air, we all cherish our children’s future and we are all mortal.”
